Facing Destruction.
Wet, Dry, Part Wet.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

ANDREW FURUSETH, head of the Seamen's union, a fine old sailor, says unions "face destruction" at the hands of the courts, and suggests "it may be necessary for us to tell courts that enjoin us we refuse to answer your questions, we refuse to recognize you, etc.

MR. FURUSETH is earnest and honest, and labor unions, compelling employers to pay decent wages have in past times been powerful in increasing general prosperity.

But those unions really will "face destruction" on the day they decide to overrule the courts. That must be done only through the ballot box, not in the backroom of any labor union or corporation.

RHODE ISLAND, including Newport and its luxury, is Republican and wet.

New York is wet on the Democratic side, half wet and half dry on the Republican side.

The rest of the country is partly wet, partly dry, more dry than wet.

In New York's Democratic club, including all good Tammany men, a 30-gallon still for manufacturing whisky is discovered in the cellar, most appropriately.

Indignation is aroused by the size of the still, only a 30-gallon still. The club has thousands of members. Thirty gallons is ridiculous.

YOU have not read this before.

Mrs. Sarah Fanades, aged 37, quarreled with her husband, Theodore, and to prove her point jumped down the dumb waiter shaft, shouting "here I go."

He shouted after her, "I am on my day down, too," and jumped, landing, very much like a man on his wife's unconscious body. They are both in the hospital, may recover, and live to be reconciled.

A GERMAN scientist has photographed the inside of a human stomach, using blue light. If some men, 90 per cent, could have such a photograph taken, after dinner, it would horrify them.

MAIL CLERKS ARE INJURED IN DERAILMENT NEAR DENNISON

Second Section of "American," is in Smash-up.

CAR OVERTURNS

Engine, Three Sleepers and Other Coaches in Crash.

DENNISON, O., Oct. 16.—Four mail clerks were injured when one engine, a mail car, and club car and three sleepers of the "American," crack Pennsylvania railroad train from New York to St. Louis, were derailed near here early today.

It was the second section of the train and was made up of 10 cars, reports reaching here from the scene stated. No cause of the derailment was given.

Engine Jumps Track.

The clerks injured when the mail car plunged down the fifty foot embankment and landed upside down, were:

Allen McCue, of St. Louis; W. E. Harris, of Pittsburgh; D. C. Carson, of Greenup, Ill., and H. H. Gregg, of Newark, Ohio.

They received only scratches and bruises, gathered up the scattered mail and continued their trip with it on another train.

AUTOIST FINED $30 AND COSTS

Jack Rollins, Frankfort Springs, Pa., was fined $30 and costs when he pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Hanley in police court today to a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. W. W. Ralston, who was with him in the car at the time of his arrest, drew a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication.

Ralston was arrested Friday morning, charged with operating an auto while intoxicated, and upon arraignment was fined $50 and costs. He claimed that Rollins was driving him home yesterday afternoon when they were arrested on Second street by Chief McDermott and Patrolman Roth.

Woman is Injured In Hilltop Crash Of Auto and Truck

Mrs. J. A. Van Dyne, Negley street, received a minor injury to her head when the touring car, driven by her husband, and in which she was a passenger, and a Woodbine Laundry company truck collided on the Lincoln highway, near the Pleasant Heights school, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Van Dyne was headed north, while the truck was coming south, the two machines meeting head-on. Van Dyne and John O'Rourke, driver of the truck, were unhurt. Mrs. Van Dyne was taken to her home by Harry Walker, one of the laundry company owners, and later attended by Dr. H. A. Turk.

Both machines, which were badly damaged, were removed by the McCamon Motor Car company's wrecking car.

Dahlias and Gladioli—truck load today, Broadway and Sixth, Maplewood Greenhouses.

PITTSBURGH'S LABOR BANK IS CLOSED

EXAMINERS ON JOB AS PRESIDENT R. A. M'CRADY REPORTS $320,000 LOSS

Three Officials of Institution are Held by City Detectives on "Suspicious Person" Charges, While Investigators Check Story of Huge Sum Turned Over to Bond Salesman.

ALLEGED THAT CHARLES E. KNAPP FAILED TO DELIVER SECURITIES

Scores of Bank's 3,000 Depositors Line Streets in Front of Building When Investigators Lock Doors Pending Thorough Check of Books, as Result of Purported Swindle.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—State bank examiners took charge of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust company, Pittsburgh's only labor bank today, while a thorough investigation of the bank's reported loss of $320,000 to $425,000 to a bond salesman, was launched.

Three officials of the bank were held by city detectives on "suspicious person" charges, while the investigators checked the story of R. A. McCrady, president of the bank, that he turned over the huge sum to Charles E. Knapp, a bond salesman who was to deliver the bonds at McCrady's office, but who disappeared.

Knapp has not been located, but orders to apprehend him were sent to all nearby towns, where detectives believe he might have gone after McCrady says he received the money.

The three bank officials held are McCrady, William Kelly, vice president, and J. L. Nelson, treasurer. Frank Redman, who is said to have introduced Knapp to President McCrady, was held on a similar technical charge pending investigation.

McCrady's Story of Bond Deal.

The bank did not open for business today. Scores of the bank's 3,000 depositors lined the streets in front of the institution, but bank examiners said the bank's doors will remain closed until a thorough check of the bank's affairs is made.

The alleged swindle occurred, according to McCrady, after Knapp came to him and offered to sell $800,000 in bonds for $425,000. McCrady did not disclose the ownership of the bonds. He said Knapp told him the owner was badly in need of money and willing to make the sacrifice.

McCrady turned the money over to Knapp in a downtown law office late yesterday, he told detectives, and both men left in a taxicab. McCrady said he left the cab to attend to a personal matter, with the understanding that Knapp would bring the bonds to his office. When the latter did not appear after several hours, McCrady became alarmed and notified police.

Marines Ordered To Protect Postal Cars, Mail Trucks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The federal government decided today to call out the U. S. Marines to protect postal cars and mail trucks carrying valuable consignments of mail from the depredations of bandits.

The move was decided upon at a conference between Postmaster General Harry S. New and Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, following approval of the plan at yesterday's cabinet meeting.

Return from State Conference.

Probation Officer John McShane and Mrs. Harvey McHenry of this city have returned from Cincinnati where they attended the 36th annual meeting of the Ohio Welfare Conference held in Hotel Gibson, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

FOR SALE—Fresh cider and apples, custom pressing Tues. and Friday at Vodrey Orchard.

First Degree Count is Returned Against Former Inmate of State Insane Asylum.

URBANA, O., Sept. 16.—After deliberating all day yesterday, a special grand jury today returned a first degree indictment against Harry Sprague, 40, World war veteran and former inmate of the state insane asylum at Columbus, who shot and killed Sheriff Jacob K. Boslern, 56, last Sunday night when Boslern attempted to arrest him on complaint of Sprague's wife, who said he had threatened to kill her.

The indictment contained two counts, one charging murder and the other charging Sprague with shooting an officer of the law in performance of his duty.

Sprague is held in the county jail here.

Book Review Will Feature Ministers' Program on Monday

W. H. Nagel, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will review Stanley Jones, book, "Christ and The Indian Road," at a meeting of the Ministerial association at the Y. M. C. A. Monday morning.

One Dead, One Hurt in Crash.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 16.—Fifteen-year-old Terence Pope was killed and Oliver Hunter, 35, probably fatally injured when their bread truck was struck by a B. & O. railroad passenger train here today.

LOS ANGELES AT LAKEHURST AFTER RACE TO AVOID STORM

Navy Dirigible Flees to Hudson River Valley.

VISITS BUFFALO

Crew Eats Chicken Dinner as Blimp Speeds Eastward.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 16.—After a race across several states to avoid a storm brewing in the west, the Los Angeles, giant navy dirigible, returned here safely at 4:40 a. m. today and was landed on the field by 6:50 a. m. It left Detroit yesterday afternoon at 3:40 o'clock and fled before the storm to the Hudson river valley where the big ship outdistanced it.

With the memory of the Shenandoah's fate in Ohio last year in mind, Lieutenant-Commander Rosendahl cast loose when he heard the storm was coming toward him.

Speeding eastward at 75 miles an hour the crew members wirelessed they were enjoying a chicken dinner, furnished by the Ford Motor Company. The big ship passed over Buffalo at 9:30 o'clock and over Rochester at 10:25 last night.

Abbreviate Detroit Stay.

Although the Los Angeles abbreviated its visit at Detroit by 18 hours when the storm threat arose, its principal mission was completed when it was safely moored to the $100,000 mooring mast which had been especially built for it by Henry Ford at his private airport at Dearborn, Mich.

The dirigible was to have participated today in the dedication of a municipal airport at Youngstown, Ohio, named in memory of Lieut.-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, commander of the ill-fated Shenandoah, who lost his life with his ship in a storm over Ohio last year. At the approach of the storm today, which Lieut.-Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, commanding the Los Angeles, feared might prove similar to that which wrecked the Shenandoah, caused him to make a precipitate flight homeward.

FIRE DESTROYS "STEEL QUEEN"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—The "Steel Queen," steamboat, owned by the Fidelity Ferry company, Pittsburgh, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin and its hull sunk while it was tied up in the Ohio river here today. The loss was estimated at $75,000.

The "Steel Queen," a two-deck boat, had been operated by the Ferry company, a subsidiary of the Pressed Steel Car company.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Mrs. Ella Leigh, 73, was found dead in her home, 919 1-2 Bank street, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon by her husband, David S. Leigh, when he returned home. Death was attributed to heart failure.

France Defers Debt Action.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The French government will not ask for ratification of the British and American debt settlements before February, it was learned authoritatively today.

The delay has been decided upon in the hopes that the November elections in the United States and the French senatorial election in January may change the situation.

John Hunker Taken To Belmont County To Face Indictment

John Hunker, automobile mechanic, who was arrested by Patrolmen Haley and Roth last night as the result of an indictment returned against him in Belmont county, charging abandonment of his children, was taken to St. Clairsville today by Deputy Sheriff Pearce. The indictment was returned upon information of Hunker's divorced wife.

Jean Blair Wood Funeral Services At East Palestine

Body of Mrs. Jean Blair Wood, formerly of East Liverpool, who ended her life Thursday when she walked into the ocean at Atlantic City, will be taken to East Palestine for burial, members of the family announced today.

Funeral services will be conducted in the East Palestine United Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial will be made in the East Palestine cemetery.

Princess Hates Cosmetics, But She Uses Chewing Gum

ABOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 16.—This is staggering news for the American flapper.

"I hate paint and powder," declared Princess Ileana of Rumania in an interview with the correspondents on board the Leviathan with Queen Marie.

The princess, however, confessed that she is striving to learn the intricacies of the management of American chewing gum and she is enthusiastic over American automobiles.

PATTERSON LOW ON SECOND JOB

Bids Under Engineer's Estimate for St. Clair Resurfacing.

But one of the three bids submitted yesterday for the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue between Young's alley and the north line of the J. T. Croxall property were within the engineer's estimate, according to figures compiled by City Engineer Flay Clapsaddle and submitted to the board of control today.

The engineer's estimate was $9,174.99, the Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company of this city offered $9,262.97 for asphaltic concrete, Willite process, and $9,624.27 for sheet asphalt, Willite process. George Patterson, Wellsville, who was awarded the Fourth street improvement job yesterday submitted a bid of $8,280.17 for amiesite, also a skid-proof asphal-

SECRET SERVICE OPERATIVE ASSIGNED AS BODYGUARD FOR YOUNG JOHN COOLIDGE AT AMHERST COLLEGE AFTER RECEIPT OF 'CRANK LETTERS'

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 16.—John Coolidge, son of the president, was the center of a crowd of bantering students on Amherst college campus this forenoon.

"Where's the bodyguard, John?" inquired one of John's classmates, referring to Colonel Edward W. Starling of the United States secret service, who has been assigned to guard the son of the chief executive.

"Oh, he only works nights," John shouted back.

"What about the threatening letters written by the crank. What's the big idea of the night guard, John?" put in another student.

"I guess dad's afraid I'll get married or do something rash like that—that's all there is to it," replied young Coolidge, laughingly.

The president's son took the matter of a bodyguard goodnaturedly, saying he didn't mind having the colonel along at night at all.

He Works at Night.

"I don't mind the colonel along," continued John. "He's a mighty fine man. He isn't around during the day. When I go out at night the colonel goes with me—parties, dances and everywhere. He comes along with me and I introduce him and that's the end of it."

John, a junior at Amherst, occupies a suite in the home of Mrs. Emma F. Lindsey, Northampton road. Colonel Starling has headquerters there too.

Reports from Washington stated that it was learned at the White House that Colonel Starling was assigned to Amherst because of threatening letters regarding John—that the president decided to take no chances.

Neither John nor the Colonel would discuss the matter with newspapermen.

President George D. Olds of Amherst said:

"I heard the report that John was being given the protection of a secret service man but I have not the remotest idea why such a move should be made at this time."

John is a popular member of the junior class, is very fond of athletics and outdoor life and does considerable studying.

Mentor aind Guard.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—"Crank letters" which threatened bodily harm to young John Coolidge, son of the president, are responsible for a secret service operative having been assigned temporarily to Amherst college where John is attending school.

E. W. Starling, for many years attached to the White House secret service staff, will act as John's companion, mentor and guard for the present. How long the guard will be maintained is not known.

The White House declined to furnish any details as to the threats said to have been made against young Coolidge, but they are reported to have reached Mrs. Coolidge nad caused her some nervousness.

Must Keep "Out of Papers.

It will also be a part of Starling's job at Amherst to keep young John "out of the papers." The president is much averse to having the activities of his son portrayed in newspapers. He was particularly displeased, it is understood, by the wide publicity given a boxing bout in which John figured at Amherst last year.

"Crank letters" are no novelty to occupants of the White House. The monthly quota of such missives runs high. Usually they are of the harmless variety, but occasionally there are some of ugly nature, nad these are turned over to the secret service for investigation. The writers, when they can be located, are usually detained and questioned and if there is any question of their sanity they are turned over to local authorities for commitment to institutions.

Funeral services will be conducted in the East Palestine United Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial will be made in the East Palestine cemetery.

Princess Hates Cosmetics, But She Uses Chewing Gum

ABOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 16.—This is staggering news for the American flapper.

"I hate paint and powder," declared Princess Ileana of Rumania in an interview with the correspondents on board the Leviathan with Queen Marie.

The princess, however, confessed that she is striving to learn the intricacies of the management of American chewing gum and she is enthusiastic over American automobiles.

PATTERSON LOW ON SECOND JOB

Bids Under Engineer's Estimate for St. Clair Resurfacing.

But one of the three bids submitted yesterday for the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue between Young's alley and the north line of the J. T. Croxall property were within the engineer's estimate, according to figures compiled by City Engineer Flay Clapsaddle and submitted to the board of control today.

The engineer's estimate was $9,174.99, the Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company of this city offered $9,262.97 for asphaltic concrete, Willite process, and $9,624.27 for sheet asphalt, Willite process. George Patterson, Wellsville, who was awarded the Fourth street improvement job yesterday submitted a bid of $8,280.17 for amiesite, also a skid-proof asphal-

SECRET SERVICE OPERATIVE ASSIGNED AS BODYGUARD FOR YOUNG JOHN COOLIDGE AT AMHERST COLLEGE AFTER RECEIPT OF 'CRANK LETTERS'

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 16.—John Coolidge, son of the president, was the center of a crowd of bantering students on Amherst college campus this forenoon.

"Where's the bodyguard, John?" inquired one of John's classmates, refering to Colonel Edward W. Starling of the United States secret service, who has been assigned to guard the son of the chief executive.

"Oh, he only works nights," John shouted back.

"What about the threatening letters written by the crank. What's the big idea of the night guard, John?" put in another student.

"I guess dad's afraid I'll get married or do something rash like that—that's all there is to it," replied young Coolidge, laughingly.

The president's son took the matter of a bodyguard goodnaturedly, saying he didn't mind having the colonel along at night at all.

He Works at Night.

"I don't mind the colonel along," continued John. "He's a mighty fine man. He isn't around during the day. When I go out at night the colonel goes with me—parties, dances and everywhere. He comes along with me and I introduce him and that's the end of it."

John, a junior at Amherst, occupies a suite in the home of Mrs. Emma F. Lindsey, Northampton road. Colonel Starling has headquerters there too.

Reports from Washington stated that it was learned at the White House that Colonel Starling was assigned to Amherst because of threatening letters regarding John—that the president decided to take no chances.

Neither John nor the Colonel would discuss the matter with newspapermen.

President George D. Olds of Amherst said:

"I heard the report that John was being given the protection of a secret service man but I have not the remotest idea why such a move should be made at this time."

John is a popular member of the junior class, is very fond of athletics and outdoor life and does considerable studying.

Mentor aind Guard.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—"Crank letters" which threatened bodily harm to young John Coolidge, son of the president, are responsible for a secret service operative having been assigned temporarily to Amherst college where John is attending school.

E. W. Starling, for many years attached to the White House secret service staff, will act as John's companion, mentor and guard for the present. How long the guard will be maintained is not known.

The White House declined to furnish any details as to the threats said to have been made against young Coolidge, but they are reported to have reached Mrs. Coolidge nad caused her some nervousness.

Must Keep "Out of Papers.

It will also be a part of Starling's job at Amherst to keep young John "out of the papers." The president is much averse to having the activities of his son portrayed in newspapers. He was particularly displeased, it is understood, by the wide publicity given a boxing bout in which John figured at Amherst last year.

"Crank letters" are no novelty to occupants of the White House. The monthly quota of such missives runs high. Usually they are of the harmless variety, but occasionally there are some of ugly nature, nad these are turned over to the secret service for investigation. The writers, when they can be located, are usually detained and questioned and if there is any question of their sanity they are turned over to local authorities for commitment to institutions.

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

450. Should the church class expect the same persecutions as the prophets of old received at the hands of the religious element?

Answer: Yes. See Matthew 5:11,12—"For so persecuted they the prophets that were before you."

451. Should they expect to be reviled, that is, spoken to in abusive language?

Answer: Yes. Matthew 5:11.

452. Should they expect to be lied about?

Answer: Yes. See Matthew 5:11, last part.

453. For what cause were these experiences to come to them?

Answer: Because of their faithfulness to the Lord and His truth; "for my (or Lord's) sake." Matt. 5:11.

454. Should every true Christian expect persecution in some form?

Answer: "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution."—II Timothy 3:12.

455. What is it to live "in Christ Jesus"?

Answer: To become members of His body (I Corinthians 12:12-14,27), taking Him for our Head — Colossians 1:18.

456. Did our Lord Jesus promise an earthly or a heavenly reward to the church class who endure persecution, etc.?

Answer: A heavenly reward; for He said to them: "Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven."—Matthew 5:11,12. See also verse 10.

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

450. Should the church class expect the same persecutions as the prophets of old received at the hands of the religious element?

Answer: Yes. See Matthew 5:11,12—"For so persecuted they the prophets that were before you."

451. Should they expect to be reviled, that is, spoken to in abusive language?

Answer: Yes. Matthew 5:11.

452. Should they expect to be lied about?

Answer: Yes. See Matthew 5:11, last part.

453. For what cause were these experiences to come to them?

Answer: Because of their faithfulness to the Lord and His truth; "for my (or Lord's) sake." Matt. 5:11.

454. Should every true Christian expect persecution in some form?

Answer: "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution."—II Timothy 3:12.

455. What is it to live "in Christ Jesus"?

Answer: To become members of His body (I Corinthians 12:12-14,27), taking Him for our Head — Colossians 1:18.

456. Did our Lord Jesus promise an earthly or a heavenly reward to the church class who endure persecution, etc.?

Answer: A heavenly reward; for He said to them: "Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven."—Matthew 5:11,12. See also verse 10.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

Myers Cooper Asks Ohioans to Elect G. O. P. Legislature

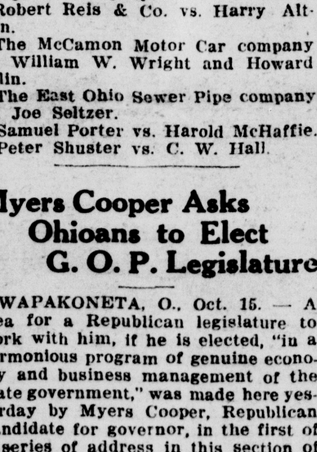

WAPAKONETA, O., Oct. 15. — A plea for a Republican legislature to work with him, if he is elected, "in a harmonious program of genuine economy and business management of the state government," was made here yesterday by Myers Cooper, Republican candidate for governor, in the first of a series of address in this section of the state.

"If you will elect the Republican state ticket and a law-making branch to co-operate with them we will show the people of Ohio that a dollar can be made to go as far in government as in private business," Cooper declared.

Wanted in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—John Hickman, 30, and his brother Montrose Hickman, 22, to whom was issued the automobile license tag found on the car in which the slayers of Daniel Garrett, Chillicothe police officer, were riding, are wanted here for alleged participation in several gasoline filling station holdups, Detective Chief W. G. Shellenberger, said today.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1926.

Last Day of Registration

Unless an elector has been 50 miles or more distant from his home precinct on each of the four designated days—Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 15 and 16—today is the last chance he shall have to register in East Liverpool, the only city in Columbiana county in which the formality is required.

Failure to qualify will result in disfranchisement on Tuesday, Nov. 2, when East Liverpool will pass judgment upon two local issue—a proposed $225,000 bond issue for the erection of a municipal building and a 2.3 mill tax levy for school operating expenses—as well as a proposed constitutional amendment to modify the present primary system and elect state, district and county governments.

Few names were added to the books yesterday and during the morning and early afternoon today. However, registrars will be on duty in the respective precincts tonight from 5-to 10 o'clock, when they will also issue transfers to electors who have changed their place of residence since the August primaries.

If you neglected to enroll in 1924, or preceding a subsequent election, you shall be deprived of the suffrage right unless you register tonight. It is your duty to qualify.

Italian Exiles

What little gain of population France has is mostly Italian. Of 207,0000 Italians who emigrated last year, 174,000 went to France.

Formerly they would have come to America; now the quota system keeps them out, and France, close by, welcomes them. There they settle largely in areas which are in danger of depopulation, in a congenial climate and among a congenial race, and often find personal prosperity while contributing to the prosperity of France.

Mussolini rages at it. He wants those Italians to stay at home and work for "the new Italy." But they cross the border because they cannot endure Italian tyranny. It is Mussolini who drives them out. Having democratic principles, they seek freedom in exile, like the Germans who came to America in the middle of the last century.

Many scatter forth to more distant lands. More would go if they could get away. They are patriots who want to see Italy made great, but they believe that Italians who acquiesce in the Fascist regime are paying too great a price for greatness. Also that no greatness built on the will of one man can endure.

Radio Makes Musicians

What has five-year-old radio done to music? The prophecy made when broadcasting began was that it would make people musically lazy and unproductive. Everybody would be content to listen to music, refusing to do the work necessary to play and sing, or to compose, or even to develop the finest appreciation. Creative music was done for.

Musicians now testify that radio has done no such thing. There are more than twice as many young people attending musical schools as there were before the radio era, and there are more than twice as many musical instuments sold.

"Everytime a competent band or orchestra broadcasts a radio program," says an instrument manufacturer, "another musician is born." Normal boys and girls have the creative instinct, and wider opportunity to hear good music awakens it to an extent never known before.

Picking Out Air Ports

Albany, N. Y., is preparing to establish an airport, particularly for the accommodation of hydro-airplanes—which in plain English are airboats. Such craft, at home alike in the air and on the water, will follow a natural route up the Hudson from New York to Albany and thence westward along the Great Lakes.

City after city is following a similar policy, not only along the interior waterways of the country but at strategic points of traffic intersection everywhere.

Many a city or town now comparatively unimportant will rise to continental importance hereafter because of its foresight in this respect. Many a real estate investor, too, will make a fortune by figuring out, early in the game, a natural spot for such a port. There are places now wholly unoccupied and apparently worthless that will be busy transportation centers in 20 or 30 years.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—No city in the world is quite so curious as this. A Lamb's Club joker used pick out a deserted side street at night and begin lighting matches in apparent hunt for a lost article. In no time the street would fill and he would pounce on a penny and move away.

The ordinary proceedure of fitting a tire to an auto rim will line the curb. A safe hoisting usually requires an extra platoon of police. The personal appearance of a movie star makes Broadway impassable. The other day reserves were called on 42d street. An electric sign had fallen.

Rioting crowds at Valentino's bier and the millions who waited on Broadway and Fifth avenue for Gertrude Ederle's triumphant return are symbolic of the inquisitiveness of the packed little island. Big men and little will slam down their desks for a peep at celebrities.

Crowds will coagulate on steamship piers in the wind and rain at the bare announcement that some famous person is arriving on an incoming ship. It does not matter whether the hour is midnight or midday. There is no intent to be prying or meddlesome.

The truth is New York is a hero worshipping city. It doesn't like to admit it—that would not be being "hard boiled." Those who sniff so contemptuously at the crowds that press about heroes are usually those in the front row of cheerers.

Those who know say the lonely are greatest worshippers of heroes and so the metropolis is in a way merely responding to its natural mood of loneliness. No city sees so many celebrities and no city welcomes them so whole heartedly. We are in our way magnificent "hicks."

The orderly process of a Broadway play is often stopped by sudden discovery of a celebrity in a box. The play cannot go on until he steps out and reveals himself. And when "Peaches" Browning went on honeymoon shopping tours she had to leave department stores by the back door.

The heaviest loss, I am told, when Gotham welcomes a celebrity is suffered by the telephone company. A part of the welcome includes an ankle deep shower of confetti. It rains down like a stage snow storm from every skyscraper ledge from the Battery to the Plaza fountain. In the down town regions some ticker tape is used but most of it consists of torn up telephone books.

Shrewd city editors are giving a wide berth those celebrites who attempt to secure publicity an inverse process. For quite a while it was the custom of those aching for first page patting to travel on liners incognito or enter hospitals as John Doe. The news would trickle to the newspaper shops from other sources and create an air of mystery. It worked until it was overdone.

The most historic fire in New York was that of the Windsor hotel at 46th and Fifth avenue. Rubbernecx wagon megaphonists point out the site of "the great Windsor fire." More lives have been lost in other metropolitan fires—the dead at the Windsor numbering eighty. But no casualty list was so distinguished. The Windsor housed only the rich and notable. The ordinary traveler found no welcome there.

The most persistent church goer in New York is the sexton of Trinity who has missed but three Sundays in sixty years. It is an unusual sight on Sunday morning to see the rather stiff and prim congregation in the desolation of lower Broadway on way to Sabbatical stimulation. Wall Street and its hub-hub have simmered to a quiet wherein can be heard echoing footsteps of watchmen guarding millions. It is difficult to imagine that in another twenty-four hours that tip of the island will be one of the busiest and noisest in all the city.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Mine Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 16.—The number of mine accidents during the present year has led to inquiries as to whether or not such disasters are on the increase. At the United States Bureau of Mines no answer can be secured to this question, for the very good reason that the statistics for the year have not been compiled as yet and no comparison can be made or conclusions drawn. Unofficially it is stated, however, that when the figures for the twelve months are available it is not in the least likely they will show that mine accidents are increasing in number or in seriousness.

The reasons for this belief are that under state laws and regulations mining operations are carried on more carefully than ever before, more is known about how to prevent mine explosions, emergency relief equipment and crews are more generally available, and both miners and operators have been trained in accident prevention and first aid work through extensive educational campaigns carried on by the Federal Government and by various States.

When 43 miners were entombed in a Michigan iron mine last month a rescue car of the United States Bureau of Mines was at the scene in short order and the rescue work was carried on with a celerity and with an efficiency that would have been impossible a few years ago. It took five days to get the men out, but when their release was effected they were in remarkably good physical condition, thanks to the training a few of them had had in taking care of themselves and their companions in emergencies of that character.

In one month—December, 1907—a series of disastrous explosions in coal mines cost the lives of more than 600 men and the serious injury of many others. This directed public attention to mining conditions and congress was finally compelled to take some action after having failed to do anything time and again since 1865 when the first bill was offered to create a mining bureau. In 1908, however, congress merely directed the Geological Survey to make an investigation of the causes of mine explosions, and it was not until two years later that the Bureau of Mines was established.

Many Miners Instructed.

In the sixteen years that have since elapsed the Bureau has given instructions in first aid and mine rescue methods to more than 200,000 miners and to many of their wives and children. This educational work is carried on through motion pictures, literature, lectures, and demonsrations. The bureau has 10 safety stations and 11 rescue cars that are located at strategic points throughout the country, and the crews of these cars are constantly spreading the gospel of safety when they are not called upon to assist in rescue work at some disaster.

This Federal agency has no authority to regulate mining operations. It can merely advise and recommend, and all the regulating that can be done must come through state laws, but there has been noteworthy harmony and cooperation in the relations of the Bureau with the various state boards and commissions.

In order to conduct the mine safety work to best advantage the mining fields of the country have been grouped within mine districts which are defined with reference to railroad facilities and the distribution of mines—that is, to rendering the most speedy aid possible by both car and station personnel in event of a mine accident.

In its efforts to arouse and maintain a general interest in safety, the Bureau has cooperated actively in the holding of district and state, national, and international first aid and mine rescue meets. In the first national meet held in Pittsburgh in 1911, 30 first aid teams competed; in the last international meet, held in Salt Lake City, in 1923, 60 teams participated.

Through the cooperation of operators and state officials the Bureau of Mines issues reports monthly and annually, giving by causes and States, the fatalities at coal mines and the fatal and non-fatal accidents at metal mines, quarries, coke ovens, and metallurgical works other than iron and steel plants. The purpose in publishing these data, it is stated, it not to fix responsibility for disasters, or to preserve an historic record of past experience, but to make available a body of réliable information from which legislative bodies and safety engineers can determine what the hazards are that should receive chief attention.

Rock Dusting Coal Mines.

For a long time it was a matter of controversy as to whther bituminous coal dust was explosive, many mining men contending that it was not, and the Federal Bureau undertook to settle the question. It conducted tests in a steel gallery and large-scale tests in its experimental mine near Bruceton, Pa., and by 1911 it had convinced all who had doubted that coal dust had been the chief agent of restruction in many terrible explosions. Later it demonstrated that the best method of averting coal dust explosions is to coat the walls, roof, and floor of mine passages with rock dust.

As a result several hundred mines are now being rock-dusted, one State—Utah—requires that rock dust be used in all coal mines, and several other States specify its use as an alternate to sprinkling.

British investigators are said to have been the first to recognize the potency of coal dust as a cause of mine explosions, and likewise the first to initiate experiments in rock-dusting as a preventive measure. In 1923, the British Government formally proposed that its Department of Mines and the United States Bureau of Mines should cooperate in efforts to prevent mine accidents, this cooperation to be directed more immediately toward research on the betterment of coal mine explosives, the use of electrical equipment in mines, and the best methods of preventing the propagation of explosions. This proposal was accepted by the American government, terms of the cooperation, exchange of information, results of tests [illegible] is avoided.

Other preventive measures develop

My Favorite Stories

By IRVIN S. COBB

[illegible]

The hero of this story was one of those persons who accept whatever happens as a manifestation of the divine power. It was not for him to question the workings of a mysterious Providence.

Misfortune dogged his footsteps, yet never once did he complain. His wife ran away with the hired man. His daughter married a ne'er-do-well who deserted her; his son landed in the penitentiary; a cyclone destroyed his residence; a hailstorm spoiled his crop and the holder of the mortgage foreclosed on his farm. Yet at each fresh stroke he knelt and returned thanks to the Almighty for mercies vouchsafed.

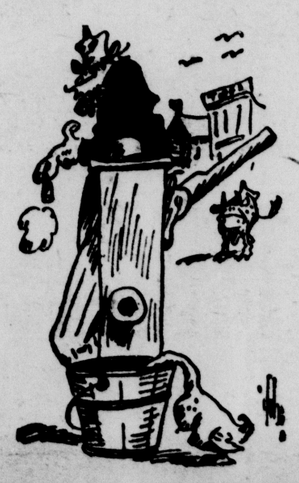

Eventually, pauperized but yet submissive to the decrees from on high, he landed at the county poorhouse. He still was able-bodied. Until now his members and faculties, at least, had been spared. The overseer sent him out one day to plow a potato field. A thunderstorm come up but was passing by when without warning a bolt of lightning descended from the sky. It melted the ploughshare, stripped most of his garments from him, singed off his beard and mustache, branded him on the back with the initials of an utter stranger, and hurled him through a brushfence.

Slowly he got upon his knees, clasped his hands and raised his eyes toward heaven. Then, for the first time, the worm turned:

"Lord," he said, "this is gittin' to be plum' rediculous!"

There are places now wholly unoccupied and apparently worthless that will be busy transportation centers in 20 or 30 years.

An Iowa congressman proposes a summer home for the president in Iowa. Now it's up to some eastern congress to propose a winter home for the president in Maine.

And there are some people who still maintain that there are no such things as equinoctial storms.

Foreign reports of starvation have been greatly exaggerated. The United States is exporting 29,000,000 pairs of false teeth a year.

The fashion edict is that skirts are to be shorter and tighter. All right; we can stand 'most anything now. But why not be honest and call 'em sashes?

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—No city in the world is quite so curious as this. A Lamb's Club joker used pick out a deserted side street at night and begin lighting matches in apparent hunt for a lost article. In no time the street would fill and he would pounce on a penny and move away.

The ordinary proceedure of fitting a tire to an auto rim will line the curb. A safe hoisting usually requires an extra platoon of police. The personal appearance of a movie star makes Broadway impassable. The other day reserves were called on 42d street. An electric sign had fallen.

Rioting crowds at Valentino's bier and the millions who waited on Broadway and Fifth avenue for Gertrude Ederle's triumphant return are symbolic of the inquisitiveness of the packed little island. Big men and little will slam down their desks for a peep at celebrities.

Crowds will coagulate on steamship piers in the wind and rain at the bare announcement that some famous person is arriving on an incoming ship. It does not matter whether the hour is midnight or midday. There is no intent to be prying or meddlesome.

The truth is New York is a hero worshipping city. It doesn't like to admit it—that would not be being "hard boiled." Those who sniff so contemptuously at the crowds that press about heroes are usually those in the front row of cheerers.

Those who know say the lonely are greatest worshippers of heroes and so the metropolis is in a way merely responding to its natural mood of loneliness. No city sees so many celebrities and no city welcomes them so whole heartedly. We are in our way magnificent "hicks."

The orderly process of a Broadway play is often stopped by sudden discovery of a celebrity in a box. The play cannot go on until he steps out and reveals himself. And when "Peaches" Browning went on honeymoon shopping tours she had to leave department stores by the back door.

The heaviest loss, I am told, when Gotham welcomes a celebrity is suffered by the telephone company. A part of the welcome includes an ankle deep shower of confetti. It rains down like a stage snow storm from every skyscraper ledge from the Battery to the Plaza fountain. In the down town regions some ticker tape is used but most of it consists of torn up telephone books.

Shrewd city editors are giving a wide berth those celebrites who attempt to secure publicity an inverse process. For quite a while it was the custom of those aching for first page patting to travel on liners incognito or enter hospitals as John Doe. The news would trickle to the newspaper shops from other sources and create an air of mystery. It worked until it was overdone.

The most historic fire in New York was that of the Windsor hotel at 46th and Fifth avenue. Rubbernecs wagon megaphonists point out the site of "the great Windsor fire." More lives have been lost in other metropolitan fires—the dead at the Windsor numbering eighty. But no casualty list was so distinguished. The Windsor housed only the rich and notable. The ordinary traveler found no welcome there.

The most persistent church goer in New York is the sexton of Trinity who has missed but three Sundays in sixty years. It is an unusual sight on Sunday morning to see the rather stiff and prim congregation in the desolation of lower Broadway on way to Sabbatical stimulation. Wall Street and its hub-hub have simmered to a quiet wherein can be heard echoing footsteps of watchmen guarding millions. It is difficult to imagine that in another twenty-four hours that tip of the island will be one of the busiest and noisest in all the city.

HASKINS' LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Mine Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 16.—The number of mine accidents during the present year has led to inquiries as to whether or not such disasters are on the increase. At the United States Bureau of Mines no answer can be secured to this question, for the very good reason that the statistics for the year have not been compiled as yet and no comparison can be made or conclusions drawn. Unofficially it is stated, however, that when the figures for the twelve months are available it is not in the least likely they will show that mine accidents are increasing in number or in seriousness.

The reasons for this belief are that under state laws and regulations mining operations are carried on more carefully than ever before, more is known about how to prevent mine explosions, emergency relief equipment and crews are more generally available, and both miners and operators have been trained in accident prevention and first aid work through extensive educational campaigns carried on by the Federal Government and by various States.

When 43 miners were entombed in a Michigan iron mine last month a rescue car of the United States Bureau of Mines was at the scene in short order and the rescue work was carried on with a celerity and with an efficiency that would have been impossible a few years ago. It took five days to get the men out, but when their release was effected they were in remarkably good physical condition, thanks to the training a few of them had had in taking care of themselves and their companions in emergencies of that character.

In one month—December, 1907—a series of disastrous explosions in coal mines cost the lives of more than 600 men and the serious injury of many others. This directed public attention to mining conditions and congress was finally compelled to take some action after having failed to do anything time and again since 1865 when the first bill was offered to create a mining bureau. In 1908, however, congress merely directed the Geological Survey to make an investigation of the causes of mine explosions, and it was not until two years later that the Bureau of Mines was established.

Many Miners Instructed.

In the sixteen years that have since elapsed the Bureau has given instructions in first aid and mine rescue methods to more than 200,000 miners and to many of their wives and children. This educational work is carried on through motion pictures, literature, lectures, and demonsrations. The bureau has 10 safety stations and 11 rescue cars that are located at strategic points throughout the country, and the crews of these cars are constantly spreading the gospel of safety when they are not called upon to assist in rescue work at some disaster.

This Federal agency has no authority to regulate mining operations. It can merely advise and recommend, and all the regulating that can be done must come through state laws, but there has been noteworthy harmony and cooperation in the relations of the Bureau with the various state boards and commissions.

In order to conduct the mine safety work to best advantage the mining fields of the country have been grouped within mine districts which are defined with reference to railroad facilities and the distribution of mines—that is, to rendering the most speedy aid possible by both car and station personnel in event of a mine accident.

In its efforts to arouse and maintain a general interest in safety, the Bureau has cooperated actively in the holding of district and state, national, and international first aid and mine rescue meets. In the first national meet held in Pittsburgh in 1911, 30 first aid teams competed; in the last international meet, held in Salt Lake City, in 1923, 60 teams participated.

Through the cooperation of operators and state officials the Bureau of Mines issues reports monthly and annually, giving by causes and States, the fatalities at coal mines and the fatal and non-fatal accidents at metal mines, quarries, coke ovens, and metallurgical works other than iron and steel plants. The purpose in publishing these data, it is stated, it not to fix responsibility for disasters, or to preserve an historic record of past experience, but to make available a body of reliable information from which legislative bodies and safety engineers can determine what the hazards are that should receive chief attention.

Rock Dusting Coal Mines.

For a long time it was a matter of controversy as to whther bituminous coal dust was explosive, many mining men contending that it was not, and the Federal Bureau undertook to settle the question. It conducted tests in a steel gallery and large-scale tests in its experimental mine near Bruceton, Pa., and by 1911 it had convinced all who had doubted that coal dust had been the chief agent of restruction in many terrible explosions. Later it demonstrated that the best method of averting coal dust explosions is to coat the walls, roof, and floor of mine passages with rock dust.

As a result several hundred mines are now being rock-dusted, one State—Utah—requires that rock dust be used in all coal mines, and several other States specify its use as an alternate to sprinkling.

British investigators are said to have been the first to recognize the potency of coal dust as a cause of mine explosions, and likewise the first to initiate experiments in rock-dusting as a preventive measure. In 1923, the British Government formally proposed that its Department of Mines and the United States Bureau of Mines should cooperate in efforts to prevent mine accidents, this cooperation to be directed more immediately toward research on the betterment of coal mine explosives, the use of electrical equipment in mines, and the best methods of preventing the propagation of explosions. This proposal was accepted by the American government, terms of the cooperation, exchange of information, results of tests [illegible] is avoided.

Other preventive measures develop

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

BORDERING ON THE UNREASONABLE

The hero of this story was one of those persons who accept whatever happens as a manifestation of the divine power. It was not for him to question the workings of a mysterious Providence.

Misfortune dogged his footsteps, yet never once did he complain. His wife ran away with the hired man. His daughter married a ne'er-do-well who deserted her; his son landed in the penitentiary; a cyclone destroyed his residence; a hailstorm spoiled his crop and the holder of the mortgage foreclosed on his farm. Yet at each fresh stroke he knelt and returned thanks to the Almighty for mercies vouchsafed.

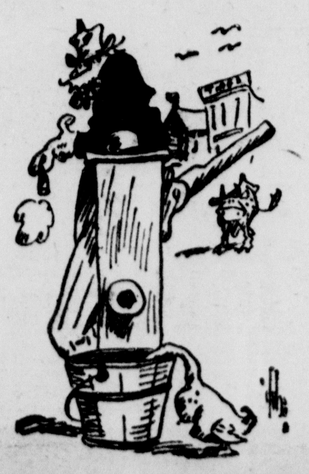

Eventually, pauperized but yet submissive to the decrees from on high, he landed at the county poorhouse. He still was able-bodied. Until now his members and faculties, at least, had been spared. The overseer sent him out one day to plow a potato field. A thunderstorm come up but was passing by when without warning a bolt of lightning descended from the sky. It melted the ploughshare, stripped most of his garments from him, singed off his beard and mustache, branded him on the back with the initials of an utter stranger, and hurled him through a brushfence.

Slowly he got upon his knees, clasped his hands and raised his eyes toward heaven. Then, for the first time, the worm turned:

"Lord," he said, "this is gittin' to be plum' rediculous!"

FARMERS' DAY OBSERVED HERE

Successful Event Held Under Auspices of Chester Bank.

One hundred and twenty-five Hancock county farmers attended the exhibit yesterday under the auspices of the First National bank and Hancock County Building and Loan association in the bank building at Third street and Carolina avenue.

Dinner was served at noon on the third floor of the bank building by members of the Queen Esther class of the Presbyterian church. The guests were welcomed by John E. Newell, president of the bank. John C. Evans, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a director of the bank was toastmaster.

Addresses were made by E. B. Harshaw, vice president and cashier of the Grove City National bank; Dr. H. G. Knight, dean of the college of agriculture, West Virginia university; James V. Hopkins, dairy specialist at West Virginia university, and E. C. Weible, federal agent.

Demonstration work was in charge of Hopkins who used two cows from the Stewart brothers' farm. Herd owners were instructed in the proper method of raising breeded cattle in order to secure the best production. The corn borer question was discussed by Weible, while the agricultural development of the Grove City district was the topic of Harshaw. Dr. Knight spoke on the state agricultural situation.

Judging of pigs in the 4-H club was in charge of County Agent Gridley of Beaver, Pa. First prize was awarded to Lester Miller. Awards were also given other exhibitors.

The First National bank awarded five breeded calves to Penniah Thomas, Elinor Stewart, J. B. Stewart, Hugh J. Stewart and Ethel Berta Carson. They are members of the newly organized Hancock county calf club. Three more will be placed in the near future.

Among those at the meeting were: C. V. Degen, county farm agent, W. E. Wells, Newell; J. T. Croxall, East Liverpool; J. O. Miller, county superintendent of schools; W. M'PHERSON CASE IS GIVEN REST

Hearing of Evangelist Will be Continued Monday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—After a week featured by the testimony of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, which culminated in a fist fight between her attorney, S. S. Hahn, and W. T. Gilbert, chief counsel for the defense, the so-called Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy case was temporarily halted today.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Sielaff will be continued Monday. The trio is accused of having conspired to produce false evidence in connection with Mrs. McPherson's story of being kidnaped.

Mrs. Sielaff charges the evangelist offered her money to find a "Miss X" to assume the role of companion to her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, at a Carmel cottage, at a time Mrs. McPherson claims she was held captive by kidnapers in Mexico and while her followers thought she was drowned.

The prosecution is attempting to show that the evangelist's story was a hoax and that she was Ormiston's companion at Carmel.

Mrs. Sielaff finished her third day on the witness stand yesterday. Miss Bernice Morris, secretary to R. A. McKinley, who was alleged to have been negotiating with Mrs. McPherson to produce her "kidnapers," followed her on the stand. McKinley was killed in an automobile accident several weeks ago. Miss Norris testified that Mrs. McPherson approached her and asked her to carry on the work started by her employer.

The third hectic week of the preliminary hearing was capped by Judge Blake when he cited W. I. Gilbert, defense attorney, for contempt. The citation came as the aftermath of his encounter with Attorney Hahn. Judgment will be reserved until the hearing is concluded.

M'PHERSON CASE IS GIVEN REST

Hearing of Evangelist Will be Continued Monday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—After a week featured by the testimony of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, which culminated in a fist fight between her attorney, S. S. Hahn, and W. T. Gilbert, chief counsel for the defense, the so-called Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy case was temporarily halted today.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Sielaff will be continued Monday. The trio is accused of having conspired to produce false evidence in connection with Mrs. McPherson's story of being kidnaped.

Mrs. Sielaff charges the evangelist offered her money to find a "Miss X" to assume the role of companion to her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, at a Carmel cottage, at a time Mrs. McPherson claims she was held captive by kidnapers in Mexico and while her followers thought she was drowned.

The prosecution is attempting to show that the evangelist's story was a hoax and that she was Ormiston's companion at Carmel.

Mrs. Sielaff finished her third day on the witness stand yesterday. Miss Bernice Morris, secretary to R. A. McKinley, who was alleged to have been negotiating with Mrs. McPherson to produce her "kidnapers," followed her on the stand. McKinley was killed in an automobile accident several weeks ago. Miss Norris testified that Mrs. McPherson approached her and asked her to carry on the work started by her employer.

The third hectic week of the preliminary hearing was capped by Judge Blake when he cited W. I. Gilbert, defense attorney, for contempt. The citation came as the aftermath of his encounter with Attorney Hahn. Judgment will be reserved until the hearing is concluded.

WELLSVILLE MEN WILL FACE BRIBERY CHARGES

COMMON PLEAS COURT TO HEAR CASE TUESDAY

Rocco Carbicella and Joseph Fusco Indicted By Grand Jury.

OUT ON BOND

Wanted Sheriff to "Lay Off" Kenney Probe, is Claim.

Three criminal cases, including those of Rocco Carbicella and Frank Fusco, indicted for bribery, and Dominick Andretta, indicted for assault and battery, have been listed for trial in common pleas court next week according to announcement today by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine.

Andretta, whose case was postponed from last Monday, is scheduled to go on trial Monday.

Carbicella and Fusco, charged with an attempt to bribe Sheriff George Wright to "lay off" further investigation of the murder of Patrolman James Kenney at Wellsville May 17, last, will face a jury on Tuesday. These cases were postponed from last Tuesday on account of Fusco's illness.

Archie R. Barnet, of Elkton, indicted by the September grand jury for malicious injury to property and also for placing dynamite, will be called for trial Wednesday.

With these cases disposed of, only one remains to be tried of those indicted by the September grand jury—that of John DeSarrio, of Wellsville, on a charge of obtaining insurance money by false pretense. DeSarrio is now under $1,000 bond.

Janitors of Public Schools Under Civil Service Control, State Rules

Local School Board Advised Against Efforts to Remove Employes From Classified Service Lists.

Wellsville public school janitors must remain in the classified list and be governed by regulations of the civil service law. This is the ruling made by the state civil service commission in reply to a request from the local commission which recently was asked to pass upon a resolution passed by the board of education to remove janitors from the classified list.

Effort to remove the positions from civil service control were made by the board of education on the basis that the work was of a nature that demanded only unskilled employes and that it is impracticable to place the jobs in the classified service.

The Wellsville commission however, ruled that "it is not within their province to exempt the positions of janitors of public school from classified service of said city." In substantiation of this decision the following opinion of state civil service commission is quoted:

"Mr. G. V. Dugan, secretary:

"We are in receipt of your communication of October 4, enclosing the request of your board of education that your commission find it impracticable to include in the competitive classified list the positions of janitors in the public schools of the Wellsville school district.

"This question frequently has been fererred to this commission and in no case have there been the slightest grounds for any commission to determine that it is impracticable to include such positions in the competitive classified service. Various opinions of the attorney general of Ohio, cited below, very definitely dispose of the question.

"'Janitors of school buildings are in the classified service under the provisions of section 486-8 subdivision general code'—Opinion attorney general, 1916.

"'In city school districts all persons in the employ of the board of education of such city school district are in the classified civil service list unless they are superintendents, principals, instructrs or teachers as provided in paragraph 7 of section 486-8 of the general code'; opinion attorney general, 1926.

"'A school janitor may not be exempt from the classified service under the provisions of paragraph 12 of section 486-8 of the general code'; opinion attorney general 1925.

"In this connection this commission would advise any municipal commission to exercise extreme care in determining any question involving the impracticability of holding competitive examinations. The tendencies of the Ohio courts is not to disturb the decision of the civil service commission when it determines that it is practicable to hold competitive examination. It has over-ruled the commission when it has placed certain positions in the exempt class. In no case have the Ohio courts held that as a matter of law it is impracticable to hold competitive examinations.

"The State Cilvil Service Commission."

In concluding their finding the Wellsville commission asserts: "The municipal commission stands ready to exercise its prerogative in demanding that all persons in classified service discharge their particular duties to the satsfaction of their superiors."

ALIKANNA MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Struck by C. & P. Train Near Pottery Plant.

Lawrence Goddard, 38 years old, of Alikanna, is in a serious condition in the Gill hospital at Steubenville today as a result of injuries sustained yesterday when he was struck by a westbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train as he was leaving his work at the Steubenville pottery.

Both of Goddard's legs were broken and he sustained serious injuries to his head and possibly internal injuries.

Goddard was employed as an engineer at the pottery plant. Leaving his work, enroute home, he is said to have walked out onto the tracks, apparently unaware of the approach of the train. Other workmen, who saw the train, tried to warn him but their shouts were too late.

Elks Will Conclude Outdoor Circus and Bazaar Tonight

SCHOOL LEVY WEST END P. T. A TOPIC MONDAY

W. R. MacDonald to Discuss Needs of Board of Education.

FIRST MEETING

Community Nurse to Talk on Health Subjects.

Necessity of obtaining more money through the approval of the proposed four-mill levy which will be placed on the ballots for the general election on November 2, for the operation of the local public schools, will be emphasized by the West End School Building Parent-Teachers' association at its inaugural meeting of the 1926-27 season on Monday night in the school building, Eighteenth street.

A program greatly similar to that which was carried out recently at the first seasonal meeting of the Central Building association is being prepared under the direction of the officers.

Mrs. Dean Price is president of the association; Miss Margaret Frischkorn is secretary and Miss Grace Harbourt treasurer.

W. R. MacDonald, of the Perpetual Savings & Loan Co., a member of the board of education, will deliver an address to the association on the four-mill levy subject. Mr. MacDonald delivered a similar talk at the recent Central asociation meeting.

Miss Martha Rex, community nurse, will discuss health conservation topics.

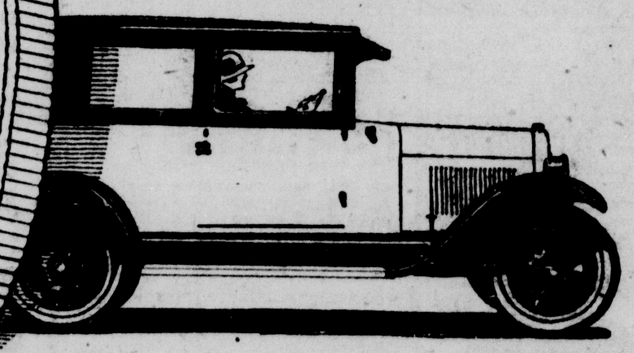

Pupils of the fifth grade, under the direction of Miss Agatha Carney, will render a number of group songs, and it is possible that the high school orchestra will play several selections.

Plans for the season's activities will also be discussed by the association at a business session. It is likely that Miss Frischkorn will resign as secretary in order to take charge of the program arrangements, necessitating an appointment to this office.

Janitors of Public Schools Under Civil Service Control, State Rules

Local School Board Advised Against Efforts to Remove Employes From Classified Service Lists.

Wellsville public school janitors must remain in the classified list and be governed by regulations of the civil service law. This is the ruling made by the state civil service commission in reply to a request from the local commission which recently was asked to pass upon a resolution passed by the board of education to remove janitors from the classified list.

Effort to remove the positions from civil service control were made by the board of education on the basis that the work was of a nature that demanded only unskilled employes and that it is impracticable to place the jobs in the classified service.

The Wellsville commission however, ruled that "it is not within their province to exempt the positions of janitors of public school from classified service of said city." In substantiation of this decision the following opinion of state civil service commission is quoted:

"Mr. G. V. Dugan, secretary:

"We are in receipt of your communication of October 4, enclosing the request of your board of education that your commission find it impracticable to include in the competitive classified list the positions of janitors in the public schools of the Wellsville school district.

"This question frequently has been fererred to this commission and in no case have there been the slightest grounds for any commission to determine that it is impracticable to include such positions in the competitive classified service. Various opinions of the attorney general of Ohio, cited below, very definitely dispose of the question.

"' Janitors of school buildings are in the classified service under the provisions of section 486-8 subdivision general code'—Opinion attorney general, 1916.

"'In city school districts all persons in the employ of the board of education of such city school district are in the classified civil service list unless they are superintendents, principals, instructrs or teachers as provided in paragraph 7 of section 486-8 of the general code'; opinion attorney general, 1926.

"'A school janitor may not be exempt from the classified service under the provisions of paragraph 12 of section 486-8 of the general code'; opinion attorney general 1925.

"In this connection this commission would advise any municipal commission to exercise extreme care in determining any question involving the impracticability of holding competitive examinations. The tendencies of the Ohio courts is not to disturb the decision of the civil service commission when it determines that it is practicable to hold competitive examination. It has over-ruled the commission when it has placed certain positions in the exempt class. In no case have the Ohio courts held that as a matter of law it is impracticable to hold competitive examinations.

"The State Cilvil Service Commission."

In concluding their finding the Wellsville commission asserts: "The municipal commission stands ready to exercise its prerogative in demanding that all persons in classified service discharge their particular duties to the satsfaction of their superiors."

ALIKANNA MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Struck by C. & P. Train Near Pottery Plant.

Lawrence Goddard, 38 years old, of Alikanna, is in a serious condition in the Gill hospital at Steubenville today as a result of injuries sustained yesterday when he was struck by a westbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train as he was leaving his work at the Steubenville pottery.

Both of Goddard's legs were broken and he sustained serious injuries to his head and possibly internal injuries.

Goddard was employed as an engineer at the pottery plant. Leaving his work, enroute home, he is said to have walked out onto the tracks, apparently unaware of the approach of the train. Other workmen, who saw the train, tried to warn him, but their shouts were too late.

SCHOOL LEVY WEST END P. T. A. TOPIC MONDAY

W. R. MacDonald to Discuss Needs of Board of Education.

Community Nurse to Talk on Health Subjects.

Necessity of obtaining more money through the approval of the proposed four-mill levy which will be placed on the baljots for the general election on November 2, for the operation of the local public schools, will be emphasized by the West End School Building Parent-Teachers' association at its inaugural meeting of the 1926-27 season on Monday night in the school building, Eighteenth street.

A program greatly similar to that which was carried out recently at the first seasonal meeting of the Central Building association is being prepared under the direction of the officers.

Mrs. Dean Price is president of the association; Miss Margaret Frischkorn is secretary and Miss Grace Harbourt treasurer.

W. R. MacDonald, of the Perpetual Savings & Loan Co., a member of the board of education, will deliver an address to the association on the four-mill levy subject. Mr. MacDonald delivered a similar talk at the recent Central association meeting.

Miss Martha Rex, community nurse, will discuss health conservation topics.

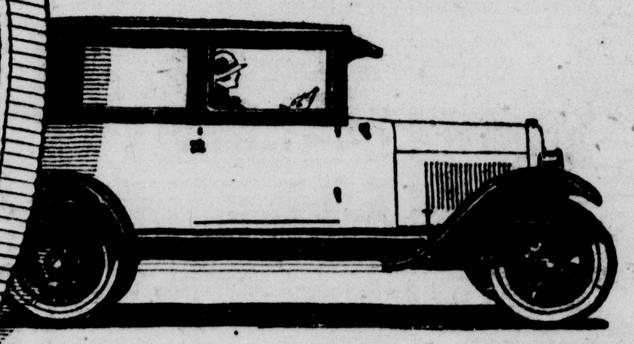

Pupils of the fifth grade, under the direction of Miss Agatha Carney, will render a number of group songs, and it is possible that the high school orchestra will play several selections.

Plans for the season's activities will also be discussed by the association at a business session. It is likely that Miss Frischkorn will resign as secretary in order to take charge of the program arrangements, necessitating an appointment to this office.

Reports of secretaries and other business matters were considered at the Friday morning session. Miss Mary R. Martin, missionary worker in India, who is supported by the Steubenville Presbytery, spoke at Friday afternoon meeting. Miss Martin was presented with a purse. Mrs. J. P. White, Xenia, spoke on the subject "Moslem Women in Foreign Lands."

"RED" GRANGE FILM BOOKED

"One Minute to Play" Coming to Ceramic.

Throbbing with some of the greatest football scenes ever put on the screen Greater F. B. O's famous production of "One Minute to Play," starring Red Grange, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre all next week, except Thursday.

The noted University of Illinois "Galloping Ghost," probably the most wonderful player who ever donned moleskins, gives a remarkable exhibition of his versatility and extraordinary broken-field running in the brilliant climax of the film, as well as proving himself a splendid actor, with a great screen versatility.

The direction by Sam Wood is an achievement in itself, and an excellent cast, including Mary McAllister, Charles Ogle, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Lincoln Steadman, Edythe Chapman, Lee Shumway and Jay Hunt, handle the supporting roles convincingly. George Wilson, the famous All-American halfback from the University of Washington squad, leads the opposing team in the picture, and does much to make the gridiron scenes realistic and vivid. The story and continuity were both written by Byron Morgan, noted for his work on the late Wallace Reid's racing tales.

Patterson Low Bidedr

tie composition. This bid was $894.82 below the engineer's estimate.

Either the Patterson bid for this work must be accepted or all bids rejected and the job readvertised Service Safety Director Moore said today. The bids are being considered, and the board of control is expected to reach a decision by the middle of next week. Should the work be readvertised it is doubtful if the improvement can be completed this year.

Bids for two sewer improvement jobs—Garfield street and Briar alley—were also over the engineer's estimate and new bids must be sought. On the Garfield street job, Patterson asked $5,741.05 while Peter Milliron estimated the contract at $5,602.80, as compared with the engineer's estimate of $4,623.52. For the Briar alley sewer Patterson's bid was $1,458.20 and Milliron's $1,432.75. Estimate for this job was $1,367.74.

Bids for the grading and surfacing of Avondale street from Bank to North street will be opened Monday by the board of control.

18 of Crew Escape In Dories as Vessel Is Swept by Fire

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Oct. 16.—The steam trawler Pioneer out of Boston for the Cape Cod fishing grounds, was swept by fire 12 miles off Nauset light early today but the crew of 18 officers and men escaped in dories.

An explosion in the engine room caused the fire which spread rapidly and the vessel was abandoned. The 18 men of the trawler were picked up in their open dories by the coast guardsmen from the Nauset station.

COURT FIGHT ON STREET JOB

Willite Company Gets Injunction Against Director Moore.

A temporary injunction against the improvement of Fourth street was granted by Judge W. H. Spence in common pleas court at Lisbon upon application of Frank Swaney, representing the Ohio Willite Paving and Resurfacing company, of East Liverpool, one of the unsuccessful bidders. The court order was to be served this afternoon upon Service-Safety Director John W. Moore and George B. Patterson, Wellsville, who was awarded the contract, by Sheriff George Wright.

The petition filed by Attorney George T. Farral, Lisbon, representing Swaney, charges the Patterson bid is irregular inasmuch as the legislation for the improvement passed by city council, called for a resurfacing job. By the terms of the contract awarded to Patterson, the street will be improved with concrete and is not a resurfacing contract, Swaney alleges.

Mayor Ralph Benedum was notified of the injunction proceedings by Swaney at noon, said that the city would seek an early hearing. Work on the improvement will be deferred until the court hears arguments.

Compilation of the bids for the Fourth street improvement contract given Patterson showed the job will cost $27,532.15. This figure, Director Moore explained, includes $1,800 for additional grading made necessary by constructing this street with concrete rather than an asphaltic material. The bid is $1,178.10 less than the estimate of the Willite company for sheet asphalt, willite process, such as was laid on Fifth street, and $331.10 less than the estimate for asphaltic concrete, willite process. These two bids were: sheet asphalt, willite process, $28,710.25; asphaltic concrete, willite process, $27,863.25.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Mary McNary.

Mrs. Mary McNary, former resident of East Liverpool, died last night in her home at Canton.

She is survived by two daughters, Laura and Mary, both of Canton.

Funeral services will be held there tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial will be made at Bloomington, O.

ELEANOR HILL IN FILM ROLE

E. Liverpool Girl Plays in Picture at American.

Miss Eleanor Hill, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Walter B. Hill of the Park boulevard, has a role in the First National Picture, "The Amateur Gentleman," starring Richard Barthelmess to be seen at the American theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Hill is now a resident of Hollywood.

"The Amateur Gentleman" gets its name from that period between 1810 and 1820, when George, the Third, went insane and his brother became Prince Regent.

The costumes are of the Beau Brummell period, and in the story as told in the Barthelmess film, the hero Barnabas Beverely Barty, was the first to introduce wide trousers among the social lights of London.

Barthelmess' good looks and fine physique stand him in excellent stead in this colorful drama. He cuts an even more dashing figure if that is possible, as Barnabas Beverly Barty than he does as Lieutenant Ranson in "Ranson's Folly," which was released before the completion of "The Amateur Gentleman."

The picture hurries along at a fast clip and is full of exciting incidents. Two of the most exciting are a fist fight which Barty wages against his father, the ex-heavyweight champ of England, and a thrilling steeplechase.

For the fight Dick went into stiff training for several weeks under the tutelage of Mickey McMin, the well known ring figure.

The steeplechase shows him actually jockeying. This was one of the most dangerous exploits in the film and Dick suffered a fall from which he narrowly escaped grave injury.

Barthelmess is surrounded by an exceptionally brilliant cast in "The Amateur Gentleman." Dorothy Dunbar, a comparative new-comer to the screen but already in the ascendant, is seen in the leading feminine role opposite him.

Gardner James, who has just been given a five-year contract with Inspiration, has the major supporting role. Others included in the cast are Nigel Barrie, Brandon Hurst, John Miljan, Edward Davis, Billie Bennett, Herbert Grimwood, Gino Corrado, Sidney de Gray and John Peters.

Many American automobiles are to be displayed at the Prague automobile show this year

MARSHAL FANG FLEES AFTER KIANGSI FALLS

Earlier Report Said He Had Captured 20,000 Soldiers.

HINT TREACHERY

Military Governor and Staff Find Haven on Cruiser.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—A Central News dispatch from Shanghai today said General Sun Chuan-Fang, military governor of Kiangsi province, has administered a severe defeat to the southern Cantonese troops, near Hanchang. The northern forces captured 20,000 prisoners, according to the report.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16.—Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang of the allied armies was in flight today as Cantonese troops took possession of the province of Kiangsi.

Secession of his strongest supporters are treacherous withdrawals from Kukiang and other allied strongholds are the reasons advanced for the overthrow of Fang and the collapse of his armies.

Accompanied by his general staff, Marshal Fang is aboard a cruiser and it is believed he is fleeing toward Nanking.

Cantonese troops are in full possession of Kiangsi and General Chang Kai Shek has already started to reorganize the leaderless soldiery.

The coup of the Cantonese, according to word reaching here, was made as General Chang Kai Shek was supposedly proposing peace terms to the allied armies.

Military observers here believe operations of the warring factions will soon extend toward Shanghai.

Two Men are Held For Grand Jury on Auto Theft Charge

Albert Bucheit and Clyne Kisner were held for grand jury under $2,500 bond each by Municipal Judge Hanley yesterday afternoon when they faced charges of automobile stealing. Bucheit entered a plea of guilty, while Kisner pleaded not guilty. Daniel Runion, who was charged with the same offense, was dismissed after evidence submitted at the hearing showed that he had taken no part in the alleged theft.

The men are alleged to have stolen a Ford roadster belonging to Ralph Bailey, Chester, while it was parked on Broadway Thursday night.

NEW YORK HIT AT CERAMIC

"Mama Loves Papa" to Close Chicago Stock Engagement.

The Chicago Stock company will close a week's engagement at the Ceramic tonight by offering Jack McGowan's comedy, "Mamma Loves Papa," which enjoyed a run of eight solid months at the Ritz theatre in New York last season. It is said to be a very laughable play and a production that permits beautiful staging and handsome costuming.

During the week the Chicago players have excellently produced recent New York successes and they have well merited the large audiences that have taxed the capacity of the theatre.

The attraction appears in Alliance all next week, leaving for that city tomorrow.

bets $10 to 1 that this will be a nation of octogenarians by the end of the century.

That prediction is no exaggeration. Men, one day, will live habitually to be 140 years. But with a life average of 80 years only, it will be necessary to revise various things, including the age at which men marry.

Population would soon become unwieldly if a race of octogenarians married at 20 or 25 years of age and went on having children for half a century. Nature, however, would find a way to take care of that. She always does.

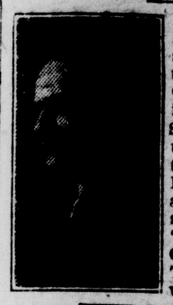

Canton Underworld Member Faces Term In Atlanta Prison

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 16.—Another former member of Canton's underworld today was preparing to enter the penitentiary.

Edward W. Markling, arrested in Canton two months ago on a charge of violating the Harrison Act, today indicated that he would not combat a sentence of three and a half years in the federal prison at Atlanta, imposed by Judge Jaul Jones in federal court here, upon a plea of guilty.

Markling, alleged by narcotic agents, to have been the source of supply for numerous dope peddlers, was arrested by representatives of the federal staff here upon information furnished them by Canton police.

BIBLE STUDENT HERE SUNDAY

E. W. Betler, Pittsburgh Bible student, will lecture in the Ceramic Cafeteria auditorium, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening under auspices of the International Bible Students' association. His subject will be "Earth's Greatest Conflict Near." The public is invited.

1 DEAD, 3 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Members of Funeral Party in Collision Near Marion.

MARION, O., Oct. 16.—One man is dead and three women are in City hospital here today, the result of an automobile crash eight miles north of the city on the Marion-Bucyrus pike last night. The dead:

John Stoody, Carey.

The injured:

Mrs. W. F. Graves, Carey.

Mrs. Claire Putnam, Carey.

Mrs. John Stoody, Carey.

The party, including Putnam, driver, who escaped injury, was returning from a funeral in Columbus, when the accident occurred. Blinded by the lights from another machine, Putnam failed to see a curve in the road. His automobile careened to one side of the highway and when he attempted to pull the heavy car back onto the highway it crashed into the ditch on the other side and turned over.

G. O. P. TO OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Committee Named to Arrange for Cooper Reception.

Republican headquarters for the fall campaign will be opened in East Liverpool probably next week, it was announced at a meeting of the Republican central committee held in municipal court rooms, last evening.

A headquarters committeee consisting of H. E. Hallett, George Buxton and Arthur Wallover has two down town locations under consideration. Negotiations probably will be closed today and the headquarters formally opened early in the week.

H. B. Barth was named chairman of the reception committee for Myers Y. Cooper, gubernatorial nominee, who will visit here Wednesday afternoon. Barth and his committee will meet probably Monday.

The following committees were appointed:

Campaign—T. A. McNicol, J. T. Croxall, W. S. Foulks, William Pittenger and Thomas H. Stephens.

Finance—William McGraw, Joseph Betz and H. B. Barth.

Cooper will come here at 1 p. m. and will spend about an hour and a half in East Liverpool. He is scheduled to meet a delegation of party leaders in Wellsville at 3 p. m.

Four Hurt in Wreck

miles an hour, according to the information brought here.

None of the passengers was reported injured and they were transferred to another train for Columbus and other points along the division to continue their journey.

No Passengers Hurt.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Four mail clerks were injured at Fisher, O., near Dennison, early today when the engine and seven coaches of train No. 65, of the Pennsylvania lines, new York to St. Louis, were derailed, according to word deceived at the Pennsylvania lines district office here.

The injured were all mail clerks on the mail car which was derailed, together with a diner, a club car, and four Pullmans, the local office was advised. No passengers were hurt. The train was the second section of the fast New York to St. Louis through train.

Atlanta Special Wrecked.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Ky., Oct. 16.—Officials of the Cincinnati Southern railroad were taking steps today to clean up the wreckage of the Atlanta special, the engine and baggage car of which overturned here yesterday afternoon, scalding the fireman to death and injuring the engineer and baggagemen.

The wreck was believed today to have been caused by a spreading rail. None of the passengers was seriously injured, those receiving minor bruises and cuts being treated here and continuing their journey.

VICE CLEAN-UP IN STEUBENVILLE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 16.—A vice clean-up, with charges to be filed against several policemen, is in prospect here, it was announced today by associates of Dr. E. J. C. Sanders, who has become mayor in place of John S. H. Patton, permanently ousted yesterday.

While Dr. Sanders would discuss the policy of his administration his advisers pointed out that evidence adduced at the trial of the ... mayor necessited further action and that charges might be expected within 10 days.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Still staggering from the effects of Friday's violent decline, which carried down the average prices of representative stocks nearly three points, stock market today continued erratic and reactionary.

Encouraged by the week end reports of a declining tendency in some of the inportant departments of business, the professionals working for lower price levels offered stocks liberally, as the result of which General Motors declined an additional two and a half points and United States steel broke through another "resistance point to sell at 137⅞ there were reports of the further uncovering of stop loss orders, and the forced selling of stocks in accounts which had not responded to the calls for margins.

Wall street was inclined to attribute the poor showing in general business to the unfavorable weather and the break in cotton prices, for both of which it has a satisfactory remedy. The financial district continued somewhat bearish on the stock market, however, the conviction being strengthened by the east with which the professionals have been able to dislodge stocks at falling prices.

Selling pressure on the high priced speculative leaders continued without let up in the second hours. The motor stocks continued reactionary, with moon, Jordan, Willys Overland and other of the cheap motor shares declining to the new low levels. Jordon at 15 represented a decline of reached earlier in the year, while Hudson at 47, was down about seventy points. General Motors showed better resistance around 145, and Studebaker at 52.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Wheat opened ⅛c lower today; corn ¼ to ⅜c lower, and oats unchanged to ⅛c easier. Closing quotations:

Cleveland Police Are on Lookout For Bank Bandit

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 16.—Cleveland detectives early today were guarding the Cleveland Toledo highway for a lone bandit, who held up the People's bank of New Boston, Mich., near Detroit, late yesterday, and escaped with $12,000 in currency. The bandit, according to word received by police here, was seen in Toledo several hours after the robbery. He was in an automobile, accompanied by a woman, the reports here said, and was headed in the direction of Cleveland.

SCHOOL LEVY AND BOND PLAN ARE EXPLAINED

Lincoln School Patrons Attend Campaign Rally.

APPROVAL URGE

Board of Education Members and City Officials Speak.

Approximately 100 residents met in the Lincoln school building, Orchard Grove avenue, last night to hear an explanation of the proposed 2.3 mill school levy and the $225,000 municipal building bond issue, which will be submitted at the November 2 election.

Benjamin Laughlin presided. A short program was presented by the pupils of the school under the direction of Miss Claudia Gill, principal.

The levy was discussed by President D. F. White and members George Wilhelm, C. A. Ferguson and Robert Stevenson of the school board. Superintendent C. S. McVay explained the financial situation and pointed out the need for additional revenue if the schools are to have a nine-month term after this year.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum also urged support of the school levy. N. P. Kerr, president of the city council, briefly outlined the need for a new municipal building to house all city departments. He pointed out that the city is paying out more than $2,400 annually for rentals and that the various municipal departments are scattered over the city. Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore, who also spoke in favor of the school levy made an appeal for the municipal bond issue, claiming that the increase in taxes to liquidate these bonds would amount to about 52 cents on each $1,000 property valuation.

George Hughes, councilman from the Fourth ward also attended the meeting.

Steps looking toward the organization of a Parent-Teachers' Association by patrons of the school will be held on Monday evening, October 25.

Two East Liverpool Women Honored At District Meet

Merdames W. W. Sloan and F. B. Chambers Elected Officers at United Presbyterian Society Convention in Steubenville.

Two East Liverpool women—Mesdames W. W. Sloan and F. B. Chambers—were honored at closing session yesterday of the two-day meeting of the forty second annual convention of the Steubenville presbytery Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church. Mrs. Sloan was elected treasurer, while Mrs. Chambers was named association manager.

The officers elected were:

President, Mrs. H. B. Haverfield, Salineville; first vice-president, Mrs. James Bist, Steubenville; second vice-president, Mrs. Grant Wilkinson, Toronto; recording secretary, Mrs. L. F. Burns, Wellsville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. J. White, Toronto; young women's and junior secretary, Mrs. Jay S. Paisley, Steubenville; literature secretary, Mrs. S. W. Simpson, Richmond; temperance secretary, Mrs. Shelby Irvine, Richmond; thank offering secretary, Mrs. Thomas Hobson, Richmond.

Miss Grace Ogilvie presided at the Steubenville meeting. Rev. J. A. Cotten, D. D., of Henderson, N. C., spoke at the Thursday evening session, discussing his work at the mission school. Reports of secretaries and other business matters were considered at the Friday morning session. Miss Mary R. Martin, missionary worker in India, who is supported by the Steubenville Presbytery, spoke at Friday afternoon meeting. Miss Martin was presented with a purse. Mrs. J. P. White, Xenia, spoke on the subject "Moslem Women in Foreign Lands."

"RED" GRANGE FILM BOOKED

"One Minute to Play" Coming to Ceramic.

Throbbing with some of the greatest football scenes ever put on the screen Greater F. B. O's famous production of "One Minute to Play," starring Red Grange, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre all next week, except Thursday.

The noted University of Illinois "Galloping Ghost," probably the most wonderful player who ever donned moleskins, gives a remarkable exhibition of his versatility and extraordinary broken-field running in the brilliant climax of the film, as well as proving himself a splendid actor, with a great screen versatility.

The direction by Sam Wood is an achievement in itself, and an excellent cast, including Mary McAllister, Charles Ogle, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Lincoln Steadman, Edythe Chapman, Lee Shumway and Jay Hunt, handle the supporting roles convincingly. George Wilson, the famous All-American halfback from the University of Washington squad, leads the opposing team in the picture, and does much to make the gridiron scenes realistic and vivid. The story and continuity were both written by Byron Morgan, noted for his work on the late Wallace Reid's racing tales.

Patterson Low Bidedr

tic composition. This bid was $894.82 below the engineer's estimate.

Either the Patterson bid for this work must be accepted or all bids rejected and the job readvertised, Service Safety Director Moore said today. The bids are being considered, and the board of control is expected to reach a decision by the middle of next week. Should the work be readvertised it is doubtful if the improvement can be completed this year.

Bids for two sewer improvement jobs—Garfield street and Briar alley—were also over the engineer's estimate and new bids must be sought. On the Garfield street job, Patterson asked $5,741.05 while Peter Milliron estimated the contract at $5,602.80, as compared with the engineer's estimate of $4,623.52. For the Briar alley sewer Patterson's bid was $1,458.20 and Milliron's $1,432.75. Estimate for this job was $1,367.74.

Bids for the grading and surfacing of Avondale street from Bank to North street will be opened Monday by the board of control.

18 of Crew Escape In Dories as Vessel Is Swept by Fire

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Oct. 16.—The steam trawler Pioneer out of Boston for the Cape Cod fishing grounds, was swept by fire 12 miles off Nauset light early today but the crew of 18 officers and men escaped in dories.

An explosion in the engine room caused the fire which spread rapidly and the vessel was abandoned. The 18 men of the trawler were picked up in their open dories by the coast guardsmen from the Nauset station.

COURT FIGHT ON STREET JOB

Willite Company Gets Injunction Against Director Moore.

A temporary injunction against the improvement of Fourth street was granted by Judge W. H. Spence in common pleas court at Lisbon upon application of Frank Swaney, representing the Ohio Willite Paving and Resurfacing company, of East Liverpool, one of the unsuccessful bidders. The court order was to be served this afternoon upon Service-Safety Director John W. Moore and George B. Patterson, Wellsville, who was awarded the contract, by Sheriff George Wright.

The petition filed by Attorney George T. Farral, Lisbon, representing Swaney, charges the Patterson bid is irregular inasmuch as the legislation for the improvement passed by city council, called for a resurfacing job. By the terms of the contract awarded to Patterson, the street will be improved with concrete and is not a resurfacing contract, Swaney alleges.

Mayor Ralph Benedum was notified of the injunction proceedings by Swaney at noon, said that the city would seek an early hearing. Work on the improvement will be deferred until the court hears arguments.

Compilation of the bids for the Fourth street improvement contract given Patterson showed the job will cost $27,532.15. This figure, Director Moore explained, includes $1,800 for additional grading made necessary by constructing this street with concrete rather than an asphaltic material. The bid is $1,178.10 less than the estimate of the Willite company for sheet asphalt, willite process, such as was laid on Fifth street, and $331.10 less than the estimate for asphaltic concrete, willite process. These two bids were: sheet asphalt, willite process, $28,710.25; asphaltic concrete, willite process, $27,863.25.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Mary McNary.

Mrs. Mary McNary, former resident of East Liverpool, died last night in her home at Canton.

She is survived by two daughters, Laura and Mary, both of Canton.

Funeral services will be held there tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial will be made at Bloomington, O.

ELEANOR HILL IN FILM ROLE

E. Liverpool Girl Plays in Picture at American.

Miss Eleanor Hill, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Walter B. Hill of the Park boulevard, has a role in the First National Picture, "The Amateur Gentleman," starring Richard Barthelmess to be seen at the American theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Hill is now a resident of Hollywood.

"The Amateur Gentleman" gets its name from that period between 1810 and 1820, when George, the Third, went insane and his brother became Prince Regent.

The costumes are of the Beau Brummell period, and in the story as told in the Barthelmess film, the hero Barnabas Beverely Barty, was the first to introduce wide trousers among the social lights of London.

Barthelmess' good looks and fine physique stand him in excellent stead in this colorful drama. He cuts an even more dashing figure if that is possible, as Barnabas Beverly Barty than he does as Lieutenant Ranson in "Ranson's Folly," which was released before the completion of "The Amateur Gentleman."

The picture hurries along at a fast clip and is full of exciting incidents. Two of the most exciting are a fist fight which Barty wages against his father, the ex-heavyweight champ of England, and a thrilling steeplechase.

For the fight Dick went into stiff training for several weeks under the tutelage of Mickey McMin, the well known ring figure.

The steeplechase shows him actually jockeying. This was one of the most dangerous exploits in the film and Dick suffered a fall from which he narrowly escaped grave injury.

Barthelmess is surrounded by an exceptionally brilliant cast in "The Amateur Gentleman." Dorothy Dunbar, a comparative new-comer to the screen but already in the ascendant, is seen in the leading feminine role opposite him.

Gardner James, who has just been given a five-year contract with Inspiration, has the major supporting role. Others included in the cast are Nigel Barrie, Brandon Hurst, John Miljan, Edward Davis, Billie Bennett, Herbert Grimwood, Gino Corrado, Sidney de Gray and John Peters.

Many American automobiles are to be displayed at the Prague automobile show this year

MARSHAL FANG FLEES AFTER KIANGSI FALLS

Earlier Report Said He Had Captured 20,000 Soldiers.

HINT TREACHERY

Military Governor and Staff Find Haven on Cruiser.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—A Central News dispatch from Shanghai today said General Sun Chuan-Fang, military governor of Kiangsi province, has administered a severe defeat to the southern Cantonese troops, near Hanchang. The northern forces captured 20,000 prisoners, according to the report.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16.—Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang of the allied armies was in flight today as Cantonese troops took possession of the province of Kiangsi.

Secession of his strongest supporters are treacherous withdrawals from Kukiang and other allied strongholds are the reasons advanced for the overthrow of Fang and the collapse of his armies.

Accompanied by his general staff, Marshal Fang is aboard a cruiser and it is believed he is fleeing toward Nanking.

Cantonese troops are in full possession of Kiangsi and General Chang Kai Shek has already started to reorganize the leaderless soldiery.

The coup of the Cantonese, according to word reaching here, was made as General Chang Kai Shek was supposedly proposing peace terms to the allied armies.

Military observers here believe operations of the warring factions will soon extend toward Shanghai.

Two Men are Held For Grand Jury on Auto Theft Charge

Albert Bucheit and Clyne Kisner were held for grand jury under $2,500 bond each by Municipal Judge Hanley yesterday afternoon when they faced charges of automobile stealing. Bucheit entered a plea of guilty, while Kisner pleaded not guilty. Daniel Runion, who was charged with the same offense, was dismissed after evidence submitted at the hearing showed that he had taken no part in the alleged theft.

The men are alleged to have stolen a Ford roadster belonging to Ralph Bailey, Chester, while it was parked on Broadway Thursday night.

NEW YORK HIT AT CERAMIC

"Mama Loves Papa" to Close Chicago Stock Engagement.

The Chicago Stock company will close a week's engagement at the Ceramic tonight by offering Jack McGowan's comedy, "Mamma Loves Papa," which enjoyed a run of eight solid months at the Ritz theatre in New York last season. It is said to be a very laughable play and a production that permits beautiful staging and handsome costuming.

During the week the Chicago players have excellently produced recent New York successes and they have well merited the large audiences that have taxed the capacity of the theatre.

The attraction appears in Alliance all next week, leaving for that city tomorrow.

bets $10 to 1 that this will be a nation of octogenarians by the end of the century.

That prediction is no exaggeration. Men, one day, will live habitually to be 140 years. But with a life average of 80 years only, it will be necessary to revise various things, including the age at which men marry.

Population would soon become unwieldly if a race of octogenarians married at 20 or 25 years of age and went on having children for half a century. Nature, however, would find a way to take care of that. She always does.

Canton Underworld Member Faces Term In Atlanta Prison

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 16.—Another former member of Canton's underworld today was preparing to enter the penitentiary.

Edward W. Markling, arrested in Canton two months ago on a charge of violating the Harrison Act, today indicated that he would not combat a sentence of three and a half years in the federal prison at Atlanta, imposed by Judge Jaul Jones in federal court here, upon a plea of guilty.

Markling, alleged by narcotic agents, to have been the source of supply for numerous dope peddlers, was arrested by representatives of the federal staff here upon information furnished them by Canton police.

Members of Funeral Party in Collision Near Marion.

MARION, O., Oct. 16.—One man is dead and three women are in City hospital here today, the result of an automobile crash eight miles north of the city on the Marion-Bucyrus pike last night. The dead:

John Stoody, Carey.

The injured:

Mrs. W. F. Graves, Carey.

Mrs. Claire Putnam, Carey.

Mrs. John Stoody, Carey.

The party, including Putnam, driver, who escaped injury, was returning from a funeral in Columbus, when the accident occurred. Blinded by the lights from another machine, Putnam failed to see a curve in the road. His automobile careened to one side of the highway and when he attempted to pull the heavy car back onto the highway it crashed into the ditch on the other side and turned over.

G. O. P. TO OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Committee Named to Arrange for Cooper Reception.

Republican headquarters for the fall campaign will be opened in East Liverpool probably next week, it was announced at a meeting of the Republican central committee held in municipal court rooms, last evening.

A headquarters committeee consisting of H. E. Hallett, George Buxton and Arthur Wallover has two down town locations under consideration. Negotiations probably will be closed today and the headquarters formally opened early in the week.

H. B. Barth was named chairman of the reception committee for Myers Y. Cooper, gubernatorial nominee, who will visit here Wednesday afternoon. Barth and his committee will meet probably Monday.

The following committees were appointed:

Campaign—T. A. McNicol, J. T. Croxall, W. S. Foulks, William Pittenger and Thomas H. Stephens.

Finance—William McGraw, Joseph Betz and H. B. Barth.

Cooper will come here at 1 p. m. and will spend about an hour and a half in East Liverpool. He is scheduled to meet a delegation of party leaders in Wellsville at 3 p. m.

None of the passengers was reported injured and they were transferred to another train for Columbus and other points along the division to continue their journey.

No Passengers Hurt.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Four mail clerks were injured at Fisher, O., near Dennison, early today when the engine and seven coaches of train No. 65, of the Pennsylvania lines, new York to St. Louis, were derailed, according to word deceived at the Pennsylvania lines district office here.

The injured were all mail clerks on the mail car which was derailed, together with a diner, a club car, and four Pullmans, the local office was advised. No passengers were hurt. The train was the second section of the fast New York to St. Louis through train.

Atlanta Special Wrecked.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Ky., Oct. 16.—Officials of the Cincinnati Southern railroad were taking steps today to clean up the wreckage of the Atlanta special, the engine and baggage car of which overturned here yesterday afternoon, scalding the fireman to death and injuring the engineer and baggagemen.

The wreck was believed today to have been caused by a spreading rail. None of the passengers was seriously injured, those receiving minor bruises and cuts being treated here and continuing their journey.

VICE CLEAN-UP IN STEUBENVILLE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 16.—A vice clean-up, with charges to be filed against several policemen, is in prospect here, it was announced today by associates of Dr. E. J. C. Sanders, who has become mayor in place of John S. H. Patton, permanently ousted yesterday.

While Dr. Sanders would discuss the policy of his administration, his advisers pointed out that evidence adduced at the trial of the ousted mayor necessited further action and that charges might be expected within 10 days.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Still staggering from the effects of Friday's violent decline, which carried down the average prices of representative stocks nearly three points, stock market today continued erratic and reactionary.

Encouraged by the week end reports of a declining tendency in some of the important departments of business, the professionals working for lower price levels offered stocks liberally, as the result of which General Motors declined an additional two and a half points and United States steel broke through another "resistance point to sell at 137⅞ there were reports of the further uncovering of stop loss orders, and the forced selling of stocks in accounts which had not responded to the calls for margins.

Wall street was inclined to attribute the poor showing in general business to the unfavorable weather and the break in cotton prices, for both of which it has a satisfactory remedy. The financial district continued somewhat bearish on the stock market, however, the conviction being strengthened by the east with which the professionals have been able to dislodge stocks at falling prices.

Selling pressure on the high priced speculative leaders continued without let up in the second hours. The motor stocks continued reactionary, with moon, Jordan, Willys Overland and other of the cheap motor shares declining to the new low levels. Jordon at 15 represented a decline of reached earlier in the year, while Hudson at 47, was down about seventy points. General Motors showed better resistance around 145, and Studebaker at 52.

Mrs. Wm. C. Fischer, 2009 Woodbourne Ave., Louisville, Ky., occasionally takes Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, which helped her over a quite severe ailment. "Yes," she says, "I still take Foley Pills, diuretic, at times, whenever I feel I need them, and as a result my health is wonderful." Not surprising, for Foley Pills, diuretic, are a reliable, valuable tonic medicine, constantly in use over 25 years, promoting that satisfactory cleansing flow so necessary to good health. Try them.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Committee Appointed by John Welch American Legion Post.

Plans are being formed for the observance of Armistice day, November 11, under the auspices of John Welch American Legion post. A committee composed of George C. Porter, chairmen; Leland Firestone and Floyd Lower has been delegated to arrange the program and appoint a general committee on arrangements.

Tentative plans call for the firing of a salute at 11 a. m. by the discharge of bombs, ringing of bells and blowing of whistles.

A football game betweeen the United Cigars and a team to be selected later will be staged at 3 o'clock. This will be followed at 5 o'clock by a dinner in the rooms of the post to which all former service men will be invited. The committee plans to secure a speaker for the occasion.

Band concert will be given in the public square at 7 o'clock by the Presbyterian band. This will be followed by an entertainment either in the David Anderson high school auditorium or the Methodist Episcopal church. Talent will be furnished by the Allen Lyceum bureau.

It is proposed that a dance be held to close the celebration.

G. W. ZIMMERMAN VISITING HERE

G. W. Zimmerman, a former resident of Lisbon, but now residing at Akron, has been spending several weeks with relatives in Lisbon and friends in Center township.

Mr. Zimmerman three years ago observed his golden wedding anniversary at Akron, and a year ago buried his wife at Lisbon. He in earlier years served as deputy sheriff under three different administrations, and also served several terms as constable of Center township.

In early life he attended the Lisbon village schools. He and Mark Huston, of East Liverpool, were classmates.

ELECTION BILLS BEING FILED

Expense bills incurred as a result of the August primary election continue to be filed with the county board of elections and forwarded to the office of County Auditor Elmer E. Walker for payment.

Bills filed for payment during August totaled $4,076.10, and those filed for payment during September totaled $2,243.55. So far this month bills amounting to $68.91 have been filed for payment, and more are to be received. So far, the primary election has cost $6,388.56.

The majority of the bills yet to be received will be for the payment of room rent for polling places.

INJUNCTION SUIT FILED BY MORANZ

Sam Moranz, owner of the Grand theatre, Lisbon, has filed an action in common pleas court against John H. Hinchliffe, now operating the Lisbon opera house, seeking a mandatory injunction against the defendant compelling him to abide by the terms of an agreement to lease the opera house to the plaintiff, as filed for record August 6 last.

Moranz declares in his petition that he was to pay $150 per month in advance as rent, and that a certified check was tendered as the rent for the first month, but which was refused by the defendant. The certified check is attached to the petition and made a part of the record.

TWO MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

A marriage license has been granted by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle to John B. Rollins, a millworker residing at East Liverpool, and Miss Sarah Margaret Hall, a clerk, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Tim Hall of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. A. H. O'Brien at East Liverpool.

"HARD" WINTER EXPECTED, SAYS WEATHER MAN

Severe Cold Season Looms if "Dope" is Correct.

RUN IN CYCLES

Abnormal Chilly Period Due, Law of Averages Indicates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—"Hard" winters run in cycles over a long period of years, according to observations of the U. S. Weather bureau.

Based upon this admitted fact the country is due this year for one of the most severe cold seasons since the abnormal winter of 1917. Weather bureau officials, discussing the weather of the next six months refused today, however, to make any predictions for the period.

Forecasters simply remarked that the last two or three winters have been somewhat above normal and if there is anything in the law of averages and weather performances since the first official observations were taken in 1870 a "hard' winter is overdue.

The bureau has been besieged with requests for information on winter possibilities in the temperature and storm line, but to all questions has confined itself to an exhibit of the graphic curves on weather maps of the past.

Elaborate studies are in prograss looking to possible long time predictions. The theories of weather forecasting on the basis of solar radiation and sun spots have been investigated but so far government forecasters are not ready to adopt these methods.

How I Dress My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

The thousands who see me daily on the stage wonder at my beautiful hair. It is wavy, glossy and abundant. Nearly everyone thinks that some wonderful hairdresser gives it daily care.

Not so—I'm too busy for that. I never go to a hairdresser, have never had a Marcel wave. I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. It is not sticky, not greasy. Before they made it I never dreamed a liquid could do so much. Now all toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c.

Nothing else I know gives a girl or woman so much added loveliness at once. No one can resist it when she knows. My guarantee comes with each bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

Schools for Your Children

YOU,

Mothers of this community!

You have children to educate. You want good schools that your children may have advantages equal to those given the children of the mail-order man in the city.

Do you not know that when you buy of the mail-order man instead of the merchants of this town you are taking away from the opportunities your children should have?

The schools are supported by taxes OF WHICH THE MAIL-ORDER MAN DOES NOT PAY ONE CENT IN THIS TOWN, but the money you are sending to the city means greater wealth and more money in the school funds of the city, and less wealth and less money in the school funds of this town.

WHY NOT ASSIST IN EDUCATING YOUR OWN CHILDREN?

You can do it by spending your dollars with the merchants who are assisting in keeping up the schools here instead of sending them to the mail-order man.

You mothers can be boosters for this town and your own children if you will.

Think it over.

Fortunate are those who live, own property and work in East Liverpool and Columbiana County.

Happily situated in the great industrial center of the upper Ohio Valley.

We all want East Liverpool and Columbiana County to grow in population and in prosperity, then we must all boost by work and deed.

Let's all pull together—Let's buy our merchandise from our own Columbiana County merchants.

Let's buy everything we can from merchants in the smaller towns of the county and from the merchants of East Liverpool.

Ohio State Favored to Trample Columbia In New York Game

Prowess Of Buckeyes Seen When Three Vets Are Forced To Bench

Five Sophomores Win Places, Ousting Former Regulars; Highly Touted Marek Subbing for Byrn Eby, Star of Last Year's Freshman Team; Only Three 1925 Veterans on Eastern Eleven.

By Sid Mercer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—When five sophomores can manage to win regular places on a varsity football team in spite of the presence of a veteran squad, there is reason to believe that that team will be much more powerful than it was the year before. That is the situation that prevails this season at Ohio State, with the result the Buckeyes are strongly favored to trample Columbia this afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

The Scarlet and Gray had a high class combination a year ago and of the eleven men who participated in the 9 to 0 victory over Columbia at Columbus, nine are at hand.

But three of these are going to be on the sidelines today, for better material has come up from a remarkable freshman team of a year ago. In addition, the places of both men lost by graduation are being filled by second-year men although some more experienced men of considerable ability are at hand.

On the other hand, this year's Columbia team is regarded as being somewhat weaker than was that of 1925. Schimeitisch, Wiberg, Wagner, Raphel and Aulick, stars who faced the Buckeyes last fall, no longer are available, and in addition, Pease, last year's captain, who was unable to play against Ohio State, an account of an injury, is missing.

With the exception of Madden, Sesit and Shaw, none of the members of this year's Columbia combination was a regular throughout the 1925 season. In spite of this Columbia has made a reasonably good showing in the three games it has played so far, all its opponents being held scoreless.

The brunt of Ohio State's attack today is expected to be borne by Captain Marty Karow, plunging fullback, who was a thorn in Columbia's side last year, and Byrn Eby, sensational sophomore running back. The latter has displaced the nightly touted Elmer Marek, one of the leading backs in the conference last fall, who however is expected to get into today's battle as a sub for Eby. On the line the most notable performer is likely to be Ed Hess, all-American guard.

The Line Up:

Penn Picked By Experts to Win From Stagg's Chicago Gridders

Prediction Based on Eastern Eleven's Impressive Early Season Showing.

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Pennsylvania and Chicago, more or less sincere prototypes of Eastern and Middle Western football, will meet this afternoon on Franklin field in a future resumption of their intermittent relationship and, six weeks hence, it may be that the outcome will exercise an abiding influence on the comparative reputation of the two great sections. Neither has lost a game to date but that detail probably will be attended to this afternoon.

The smart money has picked Chicago to finish second, largely because of Pennsylvania's rather impressive early season record in which it has averaged more than forty points in three games. As to that, Stagg's Maroon team is reputed to be better equipped than the 1925 outfit, in spite of a wholesale loss of stars.

Among the latter are McCarthy, the "five-yard" gent; Bob Curley, kicker of field goals; Henderson, a fine tackle; Lampe, a good end, and Timme, one of the regular backs. They gave the team a fine running attack but it lacked passing finesse. Today, it will have a sound attacking threat in Marks and, according to Pennsylvania scouts, a passing game employed with considerable deception.

It happens to be Alonzo Stagg's thirty-fourth year as coach at Chicago and he has been around too long to be unwilling to adapt his system to the material at hand. Chicago had to be a reasonably good team to beat Florida and Maryland as it did.

In fact, it may be that is was a better team in those games than Pennsylvania was in its first three, in spite of its high scores. It didn't meet the best in the world in Franklin and Marshall, John Hopkins and Swarthmore.

Penn also has stepped out with something new this year. It is a hidden ball attack, such as was used with marked success at Harvard and elsewhere some seasons ago. One must have the men to carry this business off successfully and Penn claims it has them in Murphy, the new quarterback, and Rogers and Fields, halfbacks. The latter is a reserve back who usually is turned loose in the fading moments of the game when the opposition is leg laden.

TIGERS TACKLE NAVY ELEVEN

Rival Coaches See Nothing But Bitter Battle.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16.—Princeton tackles Navy in Palmer stadium here today in the most important test that either eleven has faced so far. The Tigers has fur to smooth after the showing against Washington and Lee on last Saturday. Princeton didn't look too good, and just about escaped with a tie. Navy has shown to somewhat better advantage than its rival, but not enough to give it any decided edge. Princeton has a happy knack of rising to an occasion. It may surprise this afternoon.

Neither William Roper, Princeton Coach, nor "Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of the Middes, can see anything but a bitter battle in store for his team.

Princeton will take the field with Captain Jack Davis on the side lines still nursing his pet tin ear. Jakie Slagle is hors du combat and will not be back until the Harvard game.

From Navy comes the wail that Shapely, one of the potent triple threats of the team, will be on the side lines. There are other men out of prime condition on the Navy squad.

Princeton has a knack of producing one hero when heroes are needed. There is always a man to do big things. Johnny Poe did it; John R. DeWitt did it, Sam White won two games in a single year and Garrity and Sherer rose to an emergency in a Yale game some years ago. Princeton is looking around for a hero to crown tonight.

Ted Williams started the game with Washington and Lee at quarterback and looked like a hero for a while. He scored a touchdown from a 60-yard run through the enemy team, but later he fumbled and the visitors scored a touchdown from that.

The probabilities are that Williams will get a good bit of action today, with Disston sharing the burden with him. Bridges, Prendergast, Miles and Norman look like backfield choices, while Earle Baruch and Jack Chandler will undoubtedly see service. Baruch is a triple threat of great possibility.

Princeton's line will have to show something swifter than it showed against Washington and Lee. With Davis out of action the center trio is not the strongest combination in the world.

Navy's ends and tackles will probably outshine the Tiger forwards in those positions. The middies boast four tackles in Captain Wickhorst, Eddy, Woerner and Olsen, who rank right with the best. I like the end play of Taylor and Lloyd, and there are ample reserves right down the line.

AKRON GRIDDERS BEATEN IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 16.—Smith Technical High school's eleven today is celebrating its victory in a tough football contest which it won from the Steel High school of Akron, O., here yesterday, 6 to 0.

Smith surprised the visitors and swept them off their feet during the first three minutes of play, scoring a touchdown but failing to make the extra point.

The Akron team then buckled down to business and held the local eleven scorless throughout the remaining periods.

Dundee Heralded As Principal Foe Of Welter Champ

Wins Decision Over Jack Zivic in 10-round Battle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—There was no doubt in the minds of fight experts today that the outstanding challenger for the welterweight crown of Pete Latzo is Joe Dundee of Baltimore who last night defeated Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Zivic, after a good start, succumbed to Dundee's straight punching and untiring aggressiveness. He had Dundee on the ropes in the eighth but lost the remaining rounds with the exception of the second and third.

Zivic put up a stubborn battle, landing regularly to Dundee's jaw but the Baltimore battler retaliated by putting on more steam.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, won decision from Jack Zivic, of Pittsburgh, ten rounds. Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, won decision over Farmer Joe Cooper, of Indiana, ten rounds. Andy Di Vodi, of Bay Ridge, N. Y., won decision over Vince Dundee, of Philadelphia, six rounds. Alf Mancini, of England, won decison from Paul De Hate, of California, ten rounds.

AT BOSTON — Maxie Rosenbloom of Brooklyn won on a foul from Tiger Flowers, of Atlanta, Ga., middleweight champion, in the ninth round. The title was not at stake, as both men were over-weight.

AT LOS ANGELES—Doc Snell, of Tacoma, won decision over Jimmy McLarning, Belfast, ten rounds.

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Young Jack Thompson, of Los Angeles, won a technical knockout over Billy Adams, of New Orleans, fifth round.

AT WATERLOO, Iowa. — Young Stribling, of Atlanta, knocked out Lou Rollinger in the third round.

AT PATERSON, N. J.—Jack De Mave of Hoboken, N. J., won from Jack Warren of Chicago, ten rounds.

AT SAVANNAH, Ga.—Bud McCoray of New York, knocked out Battling Finch, of Savannah, in the second round.

AT TAMPA, Fla.—Sammy Vogel, of New York, won decision from Armando Shekels, of Belgium, ten rounds.

AT YOUNGSTOWN, O. — Tommy Cello, of San Francisco, drew with Al Gordon, of Philadelphia, twelve rounds.

AT DAYTON, O.—Jim Stone, Dayton, defeated Tut Jackson, Washington, C. H., 8 rounds.

Bobby McGowan, Dayton, defeated Speedy Miller, Cincinnati, 8 rounds.

AT WINDSOR — Carl Tremaine, Cleveland, won decision over Ward Sparks, in 10 rounds.

Johnny Webber won from Mickey O'Neil, Cleveland.

Yale and Dartmouth Draw Monster Crowd In New Haven Tilt

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 16.—By motor car and railroad train 40,000 people advanced on New Haven today to join with as many residents to watch Dartmouth and Yale clash in the bowl this afternoon.

The game is expected to be the greatest of the year on Yale's schedule and while odds this morning favored Dartmouth there was an undercurrent that favored Yale to win.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Another thing that blends well with the points I have previously cited about the forward swing is a fairly tight feeling in the fingers and wrists. By tight I do not mean rigidity, but I do caution players to beware of hands and wrists that are wobbly and entirely too loose. After all, you are going to hit a blow with your club and common sense can dictate to you what amounts to enough of a hold on the weapon to give you a hitting feeling. Often in iron shots an absolute rigidity in the wrists does no harm at all, but for longer shots the wrists must be free enough so they can swing the clubhead through just as it gets to the ball. This amounts to a sort of chopping action with the wrists, like you would use the wrists in driving a nail. The wrists thus give you the last ounce of power application. In tightening up the grip be careful to leave the wrists free enough for this chopping—or flicking—action at the ball.

13 HOODOO HOLDS GOOD FOR MOUNTS

ALLIANCE, Oct. 16.—Thirteen may be lucky for some people but 13 points have been mighty unlucky for the Royal Purple of Mount Union college. It has cost Coach Jack Thorpe's boys three football games in the past two years.

Last Saturday Mount lost to Oberlin 7-2. Last year to Wooster 6-0 and Miami 8-6. Mount was outscored in the three games just 13 points. Two of the touchdowns were of the fluke variety. Only one was scored from scrimmage, Miami being the only team to break through Mount's defense in the two seasons.

ARMY TO BATTLE SYRACUSE TODAY

WEST POINT, Oct. 16.—While the eyes of the Big Three may rest on Dartmouth and Yale today, and the orbs of the West lean heavily toward Pennsylvania and Chicago, the gaze of all Uncle Sam's soldiers peer across the miles from a score of outposts toward this historic old point.

For the Army in meeting Syracuse is undergoing its baptism of fire today, the baptism that will make or break it as a contender for national honors. Not since Ellinger, Fariwk and Garbisch has West Point had such a football team as "Biff" Jones drives this year and not in a decade have their hopes for supreme honors been as bright.

Greys and All Stars To Battle At Chester

Local Eleven, Playing First Game, Expects Tough Game With Undefeated West Virginians.

UNBEATEN in their first two games of the season, the Chester Valley All-Stars will tackle the East Liverpool Greys tomorrow afternoon at Smith field, Chester, in a contest that probably will tax the ability of the West Virginians to a far greater extent than either of the engagements in which the Stars have recorded victories.

In their opening game of the present campaign the Chester eleven won from the Mingo Indians and last Sunday nosed out a conquest over the Salineville Independents.

But, while confident, they are not expecting to walk away from the Greys tomorrow .The Greys are more or less familiar with the tactics and abilities of the Valley Stars' individual performers and consequently can be expected to develop a more intelligent and ,withal, a more effective defense against the Chester team's ground gaining moves.

Management of the Hancock county organization today announced that Dave Morgan, of Monaca, Pa., who starred at halfback for Bellefonte Academy for the last two years, probably will don a Chester uniform for duty in the backfield tomorrow.. If Morgan plays he can be depended upup to increase the effectiveness of the Chester eleven's attack considerably.

The Greys, only recently organized, have been working smoothly in practice sessions this week, but have yet to face the actual test. Nevertheless they are confident, if anything, that they will be able to give their rivals a better fight than either Mingo or Salineville.

The contest is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

Tulane-New York U. Clash Expected to Develop Punt Duel

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A kicking duel is expected in the intersectional football game at Yankee stadium this afternoon between the crack Tulane eleven and New York University, unbeaten so far this season.

Each of the contending teams has a pair of the best punters in the game—Kenneth Strong and Jack Connor for "Chick" Meehans's local violets, and Eddie Morgan and Johnny Menville for the big green wave team of New Orleans.

"Mike" Strong, who has been playing halfback for N. Y. U. is considered the longest punter on the collegiate gridiron this season but he has not yet been able to master the direction in which he wants the ball to travel. For this reason Connor, acting captain of the violet eleven, is more dependable, for there is none in the game who can send his spirals with such uncanny accuracy as does the former Exeter star.

GOPHERS PLAY MICHIGAN TEAM

Notre-Dame-Penn State is Mid-West Attraction Today.

By George A. Strickler.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. — While Ohio State is giving New York city its first glimpse of a Big Ten team and Chicago makes another appearance at Philadelphia in intersectional games, the remainder of the conference will run the first heat in their annual championship relay.

Outside of the Ohio State-Columbia game in which the Buckeyes hold a slight edge, and the Chicago-Pennsylvania tilt, which the Quakers are conceded outright, mid-western interest will center at Ann Arbor where Minnesota and Michigan tangle in the first of their two games this season.

Michigan, the outstanding team of the conference, is primed for its first hard game of the year and will probably blast all Gopher hopes for revenge.

Iowa, the homecoming guest at Urbana, will stake its ace, Cowboy Kutsch, against "Frosty" Peters, the Red Grange of Zuppke's 1926 entry, in an attempt to repeat last year's victory over the alma mater of its coach, Bert Ingwersen. Iowa's chances were better last year than they are this, and only a favor from fate is held out as the Hawkeye's hope.

Wisconsin at Purdue is the favorite, but the Boilermakers have encountered stiff competition in their early season games and might spring a surprise on the Badgers, who have yet to prove themselves worthy of all the good words spoken for them in pre-season resumes.

Pat Page will make his first appearance in the conference as a head coach at Evanston against Glen Thistlethwaite's Northwestern eleven. Northwestern's experience gives it a great advantage over the sophomore aggregation from Indiana.

The mid-west's intersectional attraction will be offered at Notre Dame where the Ramblers meet Penn State. Notre Dame seems pre-ordained to victory, Rockne himself having declared the South Bend outfit the better club by a comfortable margin.

Every time the bottom falls out of the stock market another class graduates from the School of Experience. —Mansfield Journal.

Ohio State Favored to Trample Columbia In New York Game

Prowess Of Buckeyes Seen When Three Vets Are Forced To Bench

Five Sophomores Win Places, Ousting Former Regulars; Highly Touted Marek Subbing for Byrn Eby, Star of Last Year's Freshman Team; Only Three 1925 Veterans on Eastern Eleven.

By Sid Mercer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—When five sophomores can manage to win regular places on a varsity football team in spite of the presence of a veteran squad, there is reason to believe that that team will be much more powerful than it was the year before. That is the situation that prevails this season at Ohio State, with the result the Buckeyes are strongly favored to trample Columbia this afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

The Scarlet and Gray had a high class combination a year ago and of the eleven men who participated in the 9 to 0 victory over Columbia at Columbus, nine are at hand.

But three of these are going to be on the sidelines today, for better material has come up from a remarkable freshman team of a year ago. In addition, the places of both men lost by graduation are being filled by second-year men although some more experienced men of considerable ability are at hand.

On the other hand, this year's Columbia team is regarded as being somewhat weaker than was that of 1925. Schimeitisch, Wiberg, Wagner, Raphel and Aulick, stars who faced the Buckeyes last fall, no longer are available, and in addition, Pease, last year's captain, who was unable to play against Ohio State, an account of an injury, is missing.

With the exception of Madden, Sesit and Shaw, none of the members of this year's Columbia combination was a regular throughout the 1925 season. In spite of this Columbia has made a reasonably good showing in the three games it has played so far, all its opponents being held scoreless.

The brunt of Ohio State's attack today is expected to be borne by Captain Marty Karow, plunging fullback, who was a thorn in Columbia's side last year, and Byrn Eby, sensational sophomore running back. The latter hais displaced the nightly touted Elmer Marek, one of the leading backs in the conference last fall, who however is expected to get into today's battle as a sub for Eby. On the line the most notable performer is likely to be Ed Hess, all-American guard.

Penn Picked By Experts to Win From Stagg's Chicago Gridders

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Pennsylvania and Chicago, more or less sincere prototypes of Eastern and Middle Western football, will meet this afternoon on Franklin field in a future resumption of their intermittent relationship and, six weeks hence, it may be that the outcome will exercise an abiding influence on the comparative reputation of the two great sections. Neither has lost a game to date but that detail probably will be attended to this afternoon.

The smart money has picked Chicago to finish second, largely because of Pennsylvania's rather impressive early season record in which it has averaged more than forty points in three games. As to that, Stagg's Maroon team is reputed to be better equipped than the 1925 outfit, in spite of a wholesale loss of stars.

Among the latter are McCarthy, the "five-yard" gent; Bob Curley, kicker of field goals; Henderson, a fine tackle; Lampe, a good end, and Timme, one of the regular backs. They gave the team a fine running attack but it lacked passing finesse. Today, it will have a sound attacking threat in Marks and, according to Pennsylvania scouts, a passing game employed with considerable deception.

It happens to be Alonzo Stagg's thirty-fourth year as coach at Chicago and he has been around too long to be unwilling to adapt his system to the material at hand. Chicago had to be a reasonably good team to beat Florida and Maryland as it did.

In fact, it may be that is was a better team in those games than Pennsylvania was in its first three, in spite of its high scores. It didn't meet the best in the world in Franklin and Marshall, John Hopkins and Swarthmore.

Penn also has stepped out with something new this year. It is a hidden ball attack, such as was used with marked success at Harvard and elsewhere some seasons ago. One must have the men to carry this business off successfully and Penn claims it has them in Murphy, the new quarterback, and Rogers and Fields, halfbacks. The latter is a reserve back who usually is turned loose in the fading moments of the game when the opposition is leg laden.

TIGERS TACKLE NAVY ELEVEN

Rival Coaches See Nothing But Bitter Battle.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16.—Princeton tackles Navy in Palmer stadium here today in the most important test that either eleven has faced so far. The Tigers has fur to smooth after the showing against Washington and Lee on last Saturday. Princeton didn't look too good, and just about escaped with a tie. Navy has shown to somewhat better advantage than its rival, but not enough to give it any decided edge. Princeton has a happy knack of rising to an occasion. It may surprise this afternoon.

Neither William Roper, Princeton Coach, nor "Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of the Middes, can see anything but a bitter battle in store for his team.

Princeton will take the field with Captain Jack Davis on the side lines still nursing his pet tin ear. Jakie Slagle is hors du combat and will not be back until the Harvard game.

From Navy comes the wail that Shapely, one of the potent triple threats of the team, will be on the side lines. There are other men out of prime condition on the Navy squad.

Princeton has a knack of producing one hero when heroes are needed. There is always a man to do big things. Johnny Poe did it; John R. DeWitt did it, Sam White won two games in a single year and Garrity and Sherer rose to an emergency in a Yale game some years ago. Princeton is looking around for a hero to crown tonight.

Ted Williams started the game with Washington and Lee at quarterback and looked like a hero for a while. He scored a touchdown from a 60-yard run through the enemy team, but later he fumbled and the visitors scored a touchdown from that.

The probabilities are that Williams will get a good bit of action today, with Disston sharing the burden with him. Bridges, Prendergast, Miles and Norman look like backfield choices, while Earle Baruch and Jack Chandler will undoubtedly see service. Baruch is a triple threat of great possibility.

Princeton's line will have to show something swifter than it showed against Washington and Lee. With Davis out of action the center trio is not the strongest combination in the world.

Navy's ends and tackles will probably outshine the Tiger forwards in those positions. The middies boast four tackles in Captain Wickhorst, Eddy, Woerner and Olsen, who rank right with the best. I like the end play of Taylor and Lloyd, and there are ample reserves right down the line.

AKRON GRIDDERS BEATEN IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 16.—Smith Technical High school's eleven today is celebrating its victory in a tough football contest which it won from the Steel High school of Akron, O., here yesterday, 6 to 0.

Smith surprised the visitors and swept them off their feet during the first three minutes of play, scoring a touchdown but failing to make the extra point.

The Akron team then buckled down to business and held the local eleven scorless throughout the remaining periods.

Dundee Heralded As Principal Foe Of Welter Champ

Wins Decision Over Jack Zivic in 10-round Battle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—There was no doubt in the minds of fight experts today that the outstanding challenger for the welterweight crown of Pete Latzo is Joe Dundee of Baltimore who last night defeated Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Zivic, after a good start, succumbed to Dundee's straight punching and untiring aggressiveness. He had Dundee on the ropes in the eighth but lost the remaining rounds with the exception of the second and third.

Zivic put up a stubborn battle, landing regularly to Dundee's jaw but the Baltimore battler retaliated by putting on more steam.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, won decision from Jack Zivic, of Pittsburgh, ten rounds. Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, won decision over Farmer Joe Cooper, of Indiana, ten rounds. Andy Di Vodi, of Bay Ridge, N. Y., won decision over Vince Dundee, of Philadelphia, six rounds. Alf Mancini, of England, won decison from Paul De Hate, of California, ten rounds.

AT BOSTON — Maxie Rosenbloom of Brooklyn won on a foul from Tiger Flowers, of Atlanta, Ga., middleweight champion, in the ninth round. The title was not at stake, as both men were over-weight.

AT LOS ANGELES—Doc Snell, of Tacoma, won decision over Jimmy McLarning, Belfast, ten rounds.

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Young Jack Thompson, of Los Angeles, won a technical knockout over Billy Adams, of New Orleans, fifth round.

AT WATERLOO, Iowa. — Young Stribling, of Atlanta, knocked out Lou Rollinger in the third round.

AT PATERSON, N. J.—Jack De Mave of Hoboken, N. J., won from Jack Warren of Chicago, ten rounds.

AT SAVANNAH, Ga.—Billo McCoran of New York, knocked out Battling Finch, of Savannah, in the second round.

AT TAMPA, Fla.—Sammy Vogel, of New York, won decision from Armando Shekels, of Belgium, ten rounds.

AT YOUNGSTOWN, O. — Tommy Cello, of San Francisco, drew with Al Gordon, of Philadelphia, twelve rounds.

AT DAYTON, O.—Jim Stone, Dayton, defeated Tut Jackson, Washington, C. H., 8 rounds.

Bobby McGowan, Dayton, defeated Speedy Miller, Cincinnati, 8 rounds.

AT WINDSOR — Carl Tremaine, Cleveland, won decision over Ward Sparks, in 10 rounds.

Johnny Webber won from Mickey O'Neil, Cleveland.

BOOK FOUR—V.

Jock sat down; then in one swift swoop he was up again, towering over Bones' chair, holding him by the shoulders. "You big bum, quit stalling, will you? Where's that mother of mine? And what's she up to? And how come Ken and the rest are aching about having done me wrong? Tell me that!"

"Well, they did you wrong, didn't they?"

"But how do they know they did?"

"They've read Brad's letter," said Bones quite matter-of-factly.

There was utter stillness after that. Jock released his hold on Bones' shoulders and backed away slowly. Bones examined the ceiling once more. "Of course," he observed finally, "they should have read it weeks ago. Everybody should have. Would have, too, if I'd known there was such a thing in captivity."

When this elicited no response, he said further, "But people who live in tin boxes shouldn't have mothers! Some of your possessions, my good fellow, were—were—well, I blushed for you, I did really. That drool by Professor Whosis, for example—"

"Where's the letter now?" Jock demanded. "Have you got it?"

"No."

"Then mother has. What's she doing with it, making a house-to-house canvass?"

"Wrong both times. Your mother hasn't the letter, and she's not making a house-to-house canvass. There are ways and means more efficacious—whew, efficacious!" Beyond this word Bones seemed unable to proceed. He repeated it several times with growing enthusiasm, and looked to Jock for plaudit and praise. "How 'bout that? Ain't she a lulu? Efficacious! Say, did I make that up or did Webster? Reminds me of the game we used to play when we were kids—you know, like this: 'Mr. and Mrs. Kashus and daughter Effie Kashus—"

"Ass!" bellowed Jock. He was beginning, despite him, to feel blissfully light of heart. He wanted to laugh. His chest ached with captive laughter. And so he bellowed "Ass!" in a great voice and glowered at Bones with all the ferocity he could assume. "Where is that letter?"

"The—oh, the letter. Why, Pink Davis took it to math class. You know," Bones raised his voice slightly, "how math class is. The boys have to do something to while away the time. Pink and I thought they might as well be reading the letter as—"

"And where's mother?" Futile question now, for he knew, beyond any doubt.

"If you must know, she's putting the skids under Eunice," said Bones, "—but don't start after her! Because it'll be over my dead body. She told me to keep you away till she was through. Said she was going to see to it that you wouldn't be let in if you did go."

"I wasn't. I've already been there."

"No foolin'!"

"Yup. Just now. Eunice—she—oh, Lord—" His face crinkled, and he laughed at last, helplessly, convulsively, leaning against the edge of the desk. "Bones, honest—you should see Eunice—mad—with the paint job off—she looks—she looks like hell—"

His hilarity passed in time. It had never been hilarity, really; just a tremendous release, a healing, in hilarity's guise. Jock sat quiet. Bye and bye he swung himself erect and walked over to a smoking stand in a corner, where he stood fumbling with pipe and tobacco. "Poor old Brad," he murmured.

But even as Bones opened his mouth to protest this indication of a contrite mood, Jock turned around again, shining-eyed. "Boy, haven't I got some mother?" he said simply.

VI.

He had firmly believed that within a day or two after he left college, or within a week at most, he would be numbered among the workers of the world. He had pictured himself going to New York early every morning, one of the army of alert, business-looking young men who spilled over daily from Jersey, and returning with them every evening, full of the fever of commerce. In the interim, of course, the picture grew dim, for what work he would do was still problematical. But it would be something. Something in an airy big office high up in a tall building, at a mahogany desk with a telephone on it and a stenographer efficient but not too hard on the eyes sitting near. And it would be soon, without delay.

It wasn't, however. When the time came for him to bestir himself, he was bound in lassitude. "Tomorrow," said his soul. "Tomorrow you can see about a job. Today, just take it easy." And he did . . . while the todays and tomorrows strung themselves together into weeks, two weeks, three weeks, of soft idyllic idleness.

Every now and then he awoke briefly and ranted at himself. "You lazy good-for-nothing! You big hunk of cheese! Get going, will you? You left college to work, remember, not to loaf in the sun." Yet he continued to loaf in the sun. He literally had to, for a while. He was convalescing, from mental stress and strain so acute that its snap had left him limp as a string and in need of this interlude.

The matter of Eunice was settled; his mother had attended to that thoroughly. And he had gone from the campus with apologies and retractions singing in his ears and the glow of his comrades' regard in his heart. It had hurt rather terribly, that departure; when he drove away the road had blurred before his eyes as though there were rain on the windshield. But now. . . . Ah-h, to be at home! To sleep until noon in a bed like a silky white cloud! To breakfast on unmesticnable eggs, and peerless coffee, and cream that fell ploff from the pitcher! To see the hours lined up, waiting, like minions for his bidding! To be his own master, free, and to have on his mind no lingering shadow whatever! These things were sweet beyond measure, and precluded all regrets.

He became acquainted with his mother, and adored her. There were long conversations at bedtime, or in the dreamy afternoons, when they discussed things ethical, things psychological, things political, things obstetrical—any and every kind of thing. He found her mind a labyrinth for fascinating exploration, her personality endlessly beguiling. He took her to fly wild miles in the roadster, exulting in her sportsmanship, for she never cried out, never pressed the floor with an instinctive right foot, never clung frantically, frightenedly, to the side. He accompanied her to plays and gave her selected books to read, to hear what she would say of them, and was often surprised but never disappointed. She existed in his thoughts much less as a mother than as a sweetheart, a contemporary, a friend.

Two afternoons they spent apartment-hunting. The idea was Jock's. "No percentage in staying on in this house. Darn thing's too big! Why rattle around like a couple of bugs in a bucket? Let's sell it, and take an apartment in the city." It seemed feasible. A New York dwelling would be convenient to "the office" (so spake Jock, laughing at himself) and wonderfully convenient to Yvonne; and now that Mrs. Hamill's coterie had fallen in number from 60 to a nightly bridge-mad three, space was no longer requisite. So they hunted, and found what they wanted—eight livable rooms in an apartment house overlooking Central Park. They were to move the first week in April.

ed by the Bureau of Mines that have done much toward saving the lives of miners include the establishment of standards for electrical equipment that should be used in mines and what are known as permissible explosives.

Manufacturers of electrical equipmet have found it highly expedient to comply with the specifications of the Federad agency, and there are few mines now where explosives are being used that and not of the type that the Bureau approves.

But for all the safety work that has been done, mining continues to be the most hazardous of occupations in which large numbers of workers are engaged. In 1924, 2,381 men were killed in coal mine accidents in this country—one for every 251,000 tons of coal produced.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a resolution of Council of the Village of Salineville, Ohio, being resolution No. 1, passed on the 2nd day of September, 1926, and also a resolution, being resolution No. 2, passed by said village council on the 20th day of September, 1926, there will be submitted to the qualified electors of said village at the next regular election in the village of Salineville, on the 2nd day of November, 1926, the question of issuing bonds of said village in the sum of $3,500, for the purpose of acquiring and installing two new boilers at the water works pumping station of said village, for supplying water to the corporation and the inhabitants thereof.

That it is necessary to levy a tax outside of the limitations of section 5649-5b of the General Code and all other limitations upon tax rates prescribed by law, to pay the interest on and to retire said bonds, and the council of said village has elected to submit said bond issue to a vote of the people of said village under and by authority of Sections 5649-5a, 5649-5b and 5649-5c of the General Code.

That the maximum number of years during which said bonds shall run will be Five years; and the estimated average additional rate of tax required to be levied to pay the interest on and to retire such bonds is .424 mills annually during the life of said issue as certified by the county auditor.

Those who vote in favor of the proposition of issuing the bonds as aforesaid, shall have written or printed on their ballots the words,

"For an issue of bonds by the Village of Salineville, Ohio, for the purpose of acquiring and installing two new boilers at the water works pumping station of said village, for supplying water to said corporation and the inhabitants thereof, in the sum of $3,500, and a levy of taxes outside of existing limitations estimated by the county auditor to average .424 mills for a maximum period of five years to pay the principal and interest on such bonds. YES."

Resolution No. 383.

DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE SEWER DISTRICT NUMBER TWO COMMENCING AT THE INTERSECTION OF YOUNG'S ALLEY AND STEWART STREET THENCE ON AND ALONG STEWART STREET TO DAISY ALLEY, THENCE ON AND ALONG DAISY ALLEY TO AN UNNAMED ALLEY RIGHT OPPOSITE GRANT STREET BY CONSTRUCTING THEREIN A SANITARY SEWER OF HARD BURNED VITRIFIED SEWER PIPE.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio: (Three-fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring):

SECTION I. That it is necessary to improve Sewer District Number Two commencing at the intersection of Young's Alley and Stewart Street, thence on and along Stewart street to Daisy Alley, thence on and along Daisy Alley to an unnamed alley right opposite Grant Street by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, together with all necessary manholes, flush tanks, branch connections and doing everything else necessary or essential for the proper completion of said improvement in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles hereinafter mentioned.

SECTION II. That the grade of said sewer shall be shown on said plans, profiles and specifications, which are by reference made a part hereof.

SECTION III. That the plans, profiles, specifications and estimates of said proposed improvement heretofore prepared by the City Engineer and now on file in the Office of the Director fo Public Service, where the same are open for public inspection, be and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION IV. That the whole cost of said improvement less one-fiftieth (1/50) thereof shall be assessed by the foot frontage upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit:

All lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement between and including the termini of said improvement, which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement, and in an amount to be levied and assessed, respectively, pursuant hereto; and the cost of said improvement shall include the cost and expense of the preliminary and other surveys, and of printing and publishing the notices, resolutions and ordinances required, and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction, together with

BOOK FOUR—V.

Jock sat down; then in one swift swoop he was up again, towering over Bones' chair, holding him by the shoulders. "You big bum, quit stalling, will you? Where's that mother of mine? And what's she up to? And how come Ken and the rest are aching about having done me wrong? Tell me that!"

"Well, they did you wrong, didn't they?"

"But how do they know they did?"

"They've read Brad's letter," said Bones quite matter-of-factly.

There was utter stillness after that. Jock released his hold on Bones' shoulders and backed away slowly. Bones examined the ceiling once more. "Of course," he observed finally, "they should have read it weeks ago. Everybody should have. Would have, too, if I'd known there was such a thing in captivity."

When this elicited no response, he said further, "But people who live in tin boxes shouldn't have mothers! Some of your possessions, my good fellow, were—were—well, I blushed for you, I did really. That drool by Professor Whosis, for example—"

"Where's the letter now?" Jock demanded. "Have you got it?"

"No."

"Then mother has. What's she doing with it, making a house-to-house canvass?"

"Wrong both times. Your mother hasn't the letter, and she's not making a house-to-house canvass. There are ways and means more efficacious—whew, efficacious!" Beyond this word Bones seemed unable to proceed. He repeated it several times with growing enthusiasm, and looked to Jock for plaudit and praise. "How 'bout that? Ain't she a lulu? Efficacious! Say, did I make that up or did Webster? Reminds me of the game we used to play when we were kids—you know, like this: 'Mr. and Mrs. Kashus and daughter Effie Kashus—'"

"Ass!" bellowed Jock. He was beginning, despite him, to feel blissfully light of heart. He wanted to laugh. His chest ached with captive laughter. And so he bellowed "Ass!" in a great voice and glowered at Bones with all the ferocity he could assume. "Where is that letter?"

"The—oh, the letter. Why, Pink Davis took it to math class. You know," Bones raised his voice slightly, "how math class is. The boys have to do something to while away the time. Pink and I thought they might as well be reading the letter as—"

"And where's mother?" Futile question now, for he knew, beyond any doubt.

"If you must know, she's putting the skids under Eunice," said Bones, "—but don't start after her! Because it'll be over my dead body. She told me to keep you away till she was through. Said she was going to see to it that you wouldn't be let in if you did go."

"I wasn't. I've already been there."

"No foolin'!"

"Yup. Just now. Eunice—she—oh, Lord—" His face crinkled, and he laughed at last, helplessly, convulsively, leaning against the edge of the desk. "Bones, honest—you should see Eunice—mad—with the paint job off—she looks—she looks like hell—"

His hilarity passed in time. It had never been hilarity, really; just a tremendous release, a healing, in hilarity's guise. Jock sat quiet. Bye and bye he swung himself erect and walked over to a smoking stand in a corner, where he stood fumbling with pipe and tobacco. "Poor old Brad," he murmured.

But even as Bones opened his mouth to protest this indication of a contrite mood, Jock turned around again, shining-eyed. "Boy, haven't I got some mother?" he said simply.

VI.

He had firmly believed that within a day or two after he left college, or within a week at most, he would be numbered among the workers of the world. He had pictured himself going to New York early every morning, one of the army of alert, business-looking young men who spilled over daily from Jersey, and returning with them every evening, full of the fever of commerce. In the interim, of course, the picture grew dim, for what work he would do was still problematical. But it would be something. Something in an airy big office high up in a tall building, at a mahogany desk with a telephone on it and a stenographer efficient but not too hard on the eyes sitting near. And it would be soon, without delay.

It wasn't, however. When the time came for him to bestir himself, he was bound in lassitude. "Tomorrow," said his soul. "Tomorrow you can see about a job. Today, just take it easy." And he did . . . while the todays and tomorrows strung themselves together into weeks, two weeks, three weeks, of soft idyllic idleness.

Every now and then he awoke briefly and ranted at himself. "You lazy good-for-nothing! You big hunk of cheese! Get going, will you? You left college to work, remember, not to loaf in the sun." Yet he continued to loaf in the sun. He literally had to, for a while. He was convalescing, from mental stress and strain so acute that its snap had left him limp as a string and in need of this interlude.

The matter of Eunice was settled; his mother had attended to that thoroughly. And he had gone from the campus with apologies and retractions singing in his ears and the glow of his comrades' regard in his heart. It had hurt rather terribly, that departure; when he drove away the road had blurred before his eyes as though there were rain on the windshield. But now. . . . Ah-h, to be at home! To sleep until noon in a bed like a silky white cloud! To breakfast on unquestionable eggs, and peerless coffee, and cream that fell plop! from the pitcher! To see the hours lined up, waiting, like minions for his bidding! To be his own master, free, and to have on his mind no lingering shadow whatever! These things were sweet beyond measure, and precluded all regrets.

He became acquainted with his mother, and adored her. There were long conversations at bedtime, or in the dreamy afternoons, when they discussed things ethical, things psychological, things political, things obstetrical—any and every kind of thing. He found her mind a labyrinth for fascinating exploration, her personality endlessly beguiling. He took her to fly wild miles in the roadster, exulting in her sportsmanship, for she never cried out, never pressed the floor with an instinctive right foot, never clung frantically, frightenedly, to the side. He accompanied her to plays and gave her selected books to read, to hear what she would say of them, and was often surprised but never disappointed. She existed in his thoughts much less as a mother than as a sweetheart, a contemporary, a friend.

Two afternoons they spent apartment-hunting. The idea was Jock's. "No percentage in staying on in this house. Darn thing's too big! Why rattle around like a couple of bugs in a bucket? Let's sell it, and take an apartment in the city." It seemed feasible. A New York dwelling would be convenient to "the office" (so spake Jock, laughing at himself) and wonderfully convenient to Yvonne; and now that Mrs. Hamill's coterie had fallen in number from 60 to a nightly bridge-mad three, space was no longer requisite. So they hunted, and found what they wanted—eight livable rooms in an apartment house overlooking Central Park. They were to move the first week in April.

ed by the Bureau of Mines that have done much toward saving the lives of miners include the establishment of standards for electrical equipment that should be used in mines and what are known as permissible explosives.

Manufacturers of electrical equipmet have found it highly expedient to comply with the specifications of the Federad agency, and there are few mines now where explosives are being used that and not of the type that the Bureau approves.

But for all the safety work that has been done, mining continues to be the most hazardous of occupations in which large numbers of workers are engaged. In 1924, 2,381 men were killed in coal mine accidents in this country—one for every 251,000 tons of coal produced.

LEGAL NOTICE!

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a resolution of Council of the Village of Salineville, Ohio, being resolution No. 1, passed on the 2nd day of September, 1926, and also a resolution, being resolution No. 2, passed by said village council on the 20th day of September, 1926, there will be submitted to the qualified electors of said village at the next regular election in the village of Salineville, on the 2nd day of November, 1926, the question of issuing bonds of said village in the sum of $3,500, for the purpose of acquiring and installing two new boilers at the water works pumping station of said village, for supplying water to the corporation and the inhabitants thereof.

That it is necessary to levy a tax outside of the limitations of section 5649-5b of the General Code and all other limitations upon tax rates prescribed by law, to pay the interest on and to retire said bonds, and the council of said village has elected to submit said bond issue to a vote of the people of said village under and by authority of Sections 5649-5a, 5649-9b and 5649-9c of the General Code.

That the maximum number of years during which said bonds shall run will be Five years; and the estimated average additional rate of tax required to be levied to pay the interest on and to retire such bonds is .424 mills annually during the life of said issue as certified by the county auditor.

Those who vote in favor of the proposition of issuing the bonds as aforesaid, shall have written or printed on their ballots the words,

"For an issue of bonds by the Village of Salineville, Ohio, for the purpose of acquiring and installing two new boilers at the water works pumping station of said village, for supplying water to said corporation and the inhabitants thereof, in the sum of $3,500, and a levy of taxes outside of existing limitations estimated by the county auditor to average .424 mills for a maximum period of five years to pay the principal and interest on such bonds. YES."

Resolution No. 383.

DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE SEWER DISTRICT NUMBER TWO COMMENCING AT THE INTERSECTION OF YOUNG'S ALLEY AND STEWART STREET, THENCE ON AND ALONG STEWART STREET TO DAISY ALLEY, THENCE ON AND ALONG DAISY ALLEY TO AN UNNAMED ALLEY RIGHT OPPOSITE GRANT STREET BY CONSTRUCTING THEREIN A SANITARY SEWER OF HARD BURNED VITRIFIED SEWER PIPE.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio: (Three-fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring):

SECTION I. That it is necessary to improve Sewer District Number Two commencing at the intersection of Young's Alley and Stewart Street, thence on and along Stewart street to Daisy Alley, thence on and along Daisy Alley to an unnamed alley right opposite Grant Street by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, together with all necessary manholes, flush tanks, branch connections and doing everything else necessary or essential for the proper completion of said improvement in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles hereinafter mentioned.

SECTION II. That the grade of said sewer shall be shown on said plans, profiles and specifications, which are by reference made a part hereof.

SECTION III. That the plans, profiles, specifications and estimates of said proposed improvement heretofore prepared by the City Engineer and now on file in the Office of the Director fo Public Service, where the same are open for public inspection, be and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION IV. That the whole cost of said improvement less one-fiftieth (1/50) thereof shall be assessed by the foot frontage upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit:

All lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement between and including the termini of said improvement, which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement, and in an amount to be levied and assessed, respectively, pursuant hereto; and the cost of said improvement shall include the cost and expense of the preliminary and other surveys, and of printing and publishing the notices, resolutions and ordinances required, and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction, together with interest on notes and bonds issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

SECTION V. That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in five (5) annual installments with interest on deferred payments, at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection tehreof; said rate not to exceed six per cent (6%) per annum; provided that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty (30) days from and after the passage of the assesing ordinance.

SECTION VI. That bonds fo the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, shall be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

SECTION VII. That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement not specially assessed, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds, in the manner provided by law.

SECTION VIII. That said improvement is hereby declared to be conductive to and necessary for the public health, convenience and welfare.

SECTION IX. That this Resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed this 7th day of October, 1926.
N. P. KERR.
President of Council,

Attest:
G. ARTHUR SHONE,
Clerk of Council.
Approved this 7th day of October, 1926.

You can't treat an inferior gasoline with a patent medicine and expect to get good gasoline. No more than you can counteract the effect of a bad egg in an omelet by adding fresh ones.

Ask the mechanic at your repair garage the condition of motors he has torn down in which "Colored Gasoline Dopes" have been used. That's the test.

Straight Run and Double Refined Gasoline

Gasoline which is not "sick" does not need "doctoring."

The manufacturer of your motor will not advise the use of any "dope," as your motor was designed and built to use a high-grade, clean-burning gasoline.

You can't treat an inferior gasoline with a patent medicine and expect to get good gasoline. No more than you can counteract the effect of a bad egg in an omelet by adding fresh ones.

Ask the mechanic at your repair garage the condition of motors he has torn down in which "Colored Gasoline Dopes" have been used. That's the test.

Facing Destruction.
Wet, Dry, Part Wet.
Both Jumped.

ANDREW FURUSETH, head of the Seamen's union, a fine old sailor, says unions "face destruction" at the hands of the courts, and suggests "it may be necessary for us to tell courts that enjoin us we refuse to answer your questions, we refuse to recognize you, etc.

MR. FURUSETH is earnest and honest, and labor unions, compelling employers to pay decent wages have in past times been powerful in increasing general prosperity.

But those unions really will "face destruction" on the day they decide to overrule the courts. That must be done only through the ballot box, not in the backroom of any labor union or corporation.

RHODE ISLAND, including Newport and its luxury, is Republican and wet.

New York is wet on the Democratic side, half wet and half dry on the Republican side.

The rest of the country is partly wet, partly dry, more dry than wet.

In New York's Democratic club, including all good Tammany men, a 30-gallon still for manufacturing whisky is discovered in the cellar, most appropriately.

Indignation is aroused by the size of the still, only a 30-gallon still. The club has thousands of members. Thirty gallons is ridiculous.

YOU have not read this before.

Mrs. Sarah Fanades, aged 37, quarreled with her husband, Theodore, and to prove her point jumped down the dumb waiter shaft, shouting "here I go."

He shouted after her, "I am on my day down, too," and jumped, landing, very much like a man on his wife's unconscious body. They are both in the hospital, may recover, and live to be reconciled.

A GERMAN scientist has photographed the inside of a human stomach, using blue light. If some men, 90 per cent, could have such a photograph taken, after dinner, it would horrify them.

Booklet On The Selection and Preparation of Meat

Here is a booklet that every woman will want.

It covers the following subjects: The selection of meat; Food value of meat; Care of meat in the home; General rules for cooking meat—broiling, roasting, pot-roasting, braising, boiling, and soupmaking. It contains a time and temperature table and charts of the various cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb.

It also tells what vegetables go best with different meats, suggests dinner menus and includes over one hundred tested meat recipes.

If you want this valuable booklet fill out the attached coupon and mail it, together with four cents in stamps for return postage and handling.

MAIL CLERKS ARE INJURED IN DERAILMENT NEAR DENNISON

Second Section of "American," is in Smash-up.

Engine, Three Sleepers and Other Coaches in Crash.

DENNISON, O., Oct. 16.—Four mail clerks were injured when one engine, a mail car, and club car and three sleepers of the "American," crack Pennsylvania railroad train from New York to St. Louis, were derailed near here early today.

It was the second section of the train and was made up of 10 cars, reports reaching here from the scene stated. No cause of the derailment was given.

Engine Jumps Track.

The clerks injured when the mail car plunged down the fifty foot embankment and landed upside down, were:

Allen McCue, of St. Louis; W. E. Harris, of Pittsburgh; D. C. Carson, of Greenup, Ill., and H. H. Gregg, of Newark, Ohio.

They received only scratches and bruises, gathered up the scattered mail and continued their trip with it on another train.

AUTOIST FINED $30 AND COSTS

Jack Rollins, Frankfort Springs, Pa., was fined $30 and costs when he pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Hanley in police court today to a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. W. W. Ralston, who was with him in the car at the time of his arrest, drew a fine of $10 and costs for intoxication.

Ralston was arrested Friday morning, charged with operating an auto while intoxicated, and upon arraignment was fined $50 and costs. He claimed that Rollins was driving him home yesterday afternoon when they were arrested on Second street by Chief McDermott and Patrolman Roth.

Woman is Injured In Hilltop Crash Of Auto and Truck

Mrs. J. A. Van Dyne, Negley street, received a minor injury to her head when the touring car, driven by her husband, and in which she was a passenger, and a Woodbine Laundry company truck collided on the Lincoln highway, near the Pleasant Heights school, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Van Dyne was headed north, while the truck was coming south, the two machines meeting head-on. Van Dyne and John O'Rourke, driver of the truck, were unhurt. Mrs. Van Dyne was taken to her home by Harry Walker, one of the laundry company owners, and later attended by Dr. H. A. Turk.

Both machines, which were badly damaged, were removed by the McCamon Motor Car company's wrecking car.

First Degree Count is Returned Against Former Inmate of State Insane Asylum.

URBANA, O., Sept. 16.—After deliberating all day yesterday, a special grand jury today returned a first degree indictment against Harry Sprague, 40, World war veteran and former inmate of the state insane asylum at Columbus, who shot and killed Sheriff Jacob K. Boslern, 56, last Sunday night when Boslern attempted to arrest him on complaint of Sprague's wife, who said he had threatened to kill her.

The indictment contained two counts, one charging murder and the other charging Sprague with shooting an officer of the law in performance of his duty.

Sprague is held in the county jail here.

LOS ANGELES AT LAKEHURST AFTER RACE TO AVOID STORM

Navy Dirigible Flees to Hudson River Valley.

VISITS BUFFALO

Crew Eats Chicken Dinner as Blimp Speeds Eastward.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 16.—After a race across several states to avoid a storm brewing in the west, the Los Angeles, giant navy dirigible, returned here safely at 4:40 a. m. today and was landed on the field by 6:50 a. m. It left Detroit yesterday afternoon at 3:40 o'clock and fled before the storm to the Hudson river valley where the big ship outdistanced it.

With the memory of the Shenandoah's fate in Ohio last year in mind, Lieutenant-Commander Rosendahl cast loose when he heard the storm was coming toward him.

Speeding eastward at 75 miles an hour the crew members wirelessed they were enjoying a chicken dinner, furnished by the Ford Motor Company. The big ship passed over Buffalo at 9:30 o'clock and over Rochester at 10:25 last night.

Abbreviate Detroit Stay.

Although the Los Angeles abbreviated its visit at Detroit by 18 hours when the storm threat arose, its principal mission was completed when it was safely moored to the $100,000 mooring mast which had been especially built for it by Henry Ford at his private airport at Dearborn, Mich.

The dirigible was to have participated today in the dedication of a municipal airport at Youngstown, Ohio, named in memory of Lieut.-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, commander of the ill-fated Shenandoah, who lost his life with his ship in a storm over Ohio last year. At the approach of the storm today, which Lieut.-Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, commanding the Los Angeles, feared might prove similar to that which wrecked the Shenandoah, caused him to make a precipitate flight homeward.

FIRE DESTROYS "STEEL QUEEN"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—The "Steel Queen," steamboat, owned by the Fidelity Ferry company, Pittsburgh, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin and its hull sunk while it was tied up in the Ohio river here today. The loss was estimated at $75,000.

The "Steel Queen," a two-deck boat, had been operated by the Ferry company, a subsidiary of the Pressed Steel Car company.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN HOME

France Defers Debt Action.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The French government will not ask for ratification of the British and American debt settlements before February, it was learned authoritatively today.

The delay has been decided upon in the hopes that the November elections in the United States and the French senatorial election in January may change the situation.

EXAMINERS ON JOB AS PRESIDENT R. A. M'CRADY REPORTS $320,000 LOSS

ALLEGED THAT CHARLES E. KNAPP FAILED TO DELIVER SECURITIES

Scores of Bank's 3,000 Depositors Line Streets in Front of Building When Investigators Lock Doors Pending Thorough Check of Books, as Result of Purported Swindle.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—State bank examiners took charge of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust company, Pittsburgh's only labor bank today, while a thorough investigation of the bank's reported loss of $320,000 to $425,000 to a bond salesman, was launched.

Three officials of the bank were held by city detectives on "suspicious person" charges, while the investigators checked the story of R. A. McCrady, president of the bank, that he turned over the huge sum to Charles E. Knapp, a bond salesman who was to deliver the bonds at McCrady's office, but who disappeared.

Knapp has not been located, but orders to apprehend him were sent to all nearby towns, where detectives believe he might have gone after McCrady says he received the money.

The three bank officials held are McCrady, William Kelly, vice president, and J. L. Nelson, treasurer. Frank Redman, who is said to have introduced Knapp to President McCrady, was held on a similar technical charge pending investigation.

McCrady's Story of Bond Deal.

The bank did not open for business today. Scores of the bank's 3,000 depositors lined the streets in front of the institution, but bank examiners said the bank's doors will remain closed until a thorough check of the bank's affairs is made.

The alleged swindle occurred, according to McCrady, after Knapp came to him and offered to sell $800,000 in bonds for $425,000. McCrady did not disclose the ownership of the bonds. He said Knapp told him the owner was badly in need of money and willing to make the sacrifice.

McCrady turned the money over to Knapp in a downtown law office late yesterday, he told detectives, and both men left in a taxicab. McCrady said he left the cab to attend to a personal matter, with the understanding that Knapp would bring the bonds to his office. When the latter did not appear after several hours, McCrady became alarmed and notified police.

John Hunker Taken To Belmont County To Face Indictment

John Hunker, automobile mechanic, who was arrested by Patrolmen Haley and Roth last night as the result of an indictment returned against him in Belmont county, charging abandonment of his children, was taken to St. Clairsville today by Deputy Sheriff Pearce. The indictment was returned upon information of Hunker's divorced wife.

Princess Hates Cosmetics, But She Uses Chewing Gum

ABOARD S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 16.—This is staggering news for the American flapper.

"I hate paint and powder," declared Princess Ileana of Rumania in an interview with the correspondents on board the Leviathan with Queen Marie.

The princess, however, confessed that she is striving to learn the intricacies of the management of American chewing gum and she is enthusiastic over American automobiles.

PATTERSON LOW ON SECOND JOB

Bids Under Engineer's Estimate for St. Clair Resurfacing.

But one of the three bids submitted yesterday for the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue between Young's alley and the north line of the J. T. Croxall property were within the engineer's estimate, according to figures compiled by City Engineer Flay Clapsaddle and submitted to the board of control today.

The engineer's estimate was $9,174.99, the Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company of this city offered $9,262.97 for asphaltic concrete, Willite process, and $9,624.27 for sheet asphalt, Willite process. George Patterson, Wellsville, who was awarded the Fourth street improvement job yesterday submitted a bid of $8,280.17 for amiesite, also a skid-proof asphal-

SECRET SERVICE OPERATIVE ASSIGNED AS BODYGUARD FOR YOUNG JOHN COOLIDGE AT AMHERST COLLEGE AFTER RECEIPT OF 'CRANK LETTERS'

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 16.—John Coolidge, son of the president, was the center of a crowd of bantering students on Amherst college campus this forenoon.

"Where's the bodyguard, John?" inquired one of John's classmates, referring to Colonel Edward W. Starling of the United States secret service, who has been assigned to guard the son of the chief executive.

"Oh, he only works nights," John shouted back.

"What about the threatening letters written by the crank. What's the big idea of the night guard, John?" put in another student.

"I guess dad's afraid I'll get married or do something rash like that—that's all there is to it," replied young Coolidge, laughingly.

The president's son took the matter of a bodyguard goodnaturedly, saying he didn't mind having the colonel along at night at all.

He Works at Night.

"I don't mind the colonel along," continued John. "He's a mighty fine man. He isn't around during the day. When I go out at night the colonel goes with me—parties, dances and everywhere. He comes along with me and I introduce him and that's the end of it."

John, a junior at Amherst, occupies a suite in the home of Mrs. Emma F. Lindsey, Northampton road. Colonel Starling has headquerters there too.

Reports from Washington stated that it was learned at the White House that Colonel Starling was assigned to Amherst because of threatening letters regarding John—that the president decided to take no chances.

Neither John nor the Colonel would discuss the matter with newspapermen.

President George D. Olds of Amherst said:

"I heard the report that John was being given the protection of a secret service man but I have not the remotest idea why such a move should be made at this time."

John is a popular member of the junior class, is very fond of athletics and outdoor life and does considerable studying.

Mentor aind Guard.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—"Crank letters" which threatened bodily harm to young John Coolidge, son of the president, are responsible for a secret service operative having been assigned temporarily to Amherst college where John is attending school.

E. W. Starling, for many years attached to the White House secret service staff, will act as John's companion, mentor and guard for the present. How long the guard will be maintained is not known.

The White House declined to furnish any details as to the threats said to have been made against young Coolidge, but they are reported to have reached Mrs. Coolidge nad caused her some nervousness.

Must Keep "Out of Papers.

It will also be a part of Starling's job at Amherst to keep young John "out of the papers." The president is much averse to having the activities of his son portrayed in newspapers. He was particularly displeased, it is understood, by the wide publicity given a boxing bout in which John figured at Amherst last year.

"Crank letters" are no novelty to occupants of the White House. The monthly quota of such missives runs high. Usually they are of the harmless variety, but occasionally there are some of ugly nature, nad these are turned over to the secret service for investigation. The writers, when they can be located, are usually detained and questioned and if there is any question of their sanity they are turned over to local authorities for commitment to institutions.

Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

450. Should the church class expect the same persecutions as the prophets of old received at the hands of the religious element?

Answer: Yes. See Matthew 5:11,12—"For so persecuted they the prophets that were before you."

451. Should they expect to be reviled, that is, spoken to in abusive language?

Answer: Yes. Matthew 5:11.

452. Should they expect to be lied about?

Answer: Yes. See Matthew 5:11, last part.

453. For what cause were these experiences to come to them?

Answer: Because of their faithfulness to the Lord and His truth; "for my (or Lord's) sake." Matt. 5:11.

454. Should every true Christian expect persecution in some form?

Answer: "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution."—II Timothy 3:12.

455. What is it to live "in Christ Jesus"?

Answer: To become members of His body (I Corinthians 12:12-14,27), taking Him for our Head — Colossians 1:18.

456. Did our Lord Jesus promise an earthly or a heavenly reward to the church class who endure persecution, etc.?

Answer: A heavenly reward; for He said to them: "Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven."—Matthew 5:11,12. See also verse 10.

Myers Cooper Asks Ohioans to Elect G. O. P. Legislature

WAPAKONETA, O., Oct. 15. — A plea for a Republican legislature to work with him, if he is elected, "in a harmonious program of genuine economy and business management of the state government," was made here yesterday by Myers Cooper, Republican candidate for governor, in the first of a series of address in this section of the state.

"If you will elect the Republican state ticket and a law-making branch to co-operate with them we will show the people of Ohio that a dollar can be made to go as far in government as in private business," Cooper declared.

Wanted in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—John Hickman, 30, and his brother Montrose Hickman, 22, to whom was issued the automobile license tag found on the car in which the slayers of Daniel Garrett, Chillicothe police officer, were riding, are wanted here for alleged participation in several gasoline filling station holdups, Detective Chief W. G. Shellenberger, said today.

Unseen Sources of Long Life

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

Because of this difficulty, more and more thousands are turning to Dodge Brothers product for insurance against disappointment.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1926.

Last Day of Registration

Unless an elector has been 50 miles or more distant from his home precinct on each of the four designated days—Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 15 and 16—today is the last chance he shall have to register in East Liverpool, the only city in Columbiana county in which the formality is required.

Failure to qualify will result in disfranchisement on Tuesday, Nov. 2, when East Liverpool will pass judgment upon two local issue—a proposed $225,000 bond issue for the erection of a municipal building and a 2.3 mill tax levy for school operating expenses—as well as a proposed constitutional amendment to modify the present primary system and elect state, district and county governments.

Few names were added to the books yesterday and during the morning and early afternoon today. However, registrars will be on duty in the respective precincts tonight from 5-to 10 o'clock, when they will also issue transfers to electors who have changed their place of residence since the August primaries.

If you neglected to enroll in 1924, or preceding a subsequent election, you shall be deprived of the suffrage right unless you register tonight. It is your duty to qualify.

Italian Exiles

What little gain of population France has is mostly Italian. Of 207,0000 Italians who emigrated last year, 174,000 went to France.

Formerly they would have come to America; now the quota system keeps them out, and France, close by, welcomes them. There they settle largely in areas which are in danger of depopulation, in a congenial climate and among a congenial race, and often find personal prosperity while contributing to the prosperity of France.

Mussolini rages at it. He wants those Italians to stay at home and work for "the new Italy." But they cross the border because they cannot endure Italian tyranny. It is Mussolini who drives them out. Having democratic principles, they seek freedom in exile, like the Germans who came to America in the middle of the last century.

Many scatter forth to more distant lands. More would go if they could get away. They are patriots who want to see Italy made great, but they believe that Italians who acquiesce in the Fascist regime are paying too great a price for greatness. Also that no greatness built on the will of one man can endure.

Radio Makes Musicians

What has five-year-old radio done to music? The prophecy made when broadcasting began was that it would make people musically lazy and unproductive. Everybody would be content to listen to music, refusing to do the work necessary to play and sing, or to compose, or even to develop the finest appreciation. Creative music was done for.

Musicians now testify that radio has done no such thing. There are more than twice as many young people attending musical schools as there were before the radio era, and there are more than twice as many musical instuments sold.

"Everytime a competent band or orchestra broadcasts a radio program," says an instrument manufacturer, "another musician is born." Normal boys and girls have the creative instinct, and wider opportunity to hear good music awakens it to an extent never known before.

Picking Out Air Ports

Albany, N. Y., is preparing to establish an airport, particularly for the accommodation of hydro-airplanes—which in plain English are airboats. Such craft, at home alike in the air and on the water, will follow a natural route up the Hudson from New York to Albany and thence westward along the Great Lakes.

City after city is following a similar policy, not only along the interior waterways of the country but at strategic points of traffic intersection everywhere.

Many a city or town now comparatively unimportant will rise to continental importance hereafter because of its foresight in this respect. Many a real estate investor, too, will make a fortune by figuring out, early in the game, a natural spot for such a port. There are places now wholly unoccupied and apparently worthless that will be busy transportation centers in 20 or 30 years.

An Iowa congressman proposes a summer home for the president in Iowa. Now it's up to some eastern congress to propose a winter home for the president in Maine.

And there are some people who still maintain that there are no such things as equinoctial storms.

Foreign reports of starvation have been greatly exaggerated. The United States is exporting 29,000,000 pairs of false teeth a year.

The fashion edict is that skirts are to be shorter and tighter. All right; we can stand 'most anything now. But why not be honest and call 'em sashes?

The Little Scorpion's Football Field Has One Good Feature— By F. Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—No city in the world is quite so curious as this. A Lamb's Club joker used pick out a deserted side street at night and begin lighting matches in apparent hunt for a lost article. In no time the street would fill and he would pounce on a penny and move away.

The ordinary proceedure of fitting a tire to an auto rim will line the curb. A safe hoisting usually requires an extra platoon of police. The personal appearance of a movie star makes Broadway impassable. The other day reserves were called on 42d street. An electric sign had fallen.

Rioting crowds at Valentino's bier and the millions who waited on Broadway and Fifth avenue for Gertrude Ederle's triumphant return are symbolic of the inquisitiveness of the packed little island. Big men and little will slam down their desks for a peep at celebrities.

Crowds will coagulate on steamship piers in the wind and rain at the bare announcement that some famous person is arriving on an incoming ship. It does not matter whether the hour is midnight or midday. There is no intent to be prying or meddlesome.

The truth is New York is a hero worshipping city. It doesn't like to admit it—that would not be being "hard boiled." Those who sniff so contemptuously at the crowds that press about heroes are usually those in the front row of cheerers.

Those who know say the lonely are greatest worshippers of heroes and so the metropolis is in a way merely responding to its natural mood of loneliness. No city sees so many celebrities and no city welcomes them so whole heartedly. We are in our way magnificent "hicks."

The orderly process of a Broadway play is often stopped by sudden discovery of a celebrity in a box. The play cannot go on until he steps out and reveals himself. And when "Peaches" Browning went on honeymoon shopping tours she had to leave department stores by the back door.

The heaviest loss, I am told, when Gotham welcomes a celebrity is suffered by the telephone company. A part of the welcome includes an ankle deep shower of confetti. It rains down like a stage snow storm from every skyscraper ledge from the Battery to the Plaza fountain. In the down town regions some ticker tape is used but most of it consists of torn up telephone books.

Shrewd city editors are giving a wide berth those celebrites who attempt to secure publicity an inverse process. For quite a while it was the custom of those aching for first page patting to travel on liners incognito or enter hospitals as John Doe. The news would trickle to the newspaper shops from other sources and create an air of mystery. It worked until it was overdone.

The most historic fire in New York was that of the Windsor hotel at 46th and Fifth avenue. Rubbernecs wagon megaphonists point out the site of "the great Windsor fire." More lives have been lost in other metropolitan fires—the dead at the Windsor numbering eighty. But no casualty list was so distinguished. The Windsor housed only the rich and notable. The ordinary traveler found no welcome there.

The most persistent church goer in New York is the sexton of Trinity who has missed but three Sundays in sixty years. It is an unusual sight on Sunday morning to see the rather stiff and prim congregation in the desolation of lower Broadway on way to Sabbatical stimulation. Wall Street and its hub-hub have simmered to a quiet wherein can be heard echoing footsteps of watchmen guarding millions. It is difficult to imagine that in another twenty-four hours that tip of the island will be one of the busiest and nosiest in all the city.

HASKINS' LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Mine Rescue Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 16.—The number of mine accidents during the present year has led to inquiries as to whether or not such disasters are on the increase. At the United States Bureau of Mines no answer can be secured to this question, for the very good reason that the statistics for the year have not been compiled as yet and no comparison can be made or conclusions drawn. Unofficially it is stated, however, that when the figures for the twelve months are available it is not in the least likely they will show that mine accidents are increasing in number or in seriousness.

The reasons for this belief are that under state laws and regulations mining operations are carried on more carefully than ever before, more is known about how to prevent mine explosions, emergency relief equipment and crews are more generally available, and both miners and operators have been trained in accident prevention and first aid work through extensive educational campaigns carried on by the Federal Government and by various States.

When 43 miners were entombed in a Michigan iron mine last month a rescue car of the United States Bureau of Mines was at the scene in short order and the rescue work was carried on with a celerity and with an efficiency that would have been impossible a few years ago. It took five days to get the men out, but when their release was effected they were in remarkably good physical condition, thanks to the training a few of them had had in taking care of themselves and their companions in emergencies of that character.

In one month—December, 1907—a series of disastrous explosions in coal mines cost the lives of more than 600 men and the serious injury of many others. This directed public attention to mining conditions and congress was finally compelled to take some action after having failed to do anything time and again since 1865 when the first bill was offered to create a mining bureau. In 1908, however, congress merely directed the Geological Survey to make an investigation of the causes of mine explosions, and it was not until two years later that the Bureau of Mines was established.

Many Miners Instructed.

In the sixteen years that have since elapsed the Bureau has given instructions in first aid and mine rescue methods to more than 200,000 miners and to many of their wives and children. This educational work is carried on through motion pictures, literature, lectures, and demonsrations. The bureau has 10 safety stations and 11 rescue cars that are located at strategic points throughout the country, and the crews of these cars are constantly spreading the gospel of safety when they are not called upon to assist in rescue work at some disaster.

This Federal agency has no authority to regulate mining operations. It can merely advise and recommend, and all the regulating that can be done must come through state laws, but there has been noteworthy harmony and cooperation in the relations of the Bureau with the various state boards and commissions.

In order to conduct the mine safety work to best advantage the mining fields of the country have been grouped within mine districts which are defined with reference to railroad facilities and the distribution of mines—that is, to rendering the most speedy aid possible by both car and station personnel in event of a mine accident.

In its efforts to arouse and maintain a general interest in safety, the Bureau has cooperated actively in the holding of district and state, national, and international first aid and mine rescue meets. In the first national meet held in Pittsburgh in 1911, 30 first aid teams competed; in the last international meet, held in Salt Lake City, in 1923, 60 teams participated.

Through the cooperation of operators and state officials the Bureau of Mines issues reports monthly and annually, giving by causes and States, the fatalities at coal mines and the fatal and non-fatal accidents at metal mines, quarries, coke ovens, and metallurgical works other than iron and steel plants. The purpose in publishing these data, it is stated, it not to fix responsibility for disasters, or to preserve an historic record of past experience, but to make available a body of reliable information from which legislative bodies and safety engineers can determine what the hazards are that should receive chief attention.

Rock Dusting Coal Mines.

For a long time it was a matter of controversy as to whther bituminous coal dust was explosive, many mining men contending that it was not, and the Federal Bureau undertook to settle the question. It conducted tests in a steel gallery and large-scale tests in its experimental mine near Bruceton, Pa., and by 1911 it had convinced all who had doubted that coal dust had been the chief agent of restruction in many terrible explosions. Later it demonstrated that the best method of averting coal dust explosions is to coat the walls, roof, and floor of mine passages with rock dust.

As a result several hundred mines are now being rock-dusted, one State—Utah—requires that rock dust be used in all coal mines, and several other States specify its use as an alternate to sprinkling.

British investigators are said to have been the first to recognize the potency of coal dust as a cause of mine explosions, and likewise the first to initiate experiments in rock-dusting as a preventive measure. In 1923, the British Government formally proposed that its Department of Mines and the United States Bureau of Mines should cooperate in efforts to prevent mine accidents, this cooperation to be directed more immediately toward research on the betterment of coal mine explosives, the use of electrical equipment in mines, and the best methods of preventing the propagation of explosions. This proposal was accepted by the American government, [illegible] terms of the cooperation, [illegible] change of investigators, [illegible] results of tests [illegible] work is avoided.

Other preventive measures develop

BORDERING ON THE UNREASONABLE

The hero of this story was one of those persons who accept whatever happens as a manifestation of the divine power. It was not for him to question the workings of a mysterious Providence.

Misfortune dogged his footsteps, yet never once did he complain. His wife ran away with the hired man. His daughter married a ne'er-do-well who deserted her; his son landed in the penitentiary; a cyclone destroyed his residence; a hailstorm spoiled his crop and the holder of the mortgage foreclosed on his farm. Yet at each fresh stroke he knelt and returned thanks to the Almighty for mercies vouchsafed.

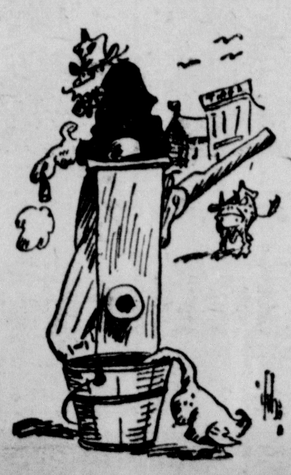

Eventually, pauperized but yet submissive to the decrees from on high, he landed at the county poorhouse. He still was able-bodied. Until now his members and faculties, at least, had been spared. The overseer sent him out one day to plow a potato field. A thunderstorm come up but was passing by when without warning a bolt of lightning descended from the sky. It melted the ploughshare, stripped most of his garments from him, singed off his beard and mustache, branded him on the back with the initials of an utter stranger, and hurled him through a brushfence.

Slowly he got upon his knees, clasped his hands and raised his eyes toward heaven. Then, for the first time, the worm turned:

"Lord," he said, "this is gittin' to be plum' rediculous!"

Series of Parties Planned in Honor Of Bride-elect

Honoring Miss Marjorie Grosshans, daughter of Mrs. Maud F. Grosshans of South Aiken avenue, Pittsburgh, formerly of East Liverpool, who will become the bride of James Anderson Knox on Tuesday evening, October 26, Mrs. H. K. Boyer Marshall of Winterton street, Pittsburgh, was hostess yesterday afternoon at a bridge party.

Mr. and Mrs. Trevor R. Robert of South Aiken avenue entertained at a bridge party Wednesday evening, complimentary to the bride-elect, and Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Letsche of Oakmont will receive friends at a bridge party to be given in honor of Miss Grosshans and Mr. Knox.

Mrs. Marion Alfred Huss, who will be matron-of-honor at the wedding, will give a dinner at the Rittenhouse Wednesday evening, following the rehearsal. Covers will be arranged for 18 guests.

Miss Alberta Smith Hostess.

Miss Alberta Smith entertained the members of the Merry Makers' club last evening at her home in Etruria street. Music and games were diversions. The home was decorated with Hallowe'en novelties and fall flowers, which were also used in the luncheon appointments. Places were arranged for 18 guests. Bonbon baskets were given each guest. The hostess was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Clarence Smith.

Special guests were Mesdames Alice Scott and Earl Davis.

The next meeting will be held October 22 at the home of Miss Mildred Wellington of Globe street.

Acme Club Meeting.

The Acme club was entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. Tillie Wilson on Grant street, Newell. A short business session was followed by music and guessing contests which were won by Mesdames Lotia Gopp, Philip Milligan and Minnie Ferguson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters Misses Thelma and Elsie Wilson, Mrs. Beulah Butler and Mrs. Hilda Adams. Hallowe'en decorations were used in the appointments.

Mrs. Nellie Mercer was enrolled as a member.

Special guests were Mesdames Philip Milligan and Nan Green.

The next meeting will be held on October 29, at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Zange, St. Clair avenue, and will be in the form of a masquerade party.

Missionary Society Session.

Members of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will meet Monday evening in the church parlors. Mrs. George Hall will lead the devotionals, while the program will be in charge of Mesdames Henry Herman and Clarence Kritzer. The program follows:

Vocal solo—Miss Dorothy Full.
Piano solo—Mrs. Milton Pelley.
Vocal duet— Misses Sarah Hargreaves and Pansy McDonald.
Missionary talk—Miss Alma Taylor, teacher of Bible in the Public Schools.
Vocal solo—Mrs. C. H. Risinger.

Wedding Anniversary Observed.

Fifty guests were entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gloss, Jr., of St. Clair avenue, in the American Legion home in Dresden avenue, the occasion being their seventh wedding anniversary. The guests were members of the Legion auxiliary.

The post rooms were decorated with fall flowers.

Cards, games and music were the diversions. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother-in-law, Mrs. W. J. Gloss, Mesdames Charles Applegate and R. W. Johnston and Miss Louise Johnston.

The honor guests were the recipients of many gifts.

Renaissance Club Dinner.

Mrs. Carl Faulk of West Sixth street will receive the members of the Renaissance club Monday evening, when a 6 o'clock dinner will be served.

Past Noble Grands' Party.

Mrs. Allie Welch, of Lisbon street, and Miss Nellie Lloyd will be associate hostesses Tuesday evening at the former's home to the members of the Past Noble Grand Association of Ceramic Rebekah lodge No. 286.

Needlework Society meeting.

The Young Ladies' Needlework society of St. John's Lutheran church will be entertained by Miss Lillian Wible at her home in Harrison street, Newell, Monday evening.

W. C. T. U. Elects Delegates.

Delegates named at a recent meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the First Methodist Episcopal church, to attend the state convention, to be held in the Westminster Presbyterian church, Steubenville, October 18-22, inclusive, were Mesdames F. T. Weaver, J. M. Arbuthnot, Margaret Moore, Edward Reiser, Mary Collins, Margaret Johnson, C. R. Reese, R. B. Workman and C. L. Copenhaver.

Missionary Society Masquerade.

Members of the Young Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church will entertain with a masquerade party Monday evening, at the home of Miss Freda McConnell in West Fifth street. Misses Lillian Brookes and Mary Eva Carroll will be associate hostesses.

Notice of Closing Road.

The Dresden avenue road will be closed at the City-Liverpool township line on Monday, October 18 for a week or possibly longer. The construction of a concrete culvert necessitates closing the road to traffic as indicated above at the city limits. Those interested will govern themselves accordingly.

J. W. MOORE, Service Director.

Birthday Anniversary Celebrated.

Celebrating the ninth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Geraldine, Mrs. Ethel Hull entertained a group of little friends Thursday evening with a masquerade party at her home in College street. Music, games and dancing were the diversions. The Charleston was demonstrated by Misses Helen Kell and Beverly Finley. Trophies for the best and most comic costumes were awarded Caroline Swaney and Roy Ferguson.

A three-course luncheon was served by Mrs. Hull, assisted by Miss Mildred Hull, Mesdames Mildred Hull, Lyda Hull and James Ferguson. Bonbon baskets were given each guest. Covers were arranged for Beverly Finley, Helen Kell, Marian Snyder, Hazel Sitig, Caroline Swaney, Alice Ann Gape, Dorothy Ann Kirk, Dorothy, Grace and Betty Walters, Melda Cartwright, Ethel Danley, Betty Wallace, Geraldine Hull, Thomas and Bernard Miller, Roy Ferguson, Carl and Everett Green, Jack and Wayne Walters, William and Edgar Hull.

Church Choir is Entertained.

The choir of the Orchard Grove Avenue Methodist Episcopal church was entertained last evening at the home of the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. S. Lee Whiteman of McKinnon avenue.

The following officers were elected: chorister and president, Charles A. Price; secretary-treasurer, Mary A. Burns; music committee, Miss Dorothy Holmes, Mrs. H. Dan Smith and Miss Lucy Burns.

The November meeting, an invitation affair, will be held at the home of Mrs. Hattie Hapgood in Orchard Grove avenue.

K. of C. Ladies' Meet Postponed.

Because of the Forty Hours' devotions, which will open in the St. Aloysius Catholic church, West Fifth street, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and close at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, the re-organization meeting of the Ladies of the Knights of Columbus, scheduled for Tuesday night, has been postponed until 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Announcement of the change of the time of the session, which will be held in the K. of C. parlors in the Ingram building, Diamond, was made today.

Following the business session, bridge, 500 and euchre will be diversions. Refreshments will be served.

Birthday Party at Wolfe Home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wolfe entertained last evening at their home in Crawford avenue, honoring the former's birthday anniversary. An address was made by Rev. J. FARMERS' DAY OBSERVED HERE

Successful Event Held Under Auspices of Chester Bank.

One hundred and twenty-five Hancock county farmers attended the exhibit yesterday under the auspices of the First National bank and Hancock County Building and Loan association in the bank building at Third street and Carolina avenue.

Dinner was served at noon on the third floor of the bank building by members of the Queen Esther class of the Presbyterian church. The guests were welcomed by John E. Newell, president of the bank. John C. Evans, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a director of the bank was toastmaster.

Addresses were made by E. B. Harshaw, vice president and cashier of the Grove City National bank; Dr. H. G. Knight, dean of the college of agriculture, West Virginia university; James V. Hopkins, dairy specialist at West Virginia university, and E. C. Weible, federal agent.

Demonstration work was in charge of Hopkins who used two cows from the Stewart brothers' farm. Herd owners were instructed in the proper method of raising breeded cattle in order to secure the best production. The corn borer question was discussed by Weible, while the agricultural development of the Grove City district was the topic of Harshaw. Dr. Knight spoke on the state agricultural situation.

Judging of pigs in the 4-H club was in charge of County Agent Gridley of Beaver, Pa. First prize was awarded to Lester Miller. Awards were also given other exhibitors.

The First National bank awarded five breeded calves to Penniah Thomas, Elinor Stewart, J. B. Stewart, Hugh J. Stewart and Ethel Berta Carson. They are members of the newly organized Hancock county calf club. Three more will be placed in the near future.

Among those at the meeting were: C. V. Degen, county farm agent, W. E. Wells, Newell; J. T. Croxall, East Liverpool; J. O. Miller, county superintendent of schools; W. Olander, Ohio county farm agent; Sheriff Alfred Tope, New Cumberland, James Brandon cashier of First National Bank, New Cumberland, and W. S. McBane, East Liverpool.

M'PHERSON CASE IS GIVEN REST

Hearing of Evangelist Will be Continued Monday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—After a week featured by the testimony of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff, which culminated in a fist fight between her attorney, S. S. Hahn, and W. T. Gilbert, chief counsel for the defense, the so-called Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy case was temporarily halted today.

The preliminary hearing of Mrs. McPherson, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Mrs. Sielaff will be continued Monday. The trio is accused of having conspired to produce false evidence in connection with Mrs. McPherson's story of being kidnaped.

Mrs. Sielaff charges the evangelist offered her money to find a "Miss X" to assume the role of companion to her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, at a Carmel cottage, at a time Mrs. McPherson claims she was held captive by kidnapers in Mexico and while her followers thought she was drowned.

The prosecution is attempting to show that the evangelist's story was a hoax and that she was Ormiston's companion at Carmel.

Mrs. Sielaff finished her third day on the witness stand yesterday. Miss Bernice Morris, secretary to R. A. McKinley, who was alleged to have been negotiating with Mrs. McPherson to produce her "kidnapers," followed her on the stand. McKinley was killed in an automobile accident several weeks ago. Miss Norris testified that Mrs. McPherson approached her and asked her to carry on the work started by her employer.

The third hectic week of the preliminary hearing was capped by Judge Blake when he cited W. I. Gilbert, defense attorney, for contempt. The citation came as the aftermath of his encounter with Attorney Hahn. Judgment will be reserved until the hearing is concluded.

WELLSVILLE MEN WILL FACE BRIBERY CHARGES

Rocco Carbicella and Joseph Fusco Indicted By Grand Jury.

OUT ON BOND

Wanted Sheriff to "Lay Off" Kenney Probe, is Claim.

Three criminal cases, including those of Rocco Carbicella and Frank Fusco, indicted for bribery, and Dominick Andretta, indicted for assault and battery, have been listed for trial in common pleas court next week according to announcement today by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine.

Andretta, whose case was postponed from last Monday, is scheduled to go on trial Monday.

Carbicella and Fusco, charged with an attempt to bribe Sheriff George Wright to "lay off" further investigation of the murder of Patrolman James Kenney at Wellsville May 17, last, will face a jury on Tuesday. These cases were postponed from last Tuesday on account of Fusco's illness.

Archie R. Barnet, of Elkton, indicted by the September grand jury for malicious injury to property and also for placing dynamite, will be called for trial Wednesday.

With these cases disposed of, only one remains to be tried of those indicted by the September grand jury—that of John DeSarrio, of Wellsville, on a charge of obtaining insurance money by false pretense. DeSarrio is now under $1,000 bond.

Janitors of Public Schools Under Civil Service Control, State Rules

Local School Board Advised Against Efforts to Remove Employes From Classified Service Lists.

Wellsville public school janitors must remain in the classified list and be governed by regulations of the civil service law. This is the ruling made by the state civil service commission in reply to a request from the local commission which recently was asked to pass upon a resolution passed by the board of education to remove janitors from the classified list.

Effort to remove the positions from civil service control were made by the board of education on the basis that the work was of a nature that demanded only unskilled employes and that it is impracticable to place the jobs in the classified service.

The Wellsville commission however, ruled that "it is not within their province to exempt the positions of janitors of public school from classified service of said city." In substantiation of this decision the following opinion of state civil service commission is quoted:

"Mr. G. V. Dugan, secretary:

"We are in receipt of your communication of October 4, enclosing the request of your board of education that your commission find it impracticable to include in the competitive classified list the positions of janitors in the public schools of the Wellsville school district.

"This question frequently has been fererred to this commission and in no case have there been the slightest grounds for any commission to determine that it is impracticable to include such positions in the competitive classified service. Various opinions of the attorney general of Ohio, cited below, very definitely dispose of the question.

"'Janitors of school buildings are in the classified service under the provisions of section 486-8 subdivision general code'—Opinion attorney general, 1916.

"'In city school districts all persons in the employ of the board of education of such city school district are in the classified civil service list unless they are superintendents, principals, instructrs or teachers as provided in paragraph 7 of section 486-8 of the general code'; opinion attorney general, 1926.

"'A school janitor may not be exempt from the classified service under the provisions of paragraph 12 of section 486-8 of the general code'; opinion attorney general 1925.

"In this connection this commission would advise any municipal commission to exercise extreme care in determining any question involving the impracticability of holding competitive examinations. The tendencies of the Ohio courts is not to disturb the decision of the civil service commission when it determines that it is practicable to hold competitive examination. It has over-ruled the commission when it has placed certain positions in the exempt class. In no case have the Ohio courts held that as a matter of law it is impracticable to hold competitive examinations.

"The State Cilvil Service Commission."

In concluding their finding the Wellsville commission asserts: "The municipal commission stands ready to exercise its prerogative in demanding that all persons in classified service discharge their particular duties to the satsfaction of their superiors."

ALIKANNA MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Struck by C. & P. Train Near Pottery Plant.

Lawrence Goddard, 38 years old, of Alikanna, is in a serious condition in the Gill hospital at Steubenville today as a result of injuries sustained yesterday when he was struck by a westbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train as he was leaving his work at the Steubenville pottery.

Both of Goddard's legs were broken and he sustained serious injuries to his head and possibly internal injuries.

Goddard was employed as an engineer at the pottery plant. Leaving his work, enroute home, he is said to have walked out onto the tracks, apparently unaware of the approach of the train. Other workmen, who saw the train, tried to warn him, but their shouts were too late.

Elks Will Conclude Outdoor Circus and Bazaar Tonight

SCHOOL LEVY WEST END P. T. A. TOPIC MONDAY

W. R. MacDonald to Discuss Needs of Board of Education.

Community Nurse to Talk on Health Subjects.

Necessity of obtaining more money through the approval of the proposed four-mill levy which will be placed on the ballots for the general election on November 2, for the operation of the local public schools, will be emphasized by the West End School Building Parent-Teachers' association at its inaugural meeting of the 1926-27 season on Monday night in the school building, Eighteenth street.

A program greatly similar to that which was carried out recently at the first seasonal meeting of the Central Building association is being prepared under the direction of the officers.

Mrs. Dean Price is president of the association; Miss Margaret Frischkorn is secretary and Miss Grace Harbourt treasurer.

W. R. MacDonald, of the Perpetual Savings & Loan Co., a member of the board of education, will deliver an address to the association on the four-mill levy subject. Mr. MacDonald delivered a similar talk at the recent Central asociation meeting.

Miss Martha Rex, community nurse, will discuss health conservation topics.

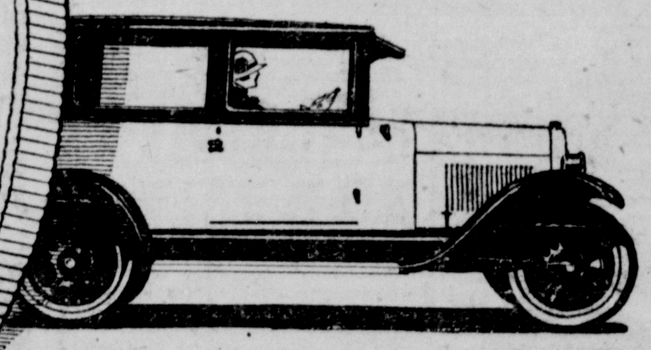

Pupils of the fifth grade, under the direction of Miss Agatha Carney, will render a number of group songs, and it is possible that the high school orchestra will play several selections.

Plans for the season's activities will also be discussed by the association at a business session. It is likely that Miss Frischkorn will resign as secretary in order to take charge of the program arrangements, necessitating an appointment to this office.

Two East Liverpool Women Honored At District Meet

Merdames W. W. Sloan and F. B. Chambers Elected Officers at United Presbyterian Society Convention in Steubenville.

Two East Liverpool women—Mesdames W. W. Sloan and F. B. Chambers—were honored at closing session yesterday of the two-day meeting of the forty-second annual convention of the Steubenville presbytery Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church. Mrs. Sloan was elected treasurer, while Mrs. Chambers was named association manager.

The officers elected were:

President, Mrs. H. B. Haverfield, Salineville; first vice-president, Mrs. James Bist, Steubenville; second vice-president, Mrs. Grant Wilkinson, Toronto; recording secretary, Mrs. L. F. Burns, Wellsville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. J. White, Toronto; young women's and junior secretary, Mrs. Jay S. Paisley, Steubenville; literature secretary, Mrs. S. W. Simpson, Richmond; temperance secretary, Mrs. Shelby Irvine, Richmond; thank offering secretary, Mrs. Thomas Hobson, Richmond.

Miss Grace Ogilvie presided at the Steubenville meeting. Rev. J. A. Cotten, D. D., of Henderson, N. C., spoke at the Thursday evening session, discussing his work at the mission school. Reports of secretaries and other business matters were considered at the Friday morning session. Miss Mary R. Martin, missionary worker in India, who is supported by the Steubenville Presbytery, spoke at Friday afternoon meeting. Miss Martin was presented with a purse. Mrs. J. P. White, Xenia, spoke on the subject "Moslem Women in Foreign Lands."

"RED" GRANGE FILM BOOKED

"One Minute to Play" Coming to Ceramic.

Throbbing with some of the greatest football scenes ever put on the screen Greater F. B. O's famous production of "One Minute to Play," starring Red Grange, will be shown at the Ceramic theatre all next week, except Thursday.

The noted University of Illinois "Galloping Ghost," probably the most wonderful player who ever donned moleskins, gives a remarkable exhibition of his versatility and extraordinary broken-field running in the brilliant climax of the film, as well as proving himself a splendid actor, with a great screen versatility.

The direction by Sam Wood is an achievement in itself, and an excellent cast, including Mary McAllister, Charles Ogle, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Lincoln Steadman, Edythe Chapman, Lee Shumway and Jay Hunt, handle the supporting roles convincingly. George Wilson, the famous All-American halfback from the University of Washington squad, leads the opposing team in the picture, and does much to make the gridiron scenes realistic and vivid. The story and continuity were both written by Byron Morgan, noted for his work on the late Wallace Reid's racing tales.

tic composition. This bid was $894.82 below the engineer's estimate.

Either the Patterson bid for this work must be accepted or all bids rejected and the job readvertised, Service Safety Director Moore said today. The bids are being considered, and the board of control is expected to reach a decision by the middle of next week. Should the work be readvertised it is doubtful if the improvement can be completed this year.

Bids for two sewer improvement jobs—Garfield street and Briar alley—were also over the engineer's estimate and new bids must be sought. On the Garfield street job, Patterson asked $5,741.05 while Peter Milliron estimated the contract at $5,602.80, as compared with the engineer's estimate of $4,623.52. For the Briar alley sewer Patterson's bid was $1,458.20 and Milliron's $1,432.75. Estimate for this job was $1,367.74.

Bids for the grading and surfacing of Avondale street from Bank to North street will be opened Monday by the board of control.

18 of Crew Escape In Dories as Vessel Is Swept by Fire

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Oct. 16.—The steam trawler Pioneer out of Boston for the Cape Cod fishing grounds, was swept by fire 12 miles off Nauset light early today but the crew of 18 officers and men escaped in dories.

An explosion in the engine room caused the fire which spread rapidly and the vessel was abandoned. The 18 men of the trawler were picked up in their open dories by the coast guardsmen from the Nauset station.

COURT FIGHT ON STREET JOB

Willite Company Gets Injunction Against Director Moore.

A temporary injunction against the improvement of Fourth street was granted by Judge W. H. Spence in common pleas court at Lisbon upon application of Frank Swaney, representing the Ohio Willite Paving and Resurfacing company, of East Liverpool, one of the unsuccessful bidders. The court order was to be served this afternoon upon Service-Safety Director John W. Moore and George B. Patterson, Wellsville, who was awarded the contract, by Sheriff George Wright.

The petition filed by Attorney George T. Farral, Lisbon, representing Swaney, charges the Patterson bid is irregular inasmuch as the legislation for the improvement passed by city council, called for a resurfacing job. By the terms of the contract awarded to Patterson, the street will be improved with concrete and is not a resurfacing contract, Swaney alleges.

Mayor Ralph Benedum was notified of the injunction proceedings by Swaney at noon, said that the city would seek an early hearing. Work on the improvement will be deferred until the court hears arguments.

Compilation of the bids for the Fourth street improvement contract given Patterson showed the job will cost $27,532.15. This figure, Director Moore explained, includes $1,800 for additional grading made necessary by constructing this street with concrete rather than an asphaltic material. The bid is $1,178.10 less than the estimate of the Willite company for sheet asphalt, willite process, such as was laid on Fifth street, and $331.10 less than the estimate for asphaltic concrete, willite process. These two bids were: sheet asphalt, willite process, $28,710.25; asphaltic concrete, willite process, $27,863.25.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Mary McNary.

Mrs. Mary McNary, former resident of East Liverpool, died last night in her home at Canton.

She is survived by two daughters, Laura and Mary, both of Canton.

Funeral services will be held there tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial will be made at Bloomington, O.

ELEANOR HILL IN FILM ROLE

E. Liverpool Girl Plays in Picture at American.

Miss Eleanor Hill, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Walter B. Hill of the Park boulevard, has a role in the First National Picture, "The Amateur Gentleman," starring Richard Barthelmess to be seen at the American theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Hill is now a resident of Hollywood.

"The Amateur Gentleman" gets its name from that period between 1810 and 1820, when George, the Third, went insane and his brother became Prince Regent.

The costumes are of the Beau Brummell period, and in the story as told in the Barthelmess film, the hero Barnabas Beverely Barty, was the first to introduce wide trousers among the social lights of London.

Barthelmess' good looks and fine physique stand him in excellent stead in this colorful drama. He cuts an even more dashing figure if that is possible, as Barnabas Beverly Barty than he does as Lieutenant Ranson in "Ranson's Folly," which was released before the completion of "The Amateur Gentleman."

The picture hurries along at a fast clip and is full of exciting incidents. Two of the most exciting are a fist fight which Barty wages against his father, the ex-heavyweight champ of England, and a thrilling steeplechase.

For the fight Dick went into stiff training for several weeks under the tutelage of Mickey McMin, the well known ring figure.

The steeplechase shows him actually jockeying. This was one of the most dangerous exploits in the film and Dick suffered a fall from which he narrowly escaped grave injury.

Barthelmess is surrounded by an exceptionally brilliant cast in "The Amateur Gentleman." Dorothy Dunbar, a comparative new-comer to the screen but already in the ascendant, is seen in the leading feminine role opposite him.

Gardner James, who has just been given a five-year contract with Inspiration, has the major supporting role. Others included in the cast are Nigel Barrie, Brandon Hurst, John Miljan, Edward Davis, Billie Bennett, Herbert Grimwood, Gino Corrado, Sidney de Gray and John Peters.

Many American automobiles are to be displayed at the Prague automobile show this year

MARSHAL FANG FLEES AFTER KIANGSI FALLS

Earlier Report Said He Had Captured 20,000 Soldiers.

HINT TREACHERY

Military Governor and Staff Find Haven on Cruiser.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—A Central News dispatch from Shanghai today said General Sun Chuan-Fang, military governor of Kiangsi province, has administered a severe defeat to the southern Cantonese troops, near Hanchang. The northern forces captured 20,000 prisoners, according to the report.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16.—Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang of the allied armies was in flight today as Cantonese troops took possession of the province of Kiangsi.

Secession of his strongest supporters are treacherous withdrawals from Kukiang and other allied strongholds are the reasons advanced for the overthrow of Fang and the collapse of his armies.

Accompanied by his general staff, Marshal Fang is aboard a cruiser and it is believed he is fleeing toward Nanking.

Cantonese troops are in full possession of Kiangsi and General Chang Kai Shek has already started to reorganize the leaderless soldiery.

The coup of the Cantonese, according to word reaching here, was made as General Chang Kai Shek was supposedly proposing peace terms to the allied armies.

Military observers here believe operations of the warring factions will soon extend toward Shanghai.

Two Men are Held For Grand Jury on Auto Theft Charge

Albert Bucheit and Clyne Kisner were held for grand jury under $2,500 bond each by Municipal Judge Hanley yesterday afternoon when they faced charges of automobile stealing. Bucheit entered a plea of guilty, while Kisner pleaded not guilty. Daniel Runion, who was charged with the same offense, was dismissed after evidence submitted at the hearing showed that he had taken no part in the alleged theft.

The men are alleged to have stolen a Ford roadster belonging to Ralph Bailey, Chester, while it was parked on Broadway Thursday night.

NEW YORK HIT AT CERAMIC

"Mama Loves Papa" to Close Chicago Stock Engagement.

The Chicago Stock company will close a week's engagement at the Ceramic tonight by offering Jack McGowan's comedy, "Mamma Loves Papa," which enjoyed a run of eight solid months at the Ritz theatre in New York last season. It is said to be a very laughable play and a production that permits beautiful staging and handsome costuming.

During the week the Chicago players have excellently produced recent New York successes and they have well merited the large audiences that have taxed the capacity of the theatre.

The attraction appears in Alliance all next week, leaving for that city tomorrow.

TODAY

bets $10 to 1 that this will be a nation of octogenarians by the end of the century.

That prediction is no exaggeration. Men, one day, will live habitually to be 140 years. But with a life average of 80 years only, it will be necessary to revise various things, including the age at which men marry.

Population would soon become unwieldly if a race of octogenarians married at 20 or 25 years of age and went on having children for half a century. Nature, however, would find a way to take care of that. She always does.

Canton Underworld Member Faces Term In Atlanta Prison

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 16.—Another former member of Canton's underworld today was preparing to enter the penitentiary.

Edward W. Markling, arrested in Canton two months ago on a charge of violating the Harrison Act, today indicated that he would not combat a sentence of three and a half years in the federal prison at Atlanta, imposed by Judge Jaul Jones in federal court here, upon a plea of guilty.

Markling, alleged by narcotic agents, to have been the source of supply for numerous dope peddlers, was arrested by representatives of the federal staff here upon information furnished them by Canton police.

BIBLE STUDENT HERE SUNDAY

E. W. Betler, Pittsburgh Bible student, will lecture in the Ceramic Cafeteria auditorium, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening under auspices of the International Bible Students' association. His subject will be "Earth's Greatest Conflict Near." The public is invited.

1 DEAD, 3 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Members of Funeral Party in Collision Near Marion.

MARION, O., Oct. 16.—One man is dead and three women are in City hospital here today, the result of an automobile crash eight miles north of the city on the Marion-Bucyrus pike last night. The dead:

John Stoody, Carey.

The injured:

Mrs. W. F. Graves, Carey.

Mrs. Claire Putnam, Carey.

Mrs. John Stoody, Carey.

The party, including Putnam, driver, who escaped injury, was returning from a funeral in Columbus, when the accident occurred. Blinded by the lights from another machine, Putnam failed to see a curve in the road. His automobile careened to one side of the highway and when he attempted to pull the heavy car back onto the highway it crashed into the ditch on the other side and turned over.

G. O. P. TO OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Committee Named to Arrange for Cooper Reception.

Republican headquarters for the fall campaign will be opened in East Liverpool probably next week, it was announced at a meeting of the Republican central committee held in municipal court rooms, last evening.

A headquarters committeee consisting of H. E. Hallett, George Buxton and Arthur Wallover has two down town locations under consideration. Negotiations probably will be closed today and the headquarters formally opened early in the week.

H. B. Barth was named chairman of the reception committee for Myers Y. Cooper, gubernatorial nominee, who will visit here Wednesday afternoon. Barth and his committee will meet probably Monday.

The following committees were appointed:

Campaign—T. A. McNicol, J. T. Croxall, W. S. Foulks, William Pittenger and Thomas H. Stephens.

Finance—William McGraw, Joseph Betz and H. B. Barth.

Cooper will come here at 1 p. m. and will spend about an hour and a half in East Liverpool. He is scheduled to meet a delegation of party leaders in Wellsville at 3 p. m.

miles an hour, according to the information brought here.

None of the passengers was reported injured and they were transferred to another train for Columbus and other points along the division to continue their journey.

No Passengers Hurt.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—Four mail clerks were injured at Fisher, O., near Dennison, early today when the engine and seven coaches of train No. 65, of the Pennsylvania lines, new York to St. Louis, were derailed, according to word deceived at the Pennsylvania lines district office here.

The injured were all mail clerks on the mail car which was derailed, together with a diner, a club car, and four Pullmans, the local office was advised. No passengers were hurt. The train was the second section of the fast New York to St. Louis through train.

Atlanta Special Wrecked.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Ky., Oct. 16.—Officials of the Cincinnati Southern railroad were taking steps today to clean up the wreckage of the Atlanta special, the engine and baggage car of which overturned here yesterday afternoon, scalding the fireman to death and injuring the engineer and baggagemen.

The wreck was believed today to have been caused by a spreading rail. None of the passengers was seriously injured, those receiving minor bruises and cuts being treated here and continuing their journey.

VICE CLEAN-UP IN STEUBENVILLE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 16.—A vice clean-up, with charges to be filed against several policemen, is in prospect here, it was announced today by associates of Dr. E. J. C. Sanders, who has become mayor in place of John S. H. Patton, permanently ousted yesterday.

While Dr. Sanders would discuss the policy of his administration his advisers pointed out that evidence adduced at the trial of the ... mayor necessited further action and that charges might be expected within 10 days.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Still staggering from the effects of Friday's violent decline, which carried down the average prices of representative stocks nearly three points, stock market today continued erratic and reactionary.

Encouraged by the week end reports of a declining tendency in some of the inportant departments of business, the professionals working for lower price levels offered stocks liberally, as the result of which General Motors declined an additional two and a half points and United States steel broke through another "resistance point to sell at 137⅞ there were reports of the further uncovering of stop loss orders, and the forced selling of stocks in accounts which had not responded to the calls for margins.

Wall street was inclined to attribute the poor showing in general business to the unfavorable weather and the break in cotton prices, for both of which it has a satisfactory remedy. The financial district continued somewhat bearish on the stock market, however, the conviction being strengthened by the east with which the professionals have been able to dislodge stocks at falling prices.

Selling pressure on the high priced speculative leaders continued without let up in the second hours. The motor stocks continued reactionary, with moon, Jordan, Willys Overland and other of the cheap motor shares declining to the new low levels. Jordon at 15 represented a decline of reached earlier in the year, while Hudson at 47, was down about seventy points. General Motors showed better resistance around 145, and Studebaker at 52.

The bandit, according to word received by police here, was seen in Toledo several hours after the robbery. He was in an automobile, accompanied by a woman, the reports here said, and was headed in the direction of Cleveland.

SCHOOL LEVY AND BOND PLAN ARE EXPLAINED

Lincoln School Patrons Attend Campaign Rally.

APPROVAL URGE

Board of Education Members and City Officials Speak.

Approximately 100 residents met in the Lincoln school building, Orchard Grove avenue, last night to hear an explanation of the proposed 2.3 mill school levy and the $225,000 municipal building bond issue, which will be submitted at the November 2 election.

Benjamin Laughlin presided. A short program was presented by the pupils of the school under the direction of Miss Claudia Gill, principal.

The levy was discussed by President D. F. White and members George Wilhelm, C. A. Ferguson and Robert Stevenson of the school board. Superintendent C. S. McVay explained the financial situation and pointed out the need for additional revenue if the schools are to have a nine-month term after this year.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum also urged support of the school levy. N. P. Kerr, president of the city council, briefly outlined the need for a new municipal building to house all city departments. He pointed out that the city is paying out more than $2,400 annually for rentals and that the various municipal departments are scattered over the city. Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore, who also spoke in favor of the school levy made an appeal for the municipal bond issue, claiming that the increase in taxes to liquidate these bonds would amount to about 52 cents on each $1,000 property valuation.

George Hughes, councilman from the Fourth ward also attended the meeting.

Steps looking toward the organization of a Parent-Teachers' Association by patrons of the school will be held on Monday evening, October 25.

WONDERFUL HEALTH REPAYS WISE FORETHOUGHT

Mrs. Wm. C. Fischer, 2009 Woodbourne Ave., Louisville, Ky., occasionally takes Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, which helped her over a quite severe ailment. "Yes," she says, "I still take Foley Pills, diuretic, at times, whenever I feel I need them, and as a result my health is wonderful." Not surprising, for Foley Pills, diuretic, are a reliable, valuable tonic medicine, constantly in use over 25 years, promoting that satisfactory cleansing flow so necessary to good health. Try them.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Committee Appointed by John Welch American Legion Post.

Plans are being formed for the observance of Armistice day, November 11, under the auspices of John Welch American Legion post. A committee composed of George C. Porter, chairmen; Leland Firestone and Floyd Lower has been delegated to arrange the program and appoint a general committee on arrangements.

Tentative plans call for the firing of a salute at 11 a. m. by the discharge of bombs, ringing of bells and blowing of whistles.

A football game betweeen the United Cigars and a team to be selected later will be staged at 3 o'clock. This will be followed at 5 o'clock by a dinner in the rooms of the post to which all former service men will be invited. The committee plans to secure a speaker for the occasion.

Band concert will be given in the public square at 7 o'clock by the Presbyterian band. This will be followed by an entertainment either in the David Anderson high school auditorium or the Methodist Episcopal church. Talent will be furnished by the Allen Lyceum bureau.

It is proposed that a dance be held to close the celebration.

G. W. ZIMMERMAN VISITING HERE

G. W. Zimmerman, a former resident of Lisbon, but now residing at Akron, has been spending several weeks with relatives in Lisbon and friends in Center township.

Mr. Zimmerman three years ago observed his golden wedding anniversary at Akron, and a year ago buried his wife at Lisbon. He in earlier years served as deputy sheriff under three different administrations, and also served several terms as constable of Center township.

In early life he attended the Lisbon village schools. He and Mark Huston, of East Liverpool, were classmates.

ELECTION BILLS BEING FILED

Expense bills incurred as a result of the August primary election continue to be filed with the county board of elections and forwarded to the office of County Auditor Elmer E. Walker for payment.

Bills filed for payment during August totaled $4,076.10, and those filed for payment during September totaled $2,243.55. So far this month bills amounting to $68.91 have been filed for payment, and more are to be received. So far, the primary election has cost $6,388.56.

The majority of the bills yet to be received will be for the payment of room rent for polling places.

INJUNCTION SUIT FILED BY MORANZ

Sam Moranz, owner of the Grand theatre, Lisbon, has filed an action in common pleas court against John H. Hinchliffe, now operating the Lisbon opera house, seeking a mandatory injunction against the defendant compelling him to abide by the terms of an agreement to lease the opera house to the plaintiff, as filed for record August 6 last.

Moranz declares in his petition that he was to pay $150 per month in advance as rent, and that a certified check was tendered as the rent for the first month, but which was refused by the defendant. The certified check is attached to the petition and made a part of the record.

TWO MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

A marriage license has been granted by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle to John B. Rollins, a millworker residing at East Liverpool, and Miss Sarah Margaret Hall, a clerk, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Tim Hall of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. A. H. O'Brien at East Liverpool.

Clifton W. Arter, residing in New Jersey, and employed as an electrician, and Miss Margaret Edith Taggart, a music teacher, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Taggart of East Palestine, have been granted a marriage license. They are to be married by the Rev. Douglass of the East Palestine Methodist Episcopal church.

COUNTY SEALERS HOLD MEETING

W. H. Barr, county sealer of weights and measures, has returned from New Philadelphia, where a conference of sealers of weights and measures from the Northeastern Ohio district was held. This meeting was for the purpose of giving further discussion to the subject of filling station gasoline pumps.

In addition to Mr. Barr, the session was attended by representatives of the state division, also by W. O. Williams, Trumbull county; Howard Jones, of Youngstown, Mahoning county sealer, and Robert McDonald.

The various gasoline pumps now in use do not come up to the standards required by the state division, and it is declared that many pumps now in service will be eliminated from the authorized list of gasoline pumps.

Seeks Citizenship.

James Smith, aged 54 years, a native of England, and residing on rural route No. 2 out of East Liverpool, has filed his declaration of intent to become a citizen of the United States. He is employed as a pottery worker, and arrived at New York Nov. 20, 1906.

Repairing Highways.

On account of so many washouts and slips on both improved and unimproved roads in this county, and also damage to bridges, occasioned by recent heavy rains, both county and state road maintenance crews have more work in sight than can be handled conveniently. All of the work now being done by these crews has come under the head of emergency jobs. Probably two or three months will be required before roads and bridges are again in proper repair.

Divorce Action Filed.

A petition in divorce has been filed in common pleas court by Elizabeth Klamer against her husband, residing at No. 3 East Ninth street, Salem. Attorney K. L. Cobourn of Salem represents the plaintiff.

The couple were married July 6, 1914, at Lima. The petition alleges the defendant has been guilty of extreme cruelty.

In addition to a decree of divorce, the plaintiff asks the court to restore her to her maiden name, that of Elizabeth Lader.

Woman Seeks Divorce.

Charging her husband with gross neglect of duty, Elsie Boone, of Salem, by her counsel, H. H. Hickling, of Salem, has filed a petition for divorce against her husband, Paul Boone, in common pleas court.

"HARD" WINTER EXPECTED, SAYS WEATHER MAN

Severe Cold Season Looms if "Dope" is Correct.

RUN IN CYCLES

Abnormal Chilly Period Due, Law of Averages Indicates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—"Hard" winters run in cycles over a long period of years, according to observations of the U. S. Weather bureau.

Based upon this admitted fact the country is due this year for one of the most severe cold seasons since the abnormal winter of 1917. Weather bureau officials, discussing the weather of the next six months refused today, however, to make any predictions for the period.

Forecasters simply remarked that the last two or three winters have been somewhat above normal and if there is anything in the law of averages and weather performances since the first official observations were taken in 1870 a "hard' winter is overdue.

The bureau has been besieged with requests for information on winter possibilities in the temperature and storm line, but to all questions has confined itself to an exhibit of the graphic curves on weather maps of the past.

Elaborate studies are in prograss looking to possible long time predictions. The theories of weather forecasting on the basis of solar radiation and sun spots have been investigated but so far government forecasters are not ready to adopt these methods.

How I Dress My Hair

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

The thousands who see me daily on the stage wonder at my beautiful hair. It is wavy, glossy and abundant. Nearly everyone thinks that some wonderful hairdresser gives it daily care.

Not so—I'm too busy for that. I never go to a hairdresser, have never had a Marcel wave. I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. It is not sticky, not greasy. Before they made it I never dreamed a liquid could do so much. Now all toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c.

Nothing else I know gives a girl or woman so much added loveliness at once. No one can resist it when she knows. My guarantee comes with each bottle, so it costs you nothing if it doesn't please. Go try it at my expense.

Schools for Your Children

YOU,

Mothers of this community!

You have children to educate. You want good schools that your children may have advantages equal to those given the children of the mail-order man in the city.

Do you not know that when you buy of the mail-order man instead of the merchants of this town you are taking away from the opportunities your children should have?

The schools are supported by taxes OF WHICH THE MAIL-ORDER MAN DOES NOT PAY ONE CENT IN THIS TOWN, but the money you are sending to the city means greater wealth and more money in the school funds of the city, and less wealth and less money in the school funds of this town.

WHY NOT ASSIST IN EDUCATING YOUR OWN CHILDREN?

You can do it by spending your dollars with the merchants who are assisting in keeping up the schools here instead of sending them to the mail-order man.

You mothers can be boosters for this town and your own children if you will.

Think it over.

Fortunate are those who live, own property and work in East Liverpool and Columbiana County.

Happily situated in the great industrial center of the upper Ohio Valley.

Our hard surfaced roads converge at East Liverpool, where our stores are stocked with everything that Columbiana County folks need to buy—and at prices as low as you will find anywhere.

We all want East Liverpool and Columbiana County to grow in population and in prosperity, then we must all boost by work and deed.

Let's all pull together—Let's buy our merchandise from our own Columbiana County merchants.

Let's buy everything we can from merchants in the smaller towns of the county and from the merchants of East Liverpool.

Let's keep our money in Columbiana County where it will do double duty—increase prosperity, increase the value of our real estate, provide work for our people, keep our industries going, and keep our people happy and contented—WON'T YOU HELP?

LET'S SPEND OUR MONEY AT HOME!

Ohio State Favored to Trample Columbia In New York Game

Prowess Of Buckeyes Seen When Three Vets Are Forced To Bench

Five Sophomores Win Places, Ousting Former Regulars; Highly Touted Marek Subbing for Byrn Eby, Star of Last Year's Freshman Team; Only Three 1925 Veterans on Eastern Eleven.

By Sid Mercer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—When five sophomores can manage to win regular places on a varsity football team in spite of the presence of a veteran squad, there is reason to believe that that team will be much more powerful than it was the year before. That is the situation that prevails this season at Ohio State, with the result the Buckeyes are strongly favored to trample Columbia this afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

The Scarlet and Gray had a high class combination a year ago and of the eleven men who participated in the 9 to 0 victory over Columbia at Columbus, nine are at hand.

But three of these are going to be on the sidelines today, for better material has come up from a remarkable freshman team of a year ago. In addition, the places of both men lost by graduation are being filled by second-year men although some more experienced men of considerable ability are at hand.

On the other hand, this year's Columbia team is regarded as being somewhat weaker than was that of 1925. Schimeitisch, Wiberg, Wagner, Raphel and Aulick, stars who faced the Buckeyes last fall, no longer are available, and in addition, Pease, last year's captain, who was unable to play against Ohio State, an account of an injury, is missing.

With the exception of Madden, Sesit and Shaw, none of the members of this year's Columbia combination was a regular throughout the 1925 season. In spite of this Columbia has made a reasonably good showing in the three games it has played so far, all its opponents being held scoreless.

The brunt of Ohio State's attack today is expected to be borne by Captain Marty Karow, plunging fullback, who was a thorn in Columbia's side last year, and Byrn Eby, sensational sophomore running back. The latter has displaced the nightly touted Elmer Marek, one of the leading backs in the conference last fall, who however is expected to get into today's battle as a sub for Eby. On the line the most notable performer is likely to be Ed Hess, all-American guard.

Penn Picked By Experts to Win From Stagg's Chicago Gridders

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Pennsylvania and Chicago, more or less sincere prototypes of Eastern and Middle Western football, will meet this afternoon on Franklin field in a future resumption of their intermittent relationship and, six weeks hence, it may be that the outcome will exercise an abiding influence on the comparative reputation of the two great sections. Neither has lost a game to date but that detail probably will be attended to this afternoon.

The smart money has picked Chicago to finish second, largely because of Pennsylvania's rather impressive early season record in which it has averaged more than forty points in three games. As to that, Stagg's Maroon team is reputed to be better equipped than the 1925 outfit, in spite of a wholesale loss of stars.

Among the latter are McCarthy, the "five-yard" gent; Bob Curley, kicker of field goals; Henderson, a fine tackle; Lampe, a good end, and Timme, one of the regular backs. They gave the team a fine running attack but it lacked passing finesse. Today, it will have a sound attacking threat in Marks and, according to Pennsylvania scouts, a passing game employed with considerable deception.

It happens to be Alonzo Stagg's thirty-fourth year as coach at Chicago and he has been around too long to be unwilling to adapt his system to the material at hand. Chicago had to be a reasonably good team to beat Florida and Maryland as it did.

In fact, it may be that is was a better team in those games than Pennsylvania was in its first three, in spite of its high scores. It didn't meet the best in the world in Franklin and Marshall, John Hopkins and Swarthmore.

Penn also has stepped out with something new this year. It is a hidden ball attack, such as was used with marked success at Harvard and elsewhere some seasons ago. One must have the men to carry this business off successfully and Penn claims it has them in Murphy, the new quarterback, and Rogers and Fields, halfbacks. The latter is a reserve back who usually is turned loose in the fading moments of the game when the opposition is leg laden.

TIGERS TACKLE NAVY ELEVEN

Rival Coaches See Nothing But Bitter Battle.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 16.—Princeton tackles Navy in Palmer stadium here today in the most important test that either eleven has faced so far. The Tigers has fur to smooth after the showing against Washington and Lee on last Saturday. Princeton didn't look too good, and just about escaped with a tie. Navy has shown to somewhat better advantage than its rival, but not enough to give it any decided edge. Princeton has a happy knack of rising to an occasion. It may surprise this afternoon.

Neither William Roper, Princeton Coach, nor "Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of the Middes, can see anything but a bitter battle in store for his team.

Princeton will take the field with Captain Jack Davis on the side lines still nursing his pet tin ear. Jakie Slagle is hors du combat and will not be back until the Harvard game.

From Navy comes the wail that Shapely, one of the potent triple threats of the team, will be on the side lines. There are other men out of prime condition on the Navy squad.

Princeton has a knack of producing one hero when heroes are needed. There is always a man to do big things. Johnny Poe did it; John R. DeWitt did it, Sam White won two games in a single year and Garrity and Sherer rose to an emergency in a Yale game some years ago. Princeton is looking around for a hero to crown tonight.

Ted Williams started the game with Washington and Lee at quarterback and looked like a hero for a while. He scored a touchdown from a 60-yard run through the enemy team, but later he fumbled and the visitors scored a touchdown from that.

The probabilities are that Williams will get a good bit of action today, with Disston sharing the burden with him. Bridges, Prendergast, Miles and Norman look like backfield choices, while Earle Baruch and Jack Chandler will undoubtedly see service. Baruch is a triple threat of great possibility.

Princeton's line will have to show something swifter than it showed against Washington and Lee. With Davis out of action the center trio is not the strongest combination in the world.

Navy's ends and tackles will probably outshine the Tiger forwards in those positions. The middies boast four tackles in Captain Wickhorst, Eddy, Woerner and Olsen, who rank right with the best. I like the end play of Taylor and Lloyd, and there are ample reserves right down the line.

AKRON GRIDDERS BEATEN IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 16.—Smith Technical High school's eleven today is celebrating its victory in a tough football contest which it won from the Steel High school of Akron, O., here yesterday, 6 to 0.

Smith surprised the visitors and swept them off their feet during the first three minutes of play, scoring a touchdown but failing to make the extra point.

The Akron team then buckled down to business and held the local eleven scoreless throughout the remaining periods.

Dundee Heralded As Principal Foe Of Welter Champ

Wins Decision Over Jack Zivic in 10-round Battle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—There was no doubt in the minds of fight experts today that the outstanding challenger for the welterweight crown of Pete Latzo is Joe Dundee of Baltimore who last night defeated Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Zivic, after a good start, succumbed to Dundee's straight punching and untiring aggressiveness. He had Dundee on the ropes in the eighth but lost the remaining rounds with the exception of the second and third.

Zivic put up a stubborn battle, landing regularly to Dundee's jaw but the Baltimore battler retaliated by putting on more steam.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, won decision from Jack Zivic, of Pittsburgh, ten rounds. Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, won decision over Farmer Joe Cooper, of Indiana, ten rounds. Andy Di Vodi, of Bay Ridge, N. Y., won decision over Vince Dundee, of Philadelphia, six rounds. Alf Mancini, of England, won decison from Paul De Hate, of California, ten rounds.

AT BOSTON — Maxie Rosenbloom of Brooklyn won on a foul from Tiger Flowers, of Atlanta, Ga., middleweight champion, in the ninth round. The title was not at stake, as both men were over-weight.

AT LOS ANGELES—Doc Snell, of Tacoma, won decision over Jimmy McLarnin, Belfast, ten rounds.

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Young Jack Thompson, of Los Angeles, won a technical knockout over Billy Adams, of New Orleans, fifth round.

AT WATERLOO, Iowa. — Young Stribling, of Atlanta, knocked out Lou Rollinger in the third round.

AT PATERSON, N. J.—Jack De Mave of Hoboken, N. J., won from Jack Warren of Chicago, ten rounds.

AT SAVANNAH, Ga.—Pete McCoram of New York, knocked out Battling Finch, of Savannah, in the second round.

AT TAMPA, Fla.—Sammy Vogel, of New York, won decision from Armando Shekels, of Belgium, ten rounds.

AT YOUNGSTOWN, O. — Tommy Cello, of San Francisco, drew with Al Gordon, of Philadelphia, twelve rounds.

AT DAYTON, O.—Jim Stone, Dayton, defeated Tut Jackson, Washington, C. H., 8 rounds.

Bobby McGowan, Dayton, defeated Speedy Miller, Cincinnati, 8 rounds.

AT WINDSOR — Carl Tremaine, Cleveland, won decision over Ward Sparks, in 10 rounds.

Johnny Webber won from Mickey O'Neil, Cleveland.

Yale and Dartmouth Draw Monster Crowd In New Haven Tilt

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 16.—By motor car and railroad train 40,000 people advanced on New Haven today to join with as many residents to watch Dartmouth and Yale clash in the bowl this afternoon.

The game is expected to be the greatest of the year on Yale's schedule and while odds this morning favored Dartmouth there was an undercurrent that favored Yale to win.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Another thing that blends well with the points I have previously cited about the forward swing is a fairly tight feeling in the fingers and wrists. By tight I do not mean rigidity, but I do caution players to beware of hands and wrists that are wobbly and entirely too loose. After all, you are going to hit a blow with your club and common sense can dictate to you what amounts to enough of a hold on the weapon to give you a hitting feeling. Often in iron shots an absolute rigidity in the wrists does no harm at all, but for longer shots the wrists must be free enough so they can swing the clubhead through just as it gets to the ball. This amounts to a sort of chopping action with the wrists, like you would use the wrists in driving a nail. The wrists thus give you the last ounce of power application. In tightening up the grip be careful to leave the wrists free enough for this chopping—or flicking—action at the ball.

13 HOODOO HOLDS GOOD FOR MOUNTS

ALLIANCE, Oct. 16.—Thirteen may be lucky for some people but 13 points have been mighty unlucky for the Royal Purple of Mount Union college. It has cost Coach Jack Thorpe's boys three football games in the past two years.

Last Saturday Mount lost to Oberlin 7-2. Last year to Wooster 6-0 and Miami 8-6. Mount was outscored in the three games just 13 points. Two of the touchdowns were of the fluke variety. Only one was scored from scrimmage, Miami being the only team to break through Mount's defense in the two seasons.

ARMY TO BATTLE SYRACUSE TODAY

WEST POINT, Oct. 16.—While the eyes of the Big Three may rest on Dartmouth and Yale today, and the orbs of the West lean heavily toward Pennsylvania and Chicago, the gaze of all Uncle Sam's soldiers peer across the miles from a score of outposts toward this historic old point.

For the Army in meeting Syracuse is undergoing its baptism of fire today, the baptism that will make or break it as a contender for national honors. Not since Ellinger, Fariwk and Garbisch has West Point had such a football team as "Biff" Jones drives this year and not in a decade have their hopes for supreme honors been as bright.

Greys and All Stars To Battle At Chester

Local Eleven, Playing First Game, Expects Tough Game With Undefeated West Virginians.

UNBEATEN in their first two games of the season, the Chester Valley All-Stars will tackle the East Liverpool Greys tomorrow afternoon at Smith field, Chester, in a contest that probably will tax the ability of the West Virginians to a far greater extent than either of the engagements in which the Stars have recorded victories.

In their opening game of the present campaign the Chester eleven won from the Mingo Indians and last Sunday nosed out a conquest over the Salineville Independents.

But, while confident, they are not expecting to walk away from the Greys tomorrow. The Greys are more or less familiar with the tactics and abilities of the Valley Stars' individual performers and consequently can be expected to develop a more intelligent and ,withal, a more effective defense against the Chester team's ground gaining moves.

Management of the Hancock county organization today announced that Dave Morgan, of Monaca, Pa., who starred at halfback for Belleconte Academy for the last two years, probably will don a Chester uniform for duty in the backfield tomorrow. If Morgan plays he can be depended upup to increase the effectiveness of the Chester eleven's attack considerably.

The Greys, only recently organized, have been working smoothly in practice sessions this week, but have yet to face the actual test. Nevertheless they are confident, if anything, that they will be able to give their rivals a better fight than either Mingo or Salineville.

The contest is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

Tulane-New York U. Clash Expected to Develop Punt Duel

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A kicking duel is expected in the intersectional football game at Yankee stadium this afternoon between the crack Tulane eleven and New York University, unbeaten so far this season.

Each of the contending teams has a pair of the best punters in the game—Kenneth Strong and Jack Connor for "Chick" Meehans's local violets, and Eddie Morgan and Johnny Menville for the big green wave team of New Orleans.

"Mike" Strong, who has been playing halfback for N. Y. U. is considered the longest punter on the collegiate gridiron this season but he has not yet been able to master the direction in which he wants the ball to travel. For this reason Connor, acting captain of the violet eleven, is more dependable, for there is none in the game who can send his spirals with such uncanny accuracy as does the former Exeter star.

GOPHERS PLAY MICHIGAN TEAM

Notre-Dame-Penn State is Mid-West Attraction Today.

By George A. Strickler.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. — While Ohio State is giving New York city its first glimpse of a Big Ten team and Chicago makes another appearance at Philadelphia in intersectional games, the remainder of the conference will run the first heat in their annual championship relay.

Outside of the Ohio State-Columbia game in which the Buckeyes hold a slight edge, and the Chicago-Pennsylvania tilt, which the Quakers are conceded outright, mid-western interest will center at Ann Arbor where Minnesota and Michigan tangle in the first of their two games this season.

Michigan, the outstanding team of the conference, is primed for its first hard game of the year and will probably blast all Gopher hopes for revenge.

Iowa, the homecoming guest at Urbana, will stake its ace, Cowboy Kutsch, against "Frosty" Peters, the Red Grange of Zuppke's 1926 entry, in an attempt to repeat last year's victory over the alma mater of its coach, Bert Ingwersen. Iowa's chances were better last year than they are this, and only a favor from fate is held out as the Hawkeye's hope.

Wisconsin at Purdue is the favorite, but the Boilermakers have encountered stiff competition in their early season games and might spring a surprise on the Badgers, who have yet to prove themselves worthy of all the good words spoken for them in pre-season resumes.

Pat Page will make his first appearance in the conference as a head coach at Evanston against Glen Thistlethwaite's Northwestern eleven. Northwestern's experience gives it a great advantage over the sophomore aggregation from Indiana.

The mid-west's intersectional attraction will be offered at Notre Dame where the Ramblers meet Penn State. Notre Dame seems pre-ordained to victory, Rockne himself having declared the South Bend outfit the better club by a comfortable margin.

Every time the bottom falls out of the stock market another class graduates from the School of Experience.—Mansfield Journal.

BOOK FOUR—V.

Jock sat down; then in one swift swoop he was up again, towering over Bones' chair, holding him by the shoulders. "You big bum, quit stalling, will you? Where's that mother of mine? And what's she up to? And how come Ken and the rest are aching about having done me wrong? Tell me that!"

"Well, they did you wrong, didn't they?"

"But how do they know they did?"

"They've read Brad's letter," said Bones quite matter-of-factly.

There was utter stillness after that. Jock released his hold on Bones' shoulders and backed away slowly. Bones examined the ceiling once more. "Of course," he observed finally, "they should have read it weeks ago. Everybody should have. Would have, too, if I'd known there was such a thing in captivity."

When this elicited no response, he said further, "But people who live in tin boxes shouldn't have mothers! Some of your possessions, my good fellow, were—were—well, I blushed for you, I did really. That drool by Professor Whosis, for example—"

"Where's the letter now?" Jock demanded. "Have you got it?"

"No."

"Then mother has. What's she doing with it, making a house-to-house canvass?"

"Wrong both times. Your mother hasn't the letter, and she's not making a house-to-house canvass. There are ways and means more efficacious—whew, efficacious!" Beyond this word Bones seemed unable to proceed. He repeated it several times with growing enthusiasm, and looked to Jock for plaudit and praise. "How 'bout that? Ain't she a lulu? Efficacious! Say, did I make that up or did Webster? Reminds me of the game we used to play when we were kids—you know, like this: 'Mr. and Mrs. Kashus and daughter Effie Kashus—'"

"Ass!" bellowed Jock. He was beginning, despite him, to feel blissfully light of heart. He wanted to laugh. His chest ached with captive laughter. And so he bellowed "Ass!" in a great voice and glowered at Bones with all the ferocity he could assume. "Where is that letter?"

"The—oh, the letter. Why, Pink Davis took it to math class. You know," Bones raised his voice slightly, "how math class is. The boys have to do something to while away the time. Pink and I thought they might as well be reading the letter as—"

"And where's mother?" Futile question now, for he knew, beyond any doubt.

"If you must know, she's putting the skids under Eunice," said Bones, "—but don't start after her! Because it'll be over my dead body. She told me to keep you away till she was through. Said she was going to see to it that you wouldn't be let in if you did go."

"I wasn't. I've already been there."

"No foolin'!"

"Yup. Just now. Eunice—she—oh, Lord—" His face crinkled, and he laughed at last, helplessly, convulsively, leaning against the edge of the desk. "Bones, honest—you should see Eunice—mad—with the paint job off—she looks—she looks like hell—"

His hilarity passed in time. It had never been hilarity, really; just a tremendous release, a healing, in hilarity's guise. Jock sat quiet. Bye and bye he swung himself erect and walked over to a smoking stand in a corner, where he stood fumbling with pipe and tobacco. "Poor old Brad," he murmured.

But even as Bones opened his mouth to protest this indication of a contrite mood, Jock turned around again, shining-eyed. "Boy, haven't I got some mother?" he said simply.

VI.

He had firmly believed that within a day or two after he left college, or within a week at most, he would be numbered among the workers of the world. He had pictured himself going to New York early every morning, one of the army of alert, business-looking young men who spilled over daily from Jersey, and returning with them every evening, full of the fever of commerce. In the interim, of course, the picture grew dim, for what work he would do was still problematical. But it would be something. Something in an airy big office high up in a tall building, at a mahogany desk with a telephone on it and a stenographer efficient but not too hard on the eyes sitting near. And it would be soon, without delay.

It wasn't, however. When the time came for him to bestir himself, he was bound in lassitude. "Tomorrow," said his soul. "Tomorrow you can see about a job. Today, just take it easy." And he did . . . while the todays and tomorrows strung themselves together into weeks, two weeks, three weeks, of soft idyllic idleness.

Every now and then he awoke briefly and ranted at himself. "You lazy good-for-nothing! You big hunk of cheese! Get going, will you? You left college to work, remember, not to loaf in the sun." Yet he continued to loaf in the sun. He literally had to, for a while. He was convalescing, from mental stress and strain so acute that its snap had left him limp as a string and in need of this interlude.

The matter of Eunice was settled; his mother had attended to that thoroughly. And he had gone from the campus with apologies and retractions singing in his ears and the glow of his comrades' regard in his heart. It had hurt rather terribly, that departure; when he drove away the road had blurred before his eyes as though there were rain on the windshield. But now. . . . Ah-h, to be at home! To sleep until noon in a bed like a silky white cloud! To breakfast on unquestionable eggs, and peerless coffee, and cream that fell ploff from the pitcher! To see the hours lined up, waiting, like minions for his bidding! To be his own master, free, and to have on his mind no lingering shadow whatever! These things were sweet beyond measure, and precluded all regrets.

He became acquainted with his mother, and adored her. There were long conversations at bedtime, or in the dreamy afternoons, when they discussed things ethical, things psychological, things political, things obstetrical—any and every kind of thing. He found her mind a labyrinth for fascinating exploration, her personality endlessly beguiling. He took her to fly wild miles in the roadster, exulting in her sportsmanship, for she never cried out, never pressed the floor with an instinctive right foot, never clung frantically, frightenedly, to the side. He accompanied her to plays and gave her selected books to read, to hear what she would say of them, and was often surprised but never disappointed. She existed in his thoughts much less as a mother than as a sweetheart, a contemporary, a friend.

Two afternoons they spent apartment-hunting. The idea was Jock's. "No percentage in staying on in this house. Darn thing's too big! Why rattle around like a couple of bugs in a bucket? Let's sell it, and take an apartment in the city." It seemed feasible. A New York dwelling would be convenient to "the office" (so spake Jock, laughing at himself) and wonderfully convenient to Yvonne; and now that Mrs. Hamill's coterie had fallen in number from 60 to a nightly bridge-mad three, space was no longer requisite. So they hunted, and found what they wanted—eight livable rooms in an apartment house overlooking Central Park. They were to move the first week in April.

ed by the Bureau of Mines that have done much toward saving the lives of miners include the establishment of standards for electrical equipment that should be used in mines and what are known as permissible explosives.

Manufacturers of electrical equipmet have found it highly expedient to comply with the specifications of the Federad agency, and there are few mines now where explosives are being used that and not of the type that the Bureau approves.

But for all the safety work that has been done, mining continues to be the most hazardous of occupations in which large numbers of workers are engaged. In 1924, 2,381 men were killed in coal mine accidents in this country—one for every 251,000 tons of coal produced.

Resolution No. 383.

DECLARING IT NECESSARY TO IMPROVE SEWER DISTRICT NUMBER TWO COMMENCING AT THE INTERSECTION OF YOUNG'S ALLEY AND STEWART STREET, THENCE ON AND ALONG STEWART STREET TO DAISY ALLEY, THENCE ON AND ALONG DAISY ALLEY TO AN UNNAMED ALLEY RIGHT OPPOSITE GRANT STREET BY CONSTRUCTING THEREIN A SANITARY SEWER OF HARD BURNED VITRIFIED SEWER PIPE.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio: (Three-fourths of all the members elected thereto concurring):

SECTION I. That it is necessary to improve Sewer District Number Two commencing at the intersection of Young's Alley and Stewart Street, thence on and along Stewart street to Daisy Alley, thence on and along Daisy Alley to an unnamed alley right opposite Grant Street by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, together with all necessary manholes, flush tanks, branch connections and doing everything else necessary or essential for the proper completion of said improvement in accordance with the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles hereinafter mentioned.

SECTION II. That the grade of said sewer shall be shown on said plans, profiles and specifications, which are by reference made a part hereof.

SECTION III. That the plans, profiles, specifications and estimates of said proposed improvement heretofore prepared by the City Engineer and now on file in the Office of the Director fo Public Service, where the same are open for public inspection, be and the same are hereby approved.

SECTION IV. That the whole cost of said improvement less one-fiftieth (1/50) thereof shall be assessed by the foot frontage upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit:

All lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement between and including the termini of said improvement, which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement, and in an amount to be levied and assessed, respectively, pursuant hereto; and the cost of said improvement shall include the cost and expense of the preliminary and other surveys, and of printing and publishing the notices, resolutions and ordinances required, and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction, together with interest on notes and bonds issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

SECTION V. That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in five (5) annual Installments with interest on deferred payments, at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection tehreof; said rate not to exceed six per cent (6%) per annum; provided that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty (30) days from and after the passage of the assesing ordinance.

SECTION VI. That bonds fo the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, shall be issued in anticipation of the levy and collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

SECTION VII. That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement not specially assessed, shall be paid by the issuance of bonds, in the manner provided by law.

PERSONAL WORK WEEK SERVICES

Dr. Hugh Guy Black Will Open Campaign Tomororw.

Dr. Hugh Guy Black, evangelist, of Greencastle, Ind., will come to East Liverpool tomorrow to open a week's campaign of union personal evangelistic services in which a dozen or more Protestant churches will cooperate. The campaign will be under the auspices of the Ministerial association.

The opening meeting will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The services on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be preceded by a 6:15 o'clock dinner.

The Monday and Tuesday evening services will be held in the First Church of Christ. Women of the First Church of Christ will serve the dinner on Monday, while the women of the First Baptist church will be in charge of the dinner on Tuesday evening. Services on Wednesday and Thursday evening will be held in the First Presbyterian church. The Presbyterian women will be in charge of the meal on Wednesday, while the women of the First United Presbyterian church will prepare the dinner on Thursday. The final meeting will be conducted in the First Methodist Episcopal on Friday evening, with the women of that church serving the meal.

Churches co-operating in the movement will be represented at the meetings by a large committee.

WHEN YOU USE THIS GENUINE

Straight Run and Double Refined Gasoline

Gasoline which is not "sick" does not need "doctoring."

The manufacturer of your motor will not advise the use of any "dope," as your motor was designed and built to use a high-grade, clean-burning gasoline.

You can't treat an inferior gasoline with a patent medicine and expect to get good gasoline. No more than you can counteract the effect of a bad egg in an omelet by adding fresh ones.

Ask the mechanic at your repair garage the condition of motors he has torn down in which "Colored Gasoline Dopes" have been used. That's the test.
